FOREWORD

1. These By-Laws are made by the Council of the Malaysian Institute of Accountants (the ‘Institute’) on 29 July 2010 pursuant to Section 10(a) of the Accountants Act 1967, and shall come into effect on 1 January 2011 unless otherwise stated herein.

2. These By-Laws may be cited collectively as the By-Laws (On Professional Ethics, Conduct and Practice) of the Malaysian Institute of Accountants [Issued December 2010] and revokes and supercedes the Institute’s existing By-Laws (On Professional Conduct and Ethics) [Issued January 2007] and other By-Laws that have been issued by the Council. However, such revocation shall not affect any investigation or disciplinary proceedings before the Investigation Committee or the Disciplinary Committee respectively in respect of any offences or breaches committed pursuant to the relevant By-Laws applicable at the time of the offence or breach.

3. The By-Laws (On Professional Ethics, Conduct and Practice) of the Malaysian Institute of Accountants comprise of two main parts. Part I relates to the By-Laws on Professional Ethics which is substantially based on the Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants issued by the International Federation of Accountants (IFAC). The By-Laws on Professional Ethics establishes the ethical requirements and standards applicable to all members of the Institute as professional accountants. Part II of these By-Laws relates to the By-Laws on Professional Conduct and Practice which contain prescriptive obligations applicable to members or member firms (as defined herein) of the Institute in respect of their professional conduct or the practice of their firms.

4. The By-Laws (On Professional Ethics, Conduct and Practice) of the Malaysian Institute of Accountants set the standards of professional ethics and professional conduct for members and member firms in view of the professional responsibilities and duties owed to their clients, employers, the authorities and the public. In recognising the significant role played by the accountancy profession in society, these By-Laws have been framed with the objective that members exhibit the highest standards of ethics, professionalism and professional conduct that are expected of the profession.

5. A breach of these By-Laws will prima facie give rise to a complaint of unprofessional conduct against the member concerned. As such, members who fail to observe proper standards of ethics and professional conduct as set out in these by-laws may be required to answer a complaint before the Investigation and the Disciplinary Committees of the Institute pursuant to the Malaysian Institute of Accountants (Disciplinary) Rules 2002 [P.U.(A) 229/2002].

6. This Foreword and the Definitions set out in the next section, form part of these By-Laws and should be construed accordingly. Likewise, any additional guidance, explanatory notes or commentary which are included in these By-Laws to provide further guidance or to explain the intention and meaning of a certain paragraph or sub-paragraph of the By-Laws, also form part of these By-Laws and should be construed accordingly. However, the additional guidance, explanatory notes or commentary are not and cannot be all encompassing and it is for members to exercise their own judgment in applying the principles and the spirit of the By-Laws to the circumstances in which they find themselves at any given time.

7. Due compliance with the provisions in these By-Laws is the responsibility of each member as professional accountants.

8. The Council of the Institute may from time to time amend these By-Laws. It is the responsibility of members to update themselves and ensure that they understand, comprehend and implement the requirements in these By-Laws.

1 January 2011

NOTE: Whilst Part I of the By-Laws substantially incorporates the IFAC Code of Ethics, additions or deletions have been made to Part I and the Definitions section to ensure consistency with the Malaysian regulatory or legislative framework and to suit the Malaysian professional environment, or to incorporate additional provisions that were originally contained in the Institute’s By-Laws (On Professional Conduct and Ethics) [Issued January 2007].
DEFINITIONS

In these By-Laws, the following expressions have the following meanings assigned to them, unless the context clearly requires otherwise:

(i) acceptable level A level at which a reasonable and informed third party would be likely to conclude, weighing all the specific facts and circumstances available to the professional accountant at that time, that compliance with the fundamental principles is not compromised.

(iii) advertising The communication to the public of information as to the services or skills provided by professional accountants in public practice with a view to procuring professional business.

(iv) assurance client The responsible party that is the person (or persons) who:

(a) In a direct reporting engagement, is responsible for the subject matter; or

(b) In an assertion-based engagement, is responsible for the subject matter information and may be responsible for the subject matter.

(v) assurance engagement An engagement in which a professional accountant in public practice expresses a conclusion designed to enhance the degree of confidence of the intended users other than the responsible party about the outcome of the evaluation or measurement of a subject matter against criteria.

(For guidance on assurance engagements see the International Framework for Assurance Engagements issued by the International Auditing and Assurance Standards Board which describes the elements and objectives of an assurance engagement and identifies engagements to which International Standards on Auditing (ISAs), International Standards on Review Engagements (ISREs) and International Standards on Assurance Engagements (ISAEs) apply.)

(vi) assurance team (a) All members of the engagement team for the assurance engagement;

(b) All others within a firm who can directly influence the outcome of the assurance engagement, including:

(i) those who recommend the compensation of, or who provide direct supervisory, management or other oversight of the assurance engagement partner in connection
DEFINITIONS

(4) with the performance of the assurance engagement. For the purposes of a financial statement audit engagement this includes those at all successively senior levels above the engagement partner through the firm’s chief executive;

(ii) those who provide consultation regarding technical or industry specific issues, transactions or events for the assurance engagement; and

(iii) those who provide quality control for the assurance engagement, including those who perform the engagement quality control review for the assurance engagement.

(vii) audit client An entity in respect of which a firm conducts an audit engagement. When the client is a listed entity, audit client will always include its related entities. When the audit client is not a listed entity, audit client includes those related entities over which the client has direct or indirect control.

(viii) audit engagement A reasonable assurance engagement in which a professional accountant in public practice expresses an opinion whether financial statements are prepared, in all material respects (or give a true and fair view or are presented fairly, in all material respects,); in accordance with an applicable financial reporting framework, such as an engagement conducted in accordance with International Standards on Auditing. This includes a Statutory Audit, which is an audit required by legislation or other regulation.

(ix) audit team (a) All members of the engagement team for the audit engagement;

(b) All others within a firm who can directly influence the outcome of the audit engagement, including:

(i) Those who recommend the compensation of, or who provide direct supervisory, management or other oversight of the engagement partner in connection with the performance of the audit engagement including those at all successively senior levels above the engagement partner through to the individual who is the firm’s Senior or Managing Partner (Chief Executive or equivalent);

(ii) Those who provide consultation regarding technical or industry specific issues,
DEFINITIONS

transactions or events for the engagement; and

(iii) Those who provide quality control for the engagement, including those who perform the engagement quality control review for the engagement; and

(c) All those within a network firm who can directly influence the outcome of the audit engagement

(x) CARE Chartered Accountant’s Relevant Experience.

(An assessment programme that focuses on the entry level of competency required for admission as a Chartered Accountant of the Institute)

(xi) close family A parent, child or sibling, who is not an immediate family member.

(xii) commission Commission includes commission paid in cash and in kind.

(xiii) contingent fee A fee calculated on a predetermined basis relating to the outcome of a transaction or the result of the services performed by the firm. A fee that is established by a court or other public authority is not a contingent fee.

(xiv) Council The Council of the Malaysian Institute of Accountants established by section 8 of the Act.

(xv) CPE Continuing Professional Education.

(xvi) CPE cycle CPE cycle is three consecutive calendar years commencing on:

(a) the first day of the calendar year immediately following the end of the previous CPE cycle applicable to the professional accountant; or

(b) (i) the first day of the calendar year in which the professional accountant is first admitted to the Institute, if first admitted prior to 30 June of that year; or

(ii) first day of the calendar year immediately following the year in which the professional accountant is first admitted to the Institute, if first admitted after 30 June of that year.

(xvii) CPE learning activities CPE learning activities that develop and maintain capabilities to enable professional accountants to perform competently within their professional environments. CPE learning activities may comprise of structured and unstructured learning activities.

(xviii) direct financial interest

A financial interest which is:

(a) Owned directly by and under the control of an individual or entity (including those managed on a discretionary basis by others); or

(b) Beneficially owned through a collective investment vehicle, estate, trust or other intermediary over which the individual or entity has control.

(xix) director or officer

Those charged with the governance of an entity, or acting in an equivalent capacity, regardless of their title, and include those persons defined as such in section 4(1) of the Companies Act 1965.

(xx) engagement partner

The partner in the firm who is responsible for the engagement and its performance, and for the report that is issued on behalf of the firm, and who, where required, has the appropriate authority from a professional, legal or regulatory body.

Amended on 1 November 2013;
effective 1 January 2014.

(xxi) engagement quality control review

A process designed to provide an objective evaluation, on or before the report is issued, of the significant judgments the engagement team made and the conclusions they reached in formulating the report.

(xxii) engagement team

All partners and staff performing the engagement, and any individuals engaged by the firm or a network firm who perform assurance procedures on the engagement. This excludes external experts engaged by the firm or by a network firm.

The term “engagement team” also excludes individuals within the client’s internal audit function who provide direct assistance on an audit engagement when the external auditor complies with the requirements of ISA 610 (Revised 2013), Using the Work of Internal Auditors.¹

effective for audits of financial statements for periods ending on or after December 15, 2014.

¹ ISA 610 (Revised 2013) establishes limits on the use of direct assistance. It also acknowledges that the external auditor may be prohibited by law or regulation from obtaining direct assistance from internal auditors. Therefore, the use of direct assistance is restricted to situations where it is permitted.
DEFINITIONS

(xxiii) existing accountant  A professional accountant in public practice currently holding an audit appointment or carrying out accounting, taxation, consulting or similar professional services for a client.

(xxiv) external expert  An individual (who is not a partner or a member of the professional staff, including temporary staff, of the firm or a network firm) or organization possessing skills, knowledge and experience in a field other than accounting or auditing, whose work in that field is used to assist the professional accountant in obtaining sufficient appropriate evidence.

(xxv) financial interest  An interest in equity or other security, debenture, loan or other debt instrument of an entity, including rights and obligations to acquire such an interest and derivatives directly related to such interest.

(xxvi) financial statements  A structured representation of historical financial information, including related notes, intended to communicate an entity’s economic resources or obligations at a point in time or the changes therein for a period of time in accordance with a financial reporting framework. The related notes ordinarily comprise a summary of significant accounting policies and other explanatory information. The term can relate to a complete set of financial statements, but it can also refer to a single financial statement, for example, a balance sheet, or a statement of revenues and expenses, and related explanatory notes.

(xxvii) financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion  In the case of a single entity, the financial statements of that entity. In the case of consolidated financial statements, also referred to as group financial statements, the consolidated financial statements.

(xxviii) firm  (a) A sole practitioner, partnership (including conventional partnership or limited liability partnership) or corporation of professional accountants;

Amended on 6 December 2012; effective immediately.

(b) An entity that controls such parties through ownership, management or other means; or

(c) An entity controlled by such parties through ownership, management or other means.
DEFINITIONS

(xxix) historical financial information
Information expressed in financial terms in relation to a particular entity, derived primarily from that entity’s accounting system, about economic events occurring in past time periods or about economic conditions or circumstances at points in time in the past.

(xxx) immediate family
A spouse (or equivalent) or dependant.

(xxxi) independence
Independence is:
(a) Independence of mind – the state of mind that permits the expression of a conclusion without being affected by influences that compromise professional judgment, thereby allowing an individual to act with integrity, and exercise objectivity and professional skepticism.

(b) Independence in appearance – the avoidance of facts and circumstances that are so significant that a reasonable and informed third party would be likely to conclude, weighing all the specific facts and circumstances that a firm’s, or a member of the audit assurance team’s, integrity, objectivity or professional skepticism has been compromised.

(xxxii) indirect financial interest
A financial interest beneficially owned through a collective investment vehicle, estate, trust or other intermediary over which the individual or entity has no control or ability to influence investment decisions.

(xxxiii) Institute
The Malaysian Institute of Accountants established by section 3 of the Act.

(xxxiv) key audit partner
The engagement partner, the individual responsible for the engagement quality control review, and other audit partners, if any, on the engagement team who make key decisions or judgments on significant matters with respect to the audit of the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion. Depending upon the circumstances and the role of the individuals on the audit, “other audit partners” may include, for example, audit partners responsible for significant subsidiaries or divisions.

(xxxv) listed entity
An entity whose shares, stock or debt are quoted or listed on a recognized stock exchange, or are marketed under the regulations of a recognized stock exchange or other equivalent body.

(xxxvi) member
A professional accountant who is registered with the Institute in accordance with the Act as a chartered accountant, licensed accountant or an associate member.
DEFINITIONS

(xxxvii) member in public practice

A member (other than an associate member) who as a sole proprietor or in a partnership, provides or is engaged in public practice services in return for a fee or reward for such services otherwise than as an employee, and who holds a valid practicing certificate issued pursuant to rule 9 of the Malaysian Institute of Accountants (Membership and Council) Rules 2001.

(This definition is narrower than the definition of professional accountants in public practice below, as it is confined to those members providing public practice services who hold valid practicing certificates.)

(xxxviii) member firm

A firm which consists of persons who are members of the Institute and which is established pursuant to section 500 herein.

Amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

(xxxix) network

A larger structure:

(a) That is aimed at co-operation, and

(b) That is clearly aimed at profit or cost sharing or shares common ownership, control or management, common quality control policies and procedures, common business strategy, the use of common brand-name, or a significant part of professional resources.

(xl) network firm

A firm or entity that belongs to a network.

(xli) office

A distinct sub-group, whether organized on geographical or practice lines.

(xlii) partnership

Refers to a conventional partnership and a limited liability partnership.

Amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

(xliii) professional accountant

Member of the Institute.

(xlv) professional accountant in business

A professional accountant employed or engaged in an executive or non-executive capacity in such areas as commerce, industry, service, the public sector, education, the not for profit sector, regulatory bodies or professional bodies, or a professional accountant contracted by such entities.

(professional accountant in public practice)

A professional accountant, irrespective of functional classification (e.g., audit, tax or consulting) in a firm that provides public practice services. This term is also used to refer to a firm of professional accountants in public practice.

(professional services)

Services requiring accountancy or related skills performed by a professional accountant including accounting, auditing, taxation, management consulting and financial management services.

(public interest entity)

An entity which is of significant public interest because, as a result of the type of business, size or corporate status, that entity has a wide range of stakeholders. Such entities possess certain authority or enjoy a particular position in society where public accountability can be deemed to exist wherein it is likely that there may be sufficient stakeholders who base their resource allocation decisions upon their knowledge of such entities. Such entities include listed entities, non-listed public companies falling within the purview of the regulatory authorities such as the Securities Commission or Bank Negara Malaysia, or statutory bodies or government controlled entities that are of significant public interest, and which require audits.

(public practice services)

Services requiring accountancy or related skills performed by a professional accountant in public practice including:

(a) auditing (including internal auditing);
(b) accounting and all forms of accounting related consultancy;
(c) accounting related investigations or due diligence;
(d) forensic accounting;
(e) taxation, tax advice and consultancy;
(f) bookkeeping;
(g) costing and management accounting;
(h) insolvency, liquidation and receiverships;
(i) provision of management information systems and internal controls;
(j) provision of secretarial services under the Companies Act, 1965; or
(k) such other services as the Council may from time to time prescribe.
DEFINITIONS

(xlix) related entity An entity that has any of the following relationships with the client:

(a) An entity that has direct or indirect control over the client provided the client is material to such entity;

(b) An entity with a direct financial interest in the client if that entity has significant influence over the client and the interest in the client is material to such entity;

(c) An entity over which the client has direct or indirect control;

(d) An entity in which the client, or an entity related to the client under (c) above, has a direct financial interest that gives it significant influence over such entity and the interest is material to the client and its related entity in (c); and

(e) An entity which is under common control with the client (a “sister entity”) if the sister entity and the client are both material to the entity that controls both the client and sister entity.

(l) review client An entity in respect of which a firm conducts a review engagement.

(li) review engagement An assurance engagement, conducted in accordance with International Standards on Review Engagements or equivalent, in which a professional accountant in public practice expresses a conclusion on whether, on the basis of the procedures which do not provide all the evidence that would be required in an audit, anything has come to the accountant’s attention that causes the accountant to believe that the financial statements are not prepared, in all material respects, in accordance with an applicable financial reporting framework.

(lii) review team

(a) All members of the engagement team for the review engagement; and

(b) All others within a firm who can directly influence the outcome of the review engagement, including:

(i) Those who recommend the compensation of, or who provide direct supervisory, management or other oversight of the engagement partner in connection with the performance of the review engagement including those at all successively senior levels above the engagement partner through to the individual who is the firm’s Senior or Managing Partner (Chief Executive or equivalent);

(ii) Those who provide consultation regarding technical or industry specific issues, transactions or events for the engagement; and

(iii) Those who provide quality control for the engagement, including those who perform the engagement quality control review for the engagement; and

(c) All those within a network firm who can directly influence the outcome of the review engagement.

(liii) Rules

The rules of the Institute made from time to time pursuant to section 7 of the Act and duly gazetted.

(liv) special purpose financial statements

Financial statements prepared in accordance with a financial reporting framework designed to meet the financial information needs of specified users.

(iv) structured CPE learning activities

CPE learning activities which have a clear set of objectives and a logical framework. Structured CPE learning activities include attendances either as presenter/lecturer or participant at short courses, conferences and seminars, recognized post-graduate studies or diploma courses and formal ‘home study’ or distance learning courses which require participation and assessment. Such activities include participation or rendering services in a technical committee where technical material is prepared by the professional accountant, or writing technical articles, papers or books for publication.

(lvi) those charged with governance

The person(s) or organization(s) (for example, a corporate trustee) with responsibility for overseeing the strategic direction of the entity and obligations related to the accountability of the entity. This includes overseeing the financial reporting process. For some entities in some jurisdictions, those charged with governance may include management personnel, for example, executive members of a governance board of a private or public sector entity, or an owner-manager.

PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

EXPLANATORY FOREWORD

1. Part I of the By-Laws of the Institute consists of the By-Laws on Professional Ethics which incorporates the Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants issued by the International Federation of Accountants (IFAC) revised in July 2009 and as amended by IFAC from time to time, as well as additional requirements applicable to the Malaysian regulatory and professional environment. The By-Laws on Professional Ethics establishes the ethical requirements and standards applicable to all members of the Institute as professional accountants.

2. A distinguishing mark of the accountancy profession is its acceptance of the responsibility to act in the public interest. Therefore, a professional accountant’s responsibility is not exclusively to satisfy the needs of an individual client or employer. In acting in the public interest, a professional accountant shall observe and comply with the ethical requirements in these By-Laws.

3. The By-Laws on Professional Ethics consists of three parts. Part A establishes the fundamental principles of professional ethics for professional accountants and provides a conceptual framework that professional accountants shall apply to:
   (a) Identify threats to compliance with the fundamental principles,
   (b) Evaluate the significance of the threats identified; and
   (c) Apply safeguards, when necessary, to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. Safeguards are necessary when the professional accountant determines that the threats are not at a level at which a reasonable and informed third party would be likely to conclude, weighing all the specific facts and circumstances available to the professional accountant at that time, that compliance with the fundamental principles is not compromised.

   A professional accountant shall use professional judgment in applying this conceptual framework.

4. Parts B and C describe how the conceptual framework applies in certain situations. They provide examples of safeguards that may be appropriate to address threats to compliance with the fundamental principles. They also describe situations where safeguards are not available to address the threats, and consequently, the circumstance or relationship creating the threats shall be avoided. Part B applies to professional accountants in public practice. Part C applies to professional accountants in business. Professional accountants in public practice may also find the guidance in Part C relevant to their particular circumstances.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

5. The use of the word “shall” in this By-Laws imposes a requirement on the professional accountant or firm to comply with the specific provision in which “shall” has been used. Compliance is required unless prohibited by law or regulation or an exception is permitted by this By-Laws.

6. Statutory provisions and laws in Malaysia prevails over the By-laws and it is not required to be mentioned in the specific related provisions of the By-Laws. It is implied throughout the By-Laws where applicable that statutory provisions and laws in Malaysia shall prevail over the By-Laws.

PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Section 100 Fundamental Principles and Conceptual Framework

Fundamental Principles

100.1 A professional accountant shall comply with the following fundamental principles:

(a) Integrity - to be straightforward and honest in all professional and business relationships.

(b) Objectivity - to not allow bias, conflict of interest or undue influence of others to override professional or business judgments.

(c) Professional Competence and Due Care - to maintain professional knowledge and skill at the level required to ensure that a client or employer receives competent professional services based on current developments in practice, legislation and techniques and act diligently and in accordance with applicable technical and professional standards.

(d) Confidentiality – to respect the confidentiality of information acquired as a result of professional and business relationships and, therefore, not disclose any such information to third parties without proper and specific authority, unless there is a legal or professional right or duty to disclose, nor use the information for the personal advantage of the professional accountant or third parties.

(e) Professional Behaviour – to comply with relevant laws and regulations and should avoid any action that discredits the profession.

Each of these fundamental principles is discussed in more detail in Sections 110 – 150.

Conceptual Framework Approach

100.2 The circumstances in which professional accountants operate may create specific threats to compliance with the fundamental principles. It is impossible to define every situation that creates threats to compliance with the fundamental principles and specify the appropriate action. In addition, the nature of engagements and work assignments may differ and, consequently, different threats may be created, requiring the application of different safeguards. Therefore, the By-Laws establishes a conceptual framework that requires a professional accountant to identify, evaluate and address threats to compliance with the fundamental principles. The conceptual framework approach assists professional accountants in complying with the ethical requirements of the By-Laws and meeting their responsibility to act in the public interest. It accommodates many variations in circumstances that create threats to compliance with the fundamental principles and can deter a professional accountant from concluding that a situation is permitted if it is not specifically prohibited.

100.3 When a professional accountant identifies threats to compliance with the fundamental principles and, based on an evaluation of those threats, determines that they are not at an acceptable level, the professional accountant shall determine whether appropriate safeguards are available and can be applied to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. In making that determination, the professional accountant shall exercise professional judgment and take into account whether a reasonable and informed third party, weighing all the specific facts and circumstances available to the professional accountant at the time, would be likely to conclude that the threats would be eliminated or reduced to an acceptable level by the application of the safeguards, such that compliance with the fundamental principles is not compromised.

100.4 A professional accountant shall evaluate any threats to compliance with the fundamental principles when the professional accountant knows, or could reasonably be expected to know, of circumstances or relationships that may compromise compliance with the fundamental principles.

100.5 A professional accountant shall take qualitative as well as quantitative factors into account when evaluating the significance of a threat. When applying the conceptual framework, a professional accountant may encounter situations in which threats cannot be eliminated or reduced to an acceptable level, either because the threat is too significant or because appropriate safeguards are not available or cannot be applied. In such situations, the professional accountant shall decline or discontinue the specific professional service involved, or when necessary, resign from the client (in the case of a professional accountant in public practice) or the employing organization (in the case of a professional accountant in business).

100.6 Sections 290 and 291 contain provisions with which a professional accountant shall comply if the professional accountant identifies a breach of an independence provision of the By-Laws. If a professional accountant identifies a breach of any other provision of this By-Laws, the professional accountant shall evaluate the significance of the breach and its impact on the accountant’s ability to comply with the fundamental principles. The accountant shall take whatever actions that may be available, as soon as possible, to satisfactorily address the consequences of the breach. The accountant shall determine whether to report the breach, for example, to those who may have been affected by the breach, a member body, relevant regulator or oversight authority.

Amended on 22 July 2013;
effective 1 April 2014.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

100.7 When a professional accountant encounters unusual circumstances in which the application of a specific required of the By-Laws would result in a disproportionate outcome or an outcome that may not be in the public interest, it is recommended that the professional accountant consult with a member’s body or the relevant regulator.

Threats and Safeguards

100.8 Threats may be created by a broad range of relationships and circumstances. When a relationship or circumstances creates a threat, such a threat could compromise, or could be perceived to compromise, a professional accountant’s compliance with the fundamental principles. A circumstance or relationship may create more than one threat, and a threat may affect compliance with more than fundamental principle. Threats fall into one or more of the following categories:

(a) Self-interest threat – the threat that a financial or other interest will inappropriately influence the professional accountant judgment or behavior;

(b) Self-review threat – the threat that a professional accountant will not appropriately evaluate the results of a previous judgment made or service performed by the professional accountant, or by another individual within the professional accountant’s firm or employing organization, on which the accountant will rely when forming a judgment as part of providing a current service;

(c) Advocacy threat – the threat that a professional accountant will promote a client’s or employer’s position to the point that the professional accountant’s objectivity is compromised;

(d) Familiarity threat – the threat that due to a long or close relationship with a client or employer, a professional accountant will be too sympathetic to their interests or too accepting of their work; and

(e) Intimidation threat – the threat that a professional accountant will be deterred from acting objectively because of actual or perceived pressures, including attempts to exercise undue influence over the professional accountant.

Parts B and C respectively explain how these categories of threats may be created for professional accountants in public practice and professional accountants in business, respectively. Professional accountants in public practice may also find Part C relevant to their particular circumstances.

100.9 Safeguards are actions or other measures that may eliminate threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. They fall into two broad categories:

(a) Safeguards created by the profession, legislation or regulation; and

(b) Safeguards in the work environment.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

100.10 Safeguards created by the profession, legislation or regulation include:
(a) Educational, training and experience requirements for entry into the profession.
(b) Continuing professional development requirements.
(c) Corporate governance regulations.
(d) Professional standards.
(e) Professional or regulatory monitoring and disciplinary procedures.
(f) External review by a legally empowered third party of the reports, returns, communications or information produced by a professional accountant.

100.11 Parts B and C respectively, discuss safeguards in the work environment for professional accountants in public practice and professional accountants in business respectively.

100.12 Certain safeguards may increase the likelihood of identifying or deterring unethical behavior. Such safeguards, which may be created by the accounting profession, legislation, regulation or an employing organization, include:
(a) Effective, well publicized complaints systems operated by the employing organization, the profession or a regulator, which enable colleagues, employers and members of the public to draw attention to unprofessional or unethical behavior.
(b) An explicitly stated duty to report breaches of ethical requirements.

Conflicts of Interest
(The heading for section 100.13 – 100.14 was amended on 22 July 2013; effective 1 July 2014)

100.13 A professional accountant may be faced with a conflict of interest when undertaking a professional activity. A conflict of interest creates a threat to objectivity and may create threats to the other fundamental principles. Such threats may be created when:
- The professional accountant undertakes a professional activity related to a particular matter for two or more parties whose interests with respect to that matter are in conflict; or

2 New Definition: Professional Activity: An activity requiring accountancy or related skills undertaken by a professional accountant, including accounting, auditing, taxation, management consulting, and financial management.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

- The interests of the professional accountant with respect to a particular matter and the interests of a party for whom the professional accountant undertakes a professional activity related to that matter are in conflict.

100.14 Parts B and C of this By-Laws discuss conflicts of interest for professional accountants in public practice and professional accountants in business, respectively.

Section 100.13 and 100.14 was inserted on 22 July 2013; effective 1 July 2014.

ethical conflict resolution

100.15 A professional accountant may be required to resolve a conflict in complying with the fundamental principles.

100.16 When initiating either a formal or informal conflict resolution process, the following factors, either individually or together with other factors, may be relevant to the resolution process:

(a) Relevant facts;
(b) Ethical issues involved;
(c) Fundamental principles related to the matter in question;
(d) Established internal procedures; and
(e) Alternative courses of action.

Having considered the relevant factors, a professional accountant shall determine the appropriate course of action, weighing the consequences of each possible course of action. If the matter remains unresolved, the professional accountant may wish to consult with other appropriate persons within the firm or employing organization for help in obtaining resolution.

100.17 Where a matter involves a conflict with, or within, an organization, a professional accountant shall determine whether to consult with those charged with governance of the organization, such as the board of directors or the audit committee.

100.18 It may be in the best interests of the professional accountant to document the substance of the issue, the details of any discussions held, and the decisions made concerning that issue.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

100.19 If a significant conflict cannot be resolved, a professional accountant may consider obtaining professional advice from the relevant professional body or from legal advisors. The professional accountant generally can obtain guidance on ethical issues without breaching the fundamental principle of confidentiality if the matter is discussed with the relevant professional body on an anonymous basis or with a legal advisor under the protection of legal privilege. Instances in which the professional accountant may consider obtaining legal advice vary. For example, a professional accountant may have encountered a fraud, the reporting of which could breach the professional accountant’s responsibility to respect confidentiality. The professional accountant may consider obtaining legal advice in that instance to determine whether there is a requirement to report.

100.20 If, after exhausting all relevant possibilities, the ethical conflict remains unresolved, a professional accountant shall, where possible, refuse to remain associated with the matter creating the conflict. The professional accountant shall determine whether, in the circumstances, it is appropriate to withdraw from the engagement team or specific assignment, or to resign altogether from the engagement, the firm or the employing organization.

Sections under “Ethical Conflict Resolution” was previously numbered as Section 100.13 – 100.18. The sections have been renumbered to Section 100.15 - 100.20 on 22 July 2013; effective 1 July 2014.

Section 100.21 – 100.24 is intentionally kept blank.

Communicating with Those Charged with Governance

100.25 When communicating with those charged with governance in accordance with the provisions of this By-Laws, the professional accountant or firm shall determine, having regard to the nature and importance of the particular circumstances and matter to be communicated, the appropriate person(s) within the entity’s governance structure with whom to communicate. If the professional accountant or firm communicates with a subgroup of those charged with governance, for example, an audit committee or an individual, the professional accountant or firm shall determine whether communication with all of those charged with governance is also necessary so that they are adequately informed.

Section 100.25 was inserted on 29 May 2014; effective 1 July 2014

PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Section 110  Integrity

Integrity

110.1 The principle of integrity imposes an obligation on all professional accountants to be straightforward and honest in all professional and business relationships. Integrity also implies fair dealing and truthfulness.

110.2 A professional accountant shall not knowingly be associated with reports, returns, communications or other information where the professional accountant believes that the information:

(a) Contains a materially false or misleading statement;
(b) Contains statements or information furnished recklessly; or
(c) Omits or obscures information required to be included where such omission or obscurity would be misleading.

When a professional accountant becomes aware that the accountant has been associated with such information, the accountant shall take steps to be disassociated from that information.

110.3 A professional accountant will be deemed not to be in breach of paragraph 110.2 if the professional accountant provides a modified report in respect of a matter contained in paragraph 110.2.

Section 120  Objectivity

Objectivity

120.1 The principle of objectivity imposes an obligation on all professional accountants not to compromise their professional or business judgment because of bias, conflict of interest or the undue influence of others.

120.2 A professional accountant may be exposed to situations that may impair objectivity. It is impracticable to define and prescribe all such situations. A professional accountant shall not perform a professional service if a circumstance or relationship biases or unduly influences the accountant’s professional judgment with respect to that service.

Section 130  Professional Competence and Due Care

Professional Competence and Due Care

130.1 The principle of professional competence and due care imposes the following obligations on professional accountants:

(a) To maintain professional knowledge and skill at the level required to ensure that clients or employers receive competent professional service; and

(b) To act diligently in accordance with applicable technical and professional standards when providing professional services.

130.2 Competent professional service requires the exercise of sound judgment in applying professional knowledge and skill in the performance of such service. Professional competence may be divided into two separate phases:

(a) Attainment of professional competence; and

(b) Maintenance of professional competence.

130.3 The maintenance of professional competence requires a continuing awareness and an understanding of relevant technical, professional and business developments. Continuing professional development enables a professional accountant to develop and maintain the capabilities to perform competently within the professional environment.

130.4 Diligence encompasses the responsibility to act in accordance with the requirements of an assignment, carefully, thoroughly and on a timely basis.

130.5 A professional accountant shall take reasonable steps to ensure that those working under the professional accountant’s authority in a professional capacity have appropriate training and supervision.

130.6 Where appropriate, a professional accountant shall make clients, employers or other users of the professional services aware of the limitations inherent in the services.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Section 140  Confidentiality

Confidentiality

140.1  The principle of confidentiality imposes an obligation on all professional accountants to refrain from:

(a) Disclosing outside the firm or employing organization confidential information acquired as a result of professional and business relationships without proper and specific authority or unless there is a legal or professional right or duty to disclose; and

(b) Using confidential information acquired as a result of professional and business relationships to their personal advantage or the advantage of third parties.

140.2  A professional accountant shall maintain confidentiality even in a social environment, being alert to the possibility of inadvertent disclosure, particularly to a close or immediate family member.

140.3  A professional accountant shall maintain confidentiality of information disclosed by a prospective client or employer.

140.4  A professional accountant shall maintain confidentiality of information within the firm or employing organization.

140.5  A professional accountant shall take reasonable steps to ensure that staff under the professional accountant’s control and persons from whom advice and assistance is obtained respect the professional accountant’s duty of confidentiality.

140.6  The need to comply with the principle of confidentiality continues even after the end of relationships between a professional accountant and a client or employer. When a professional accountant changes employment or acquires a new client, the professional accountant is entitled to use prior experience. The professional accountant shall not, however, use or disclose any confidential information either acquired or received as a result of a professional or business relationship.

140.7  The following are circumstances where professional accountants are or may be required to disclose confidential information or when such disclosure may be appropriate:
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(a) Disclosure is permitted by law and is authorized by the client or the employer;

(b) Disclosure is required by law, for example:
   (i) Production of documents or other provision of evidence in the course of legal proceedings; or
   (ii) Disclosure to the appropriate public authorities of infringements of the law that come to light; and

(c) There is a professional duty or right to disclose, when not prohibited by law:
   (i) To comply with the quality review of the Institute;
   (ii) To respond to an inquiry or investigation by the Institute’s Investigation Committee or Disciplinary Committee or any other regulatory body;
   (iii) To protect the professional interests of a professional accountant in legal proceedings; or
   (iv) To comply with technical standards and ethics requirements.

Please also refer to the additional guidance on confidentiality in Appendix I to the By-Laws.

140.8 In deciding whether to disclose confidential information, relevant factors to consider include:

(a) Whether the interests of all parties, including third parties whose interests may be affected, could be harmed if the client or employer consents to the disclosure of information by the professional accountant;

(b) Whether all the relevant information is known and substantiated, to the extent it is practicable; when the situation involves unsubstantiated facts, incomplete information or unsubstantiated conclusions, professional judgment shall be used in determining the type of disclosure to be made, if any;

(c) The type of communication that is expected and to whom it is addressed; and

(d) Whether the parties to whom the communication is addressed are appropriate recipients.

Professional Behavior

150.1  The principle of professional behavior imposes an obligation on professional accountants to comply with relevant laws and regulations in addition to these By-Laws and avoid any action that the professional accountant knows or should know may discredit the profession. This includes actions that a reasonable and informed third party, weighing all the specific facts and circumstances available to the professional accountant at that time, would be likely to conclude adversely affects the good reputation of the profession.

150.1A  In reference to section 150.1, the relevant laws and regulations will include but are not limited to the provisions in the Companies Act, 1965 (for example, section 9, section 10 and section 182) the provisions in the Capital Market and Services Act, 2007, the Banking and Financial Institutions Act, 1989 and other relevant legislation currently in force. The specific legislation stated above are merely examples of the relevant laws and regulations that professional accountants must comply with and are by no means exhaustive.

Advertising, Marketing and Promotions

150.2  In advertising, marketing or promoting themselves and their work, professional accountants shall not bring the profession into disrepute and shall ensure that such advertisement, marketing or promotional material is:
(a)  professionally dignified and in good taste; and
(b)  carried out in accordance with the relevant legislation where applicable.

150.3  Professional accountants shall be honest and truthful and shall not:
(a)  make exaggerated claims for the services they are able to offer, the qualifications they possess, or experience they have gained; or
(b)  make disparaging references or unsubstantiated comparisons to the work of others.

SECTION 200  Introduction

Introduction

200.1 Part B describes how the conceptual framework contained in Part A applies to certain situations to professional accountants in public practice. This part does not describe all of the circumstances and relationships that could be encountered that create or may create threats to compliance with the fundamental principles. Therefore the professional accountant in public practice is encouraged to be alert for such circumstances and relationships.

200.2 A professional accountant in public practice shall not knowingly engage in any business, occupation or activity that impairs or might impair integrity, objectivity or the good reputation of the profession and as a result would be incompatible with the fundamental principles.

Threats and Safeguards

200.3 Compliance with the fundamental principles may potentially be threatened by a broad range of circumstances and relationships. The nature and significance of the threats may differ depending on whether they arise in relation to the provision of services to an audit client and whether the audit client is a public interest entity, to an assurance client that is not an audit client, or to a non-assurance client.

Threats fall into one or more of the following categories:

(a) Self-interest;
(b) Self-review;
(c) Advocacy;
(d) Familiarity; and
(e) Intimidation.

These threats are discussed further in Part A.

200.4 Examples of circumstances that create self-interest threats for a professional accountant in public practice include:

(a) A member of the assurance team having a direct financial interest in the assurance client.
(b) A firm having undue dependence on total fees from a client.
(c) A member of the assurance team having a significant close business relationship with an assurance client.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(d) A firm being concerned about the possibility of losing a significant client.
(e) A member of the audit team entering into employment negotiations with the audit client.
(f) A firm entering into a contingent fee arrangement relating to an assurance engagement.
(g) A professional accountant discovering a significant error when evaluating the results of a previous professional service performed by a member of the professional accountant’s firm.

200.5 Examples of circumstances that create self-review threats for a professional accountant in public practice include:

(a) A firm issuing an assurance report on the effectiveness of the operation of financial systems after designing or implementing the systems.
(b) A firm having prepared the original data used to generate records that are the subject matter of the assurance engagement.
(c) A member of the assurance team being, or having recently been, a director or officer of the client.
(d) A member of the assurance team being, or having recently been, employed by the client in a position to exert significant influence over the subject matter of the engagement.
(e) The firm performing a service for an assurance client that directly affects the subject matter information of the assurance engagement.

200.6 Examples of circumstances that create advocacy threats for a professional accountant in public practice include:

(a) The firm promoting shares in an audit client.
(b) A professional accountant acting as an advocate on behalf of an audit client in litigation or disputes with third parties.

200.7 Examples of circumstances that create familiarity threats for a professional accountant in public practice include:

(a) A member of the engagement team having a close or immediate family member who is a director or officer of the client.
(b) A member of the engagement team having a close or immediate family member who is an employee of the client who is in a position to exert significant influence over the subject matter of the engagement.
(c) A director or officer of the client or an employee in a position to exert significant influence over the subject matter of the engagement having recently served as the engagement partner.
(d) A professional accountant accepting gifts or preferential treatment from a client, unless the value is trivial or inconsequential.

(e) Senior personnel having a long association with the assurance client.

200.8 Examples of circumstances that create intimidation threats for a professional accountant in public practice include:

(a) A firm being threatened with dismissal from a client engagement.

(b) An audit client indicating that it will not award a planned non-assurance contract to the firm if the firm continues to disagree with the client’s accounting treatment for a particular transaction.

(c) A firm being threatened with litigation by the client.

(d) A firm being pressured to reduce inappropriately the extent of work performed in order to reduce fees.

(e) A professional accountant feeling pressured to agree with the judgment of a client employee because the employee has more expertise on the matter in question.

(f) A professional accountant being informed by a partner of the firm that a planned promotion will not occur unless the accountant agrees with an audit client’s inappropriate accounting treatment.

200.9 Safeguards that may eliminate or reduce threats to an acceptable level fall into two broad categories:

(a) Safeguards created by the profession, legislation or regulation; and

(b) Safeguards in the work environment.

Examples of safeguards created by the profession, legislation or regulation are described in paragraph 100.10 of Part A.

200.10 A professional accountant in public practice shall exercise judgment to determine how best to deal with threats that are not at an acceptable level, whether by applying safeguards to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level or by terminating or declining the relevant engagement. In exercising this judgment, a professional accountant in public practice shall consider whether a reasonable and informed third party, weighing all the specific facts and circumstances available to the professional accountant at that time, would be likely to conclude that the threats would be eliminated or reduced to an acceptable level by the application of safeguards, such that compliance with the fundamental principles is not compromised. This consideration will be affected by matters such as the significance of the threat, the nature of the engagement and the structure of the firm.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

200.11 In the work environment, the relevant safeguards will vary depending on the circumstances. Work environment safeguards comprise firm-wide safeguards and engagement specific safeguards.

200.12 Examples of firm-wide safeguards in the work environment include:

(a) Leadership of the firm that stresses the importance of compliance with the fundamental principles.

(b) Leadership of the firm that establishes the expectation that members of an assurance team will act in the public interest.

(c) Policies and procedures to implement and monitor quality control of engagements.

(d) Documented policies regarding the need to identify threats to compliance with the fundamental principles, evaluate the significance of those threats, and apply safeguards to eliminate or reduce the threats to an acceptable level or when appropriate safeguards are not available or cannot be applied, terminate or decline the relevant engagement.

(e) Documented internal policies and procedures requiring compliance with the fundamental principles.

(f) Policies and procedures that will enable the identification of interests or relationships between the firm or members of engagement teams and clients.

(g) Policies and procedures to monitor and, if necessary, manage the reliance on revenue received from a single client.

(h) Using different partners and engagement teams with separate reporting lines for the provision of non-assurance services to an assurance client.

(i) Policies and procedures to prohibit individuals who are not members of an engagement team from inappropriately influencing the outcome of the engagement.

(j) Timely communication of a firm’s policies and procedures, including any changes to them, to all partners and professional staff, and appropriate training and education on such policies and procedures.

(k) Designating a member of senior management to be responsible for overseeing the adequate functioning of the firm’s quality control system.

(l) Advising partners and professional staff of those assurance clients and related entities from which independence is required.

(m) A disciplinary mechanism to promote compliance with policies and procedures.

(n) Published policies and procedures to encourage and empower staff to communicate to senior levels within the firm any issue relating to compliance with the fundamental principles that concerns them.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

200.13 Examples of engagement-specific safeguards in the work environment include:

(a) Having a professional accountant who was not involved with the non-assurance service review the non-assurance work performed or otherwise advise as necessary.

(b) Having a professional accountant who was not a member of the assurance team review the assurance work performed or otherwise advise as necessary.

(c) Consulting an independent third party, such as a committee of independent directors, a professional regulatory body or another professional accountant.

(d) Discussing ethical issues with those charged with governance of the client.

(e) Disclosing to those charged with governance of the client the nature of services provided and extent of fees charged.

(f) Involving another firm to perform or re-perform part of the engagement.

(g) Rotating senior assurance team personnel.

200.14 Depending on the nature of the engagement, a professional accountant in public practice may also be able to rely on safeguards that the client has implemented. However it is not possible to rely solely on such safeguards to reduce threats to an acceptable level.

200.15 Examples of safeguards within the client’s systems and procedures include:

(a) The client requires persons other than management to ratify or approve the appointment of a firm to perform an engagement.

(b) The client has competent employees with experience and seniority to make managerial decisions.

(c) The client has implemented internal procedures that ensure objective choices in commissioning non-assurance engagements.

(d) The client has a corporate governance structure that provides appropriate oversight and communications regarding the firm’s services.

PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Section 210 Professional Appointment

Client Acceptance

210.1 Before accepting a new client relationship, a professional accountant in public practice shall determine whether acceptance would create any threats to compliance with the fundamental principles. Potential threats to integrity or professional behavior may be created from, for example, questionable issues associated with the client (its owners, management and activities).

210.2 Client issues that, if known, could threaten compliance with the fundamental principles include, for example, client involvement in illegal activities (such as money laundering), dishonesty or questionable financial reporting practices.

210.3 A professional accountant in public practice shall evaluate the significance of any threats and apply safeguards when necessary to eliminate them or reduce them to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(a) Obtaining knowledge and understanding of the client, its owners, managers and those responsible for its governance and business activities; or

(b) Securing the client’s commitment to improve corporate governance practices or internal controls.

210.4 Where it is not possible to reduce the threats to an acceptable level, the professional accountant in public practice shall decline to enter into the client relationship.

210.5 It is recommended that a professional accountant in public practice periodically review acceptance decisions for recurring client engagements.

Engagement Acceptance

210.6 The fundamental principle of professional competence and due care imposes on a professional accountant in public practice to provide only those services that the professional accountant in public practice is competent to perform. Before accepting a specific client engagement, a professional accountant in public practice shall determine whether acceptance would create any threats to compliance with the fundamental principles. For example, a self-interest threat to professional competence and due care is created if the engagement team does not possess, or cannot acquire, the competencies necessary to properly carry out the engagement.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

210.7 A professional accountant in public practice shall evaluate the significance of threats and apply safeguards, when necessary to eliminate them or reduce them to an acceptable level. Such safeguards may include:

(a) Acquiring an appropriate understanding of the nature of the client’s business, the complexity of its operations, the specific requirements of the engagement and the purpose, nature and scope of the work to be performed.

(b) Acquiring knowledge of relevant industries or subject matters.

(c) Possessing or obtaining experience with relevant regulatory or reporting requirements.

(d) Assigning sufficient staff with the necessary competencies.

(e) Using experts where necessary.

(f) Agreeing on a realistic time frame for the performance of the engagement.

(g) Complying with quality control policies and procedures designed to provide reasonable assurance that specific engagements are accepted only when they can be performed competently.

210.8 When a professional accountant in public practice intends to rely on the advice or work of an expert, the professional accountant in public practice shall determine whether such reliance is warranted. Factors to consider include: reputation, expertise, resources available and applicable professional and ethical standards. Such information may be gained from prior association with the expert or from consulting others.

Changes in a Professional Appointment

210.9 A professional accountant in public practice who is asked to replace another professional accountant in public practice, or who is considering tendering for an engagement currently held by another professional accountant in public practice, shall determine whether there are any reasons, professional or otherwise, for not accepting the engagement, such as circumstances that create threats to compliance with the fundamental principles that cannot be eliminated or reduced to an acceptable level by the application of safeguards. For example, there may be a threat to professional competence and due care if a professional accountant in public practice accepts the engagement before knowing all the pertinent facts.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

210.10 A professional accountant in public practice shall evaluate the significance of any threats. Depending on the nature of the engagement, this may require direct communication with the existing accountant to establish the facts and circumstances regarding the proposed change so that the professional accountant in public practice can decide whether it would be appropriate to accept the engagement. For example, the apparent reasons for the change in appointment may not fully reflect the facts and may indicate disagreements with the existing accountant that may influence the decision to accept the appointment.

210.10A In the case of a financial statement audit engagement, no member in public practice shall accept nomination for the engagement without enquiring from the existing auditor as to whether there is any professional or other reason for the proposed change of which he should be aware before deciding whether or not to accept the appointment and, if there are such reasons, requesting the existing auditor to provide him with all the details necessary to enable him to come to a decision.

210.11 Safeguards shall be applied when necessary to eliminate any threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(a) When replying to requests to submit tenders, stating in the tender that, before accepting the engagement, contact with the existing accountant will be requested so that inquiries may be made as to whether there are any professional or other reasons why the appointment should not be accepted;

(b) Asking the existing accountant to provide known information on any facts or circumstances that, in the existing accountant’s opinion, the proposed accountant needs to be aware of before deciding whether to accept the engagement; or

(c) Obtaining necessary information from other sources.

When the threats cannot be eliminated or reduced to an acceptable level through the application of safeguards, a professional accountant in public practice shall, unless there is satisfaction as to necessary facts by other means, decline the engagement.

210.12 A professional accountant in public practice may be asked to undertake work that is complementary or additional to the work of the existing accountant. Such circumstances may create threats to professional competence and due care resulting from, for example, a lack of or incomplete information. The significance of any threats shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. An example of such a safeguard is notifying the existing accountant of the proposed work, which would give the existing accountant the opportunity to provide any relevant information needed for the proper conduct of the work.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

210.13 An existing accountant is bound by confidentiality. Whether that professional accountant is permitted or required to discuss the affairs of a client with a proposed accountant will depend on the nature of the engagement and on:

(a) Whether the client’s permission to do so has been obtained; or

(b) The legal or ethical requirements relating to such communications and disclosure, which may vary by jurisdiction.

Circumstances where the professional accountant is or may be required to disclose confidential information or where such disclosure may otherwise be appropriate are set out in Section 140 of Part A.

210.14 A professional accountant in public practice will generally need to obtain the client’s permission, preferably in writing, to initiate discussion with an existing accountant. Where:

(a) permission is refused, the professional accountant in public practice shall decline the appointment.

(b) permission is obtained, the existing accountant shall comply with relevant legal and other regulations governing such requests. Where the existing accountant provides information, it shall be provided honestly and unambiguously. If the proposed accountant is unable to communicate with the existing accountant, the proposed accountant shall take reasonable steps to obtain information about any possible threats by other means, such as through inquiries of third parties or background investigations of senior management or those charged with governance of the client.

Please refer to the procedures for seeking professional clearance as set out in Appendix II to the By-Laws.

PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Section 220  Conflicts of Interest

Conflicts of Interest

220.1 A professional accountant in public practice may be faced with a conflict of interest when performing a professional service. A conflict of interest creates a threat to objectivity and may create threats to the other fundamental principles. Such threats may be created when:

- The professional accountant provides a professional service related to a particular matter for two or more clients whose interests with respect to that matter are in conflict; or
- The interests of the professional accountant with respect to a particular matter and the interests of the client for whom the professional accountant provides a professional service related to that matter are in conflict.

A professional accountant shall not allow a conflict of interest to compromise professional or business judgment.

When the professional service is an assurance service, compliance with the fundamental principle of objectivity also requires being independent of assurance clients in accordance with Sections 290 or 291 as appropriate.

220.2 Examples of situations in which conflicts of interest may arise include:

- Providing a transaction advisory service to a client seeking to acquire an audit client of the firm, where the firm has obtained confidential information during the course of the audit that may be relevant to the transaction.
- Advising two clients at the same time who are competing to acquire the same company where the advice might be relevant to the parties’ competitive positions.
- Providing services to both a vendor and a purchaser in relation to the same transaction.
- Preparing valuations of assets for two parties who are in an adversarial position with respect to the assets.
- Representing two clients regarding the same matter who are in a legal dispute with each other, such as during divorce proceedings or the dissolution of a partnership.

3 Revised Definition: Professional Services: Professional activities performed for clients.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

- Providing an assurance report for a licensor on royalties due under a license agreement when at the same time advising the licensee of the correctness of the amounts payable.

- Advising a client to invest in a business in which, for example, the spouse of the professional accountant in public practice has a financial interest.

- Providing strategic advice to a client on its competitive position while having a joint venture or similar interest with a major competitor of the client.

- Advising a client on the acquisition of a business which the firm is also interested in acquiring.

- Advising a client on the purchase of a product or service while having a royalty or commission agreement with one of the potential vendors of that product or service.

220.3 When identifying and evaluating the interests and relationships that might create a conflict of interest and implementing safeguards, when necessary, to eliminate or reduce any threat to compliance with the fundamental principles to an acceptable level, a professional accountant in public practice shall exercise professional judgment and take into account whether a reasonable and informed third party, weighing all the specific facts and circumstances available to the professional accountant at the time, would be likely to conclude that compliance with the fundamental principles is not compromised.

220.4 When addressing conflicts of interest, including making disclosures or sharing information within the firm or network and seeking guidance of third parties, the professional accountant in public practice shall remain alert to the fundamental principle of confidentiality.

220.5 If the threat created by a conflict of interest is not at an acceptable level, the professional accountant in public practice shall apply safeguards to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. If safeguards cannot reduce the threat to an acceptable level, the professional accountant shall decline to perform or shall discontinue professional services that would result in the conflict of interest; or shall terminate relevant relationships or dispose of relevant interests to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level.

220.6 Before accepting a new client relationship, engagement, or business relationship, a professional accountant in public practice shall take reasonable steps to identify circumstances that might create a conflict of interest, including identification of:

- The nature of the relevant interests and relationships between the parties involved; and
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

- The nature of the service and its implication for relevant parties.

The nature of the services and the relevant interests and relationships may change during the course of the engagement. This is particularly true when a professional accountant is asked to conduct an engagement in a situation that may become adversarial, even though the parties who engage the professional accountant may not initially be involved in a dispute. The professional accountant shall remain alert to such changes for the purpose of identifying circumstances that might create a conflict of interest.

Section 220.1 – 220.6 was amended on 22 July 2013; effective 1 July 2014.

220.7 For the purpose of identifying interests and relationships that might create a conflict of interest, having an effective conflict identification process assists a professional accountant in public practice to identify actual or potential conflicts of interest prior to determining whether to accept an engagement and throughout an engagement. This includes matters identified by external parties, for example clients or potential clients. The earlier an actual or potential conflict of interest is identified, the greater the likelihood of the professional accountant being able to apply safeguards, when necessary, to eliminate the threat to objectivity and any threat to compliance with other fundamental principles or reduce it to an acceptable level. The process to identify actual or potential conflicts of interest will depend on such factors as:

- The nature of the professional services provided.
- The size of the firm.
- The size and nature of the client base.
- The structure of the firm, for example, the number and geographic location of offices.

220.8 If the firm is a member of a network, conflict identification shall include any conflicts of interest that the professional accountant in public practice has reason to believe may exist or might arise due to interests and relationships of a network firm. Reasonable steps to identify such interests and relationships involving a network firm will depend on factors such as the nature of the professional services provided, the clients served by the network and the geographic locations of all relevant parties.

220.9 If a conflict of interest is identified, the professional accountant in public practice shall evaluate:

- The significance of relevant interests or relationships; and
- The significance of the threats created by performing the professional service or services. In general, the more direct the connection between the professional service and the matter on which the parties’ interests are in conflict, the more significant the threat to objectivity and compliance with the other fundamental principles will be.

220.10 The professional accountant in public practice shall apply safeguards, when necessary, to eliminate the threats to compliance with the fundamental principles created by the conflict of interest or reduce them to an acceptable level. Examples of safeguards include:

- Implementing mechanisms to prevent unauthorized disclosure of confidential information when performing professional services related to a particular matter for two or more clients whose interests with respect to that matter are in conflict. This could include:
  - Using separate engagement teams who are provided with clear policies and procedures on maintaining confidentiality.
  - Creating separate areas of practice for specialty functions within the firm, which may act as a barrier to the passing of confidential client information from one practice area to another within a firm.
  - Establishing policies and procedures to limit access to client files, the use of confidentiality agreements signed by employees and partners of the firm and/or the physical and electronic separation of confidential information.
- Review of the application of safeguards by a senior individual not involved with the client engagement or engagements.
- Having a professional accountant who is not involved in providing the service or otherwise affected by the conflict, review the work performed to assess whether the key judgments and conclusions are appropriate.
- Consulting with third parties, such as a professional body, legal counsel or another professional accountant.

220.11 In addition, it is generally necessary to disclose the nature of the conflict of interest and the related safeguards, if any, to clients affected by the conflict and, when safeguards are required to reduce the threat to an acceptable level, to obtain their consent to the professional accountant in public practice performing the professional services.

Disclosure and consent may take different forms, for example:
- General disclosure to clients of circumstances where the professional accountant, in keeping with common commercial practice, does not provide services exclusively for any one client (for example, in a particular service in a particular market sector) in order for the client to provide general consent accordingly. Such disclosure might, for example, be made in the professional accountant's standard terms and conditions for the engagement.

- Specific disclosure to affected clients of the circumstances of the particular conflict, including a detailed presentation of the situation and a comprehensive explanation of any planned safeguards and the risks involved, sufficient to enable the client to make an informed decision with respect to the matter and to provide explicit consent accordingly.

- In certain circumstances, consent may be implied by the client's conduct where the professional accountant has sufficient evidence to conclude that clients know the circumstances at the outset and have accepted the conflict of interest if they do not raise an objection to the existence of the conflict.

The professional accountant shall determine whether the nature and significance of the conflict of interest is such that specific disclosure and explicit consent is necessary. For this purpose, the professional accountant shall exercise professional judgment in weighing the outcome of the evaluation of the circumstances that create a conflict of interest, including the parties that might be affected, the nature of the issues that might arise and the potential for the particular matter to develop in an unexpected manner.

220.12 Where a professional accountant in public practice has requested explicit consent from a client and that consent has been refused by the client, the professional accountant shall decline to perform or shall discontinue professional services that would result in the conflict of interest; or shall terminate relevant relationships or dispose of relevant interests to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level, such that consent can be obtained, after applying any additional safeguards if necessary.

220.13 When disclosure is verbal, or consent is verbal or implied, the professional accountant in public practice is encouraged to document the nature of the circumstances giving rise to the conflict of interest, the safeguards applied to reduce the threats to an acceptable level and the consent obtained.

220.14 In certain circumstances, making specific disclosure for the purpose of obtaining explicit consent would result in a breach of confidentiality. Examples of such circumstances may include:

- Performing a transaction-related service for a client in connection with a hostile takeover of another client of the firm.

- Performing a forensic investigation for a client in connection with a suspected fraudulent act where the firm has confidential information obtained through having performed a professional service for another client who might be involved in the fraud.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

The firm shall not accept or continue an engagement under such circumstances unless the following conditions are met:

- The firm does not act in an advocacy role for one client where this requires the firm to assume an adversarial position against the other client with respect to the same matter;

- Specific mechanisms are in place to prevent disclosure of confidential information between the engagement teams serving the two clients; and

- The firm is satisfied that a reasonable and informed third party, weighing all the specific facts and circumstances available to the professional accountant in public practice at the time, would be likely to conclude that it is appropriate for the firm to accept or continue the engagement because a restriction on the firm’s ability to provide the service would produce a disproportionate adverse outcome for the clients or other relevant third parties.

The professional accountant shall document the nature of the circumstances, including the role that the professional accountant is to undertake, the specific mechanisms in place to prevent disclosure of information between the engagement teams serving the two clients and the rationale for the conclusion that it is appropriate to accept the engagement.

Section 220.7 – 220.14 was inserted on 22 July 2013; effective 1 July 2014.

PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Section 230  Second Opinions

Second Opinions

230.1 Situations where a professional accountant in public practice is asked to provide a second opinion on the application of accounting, auditing, reporting or other standards or principles to specific circumstances or transactions by or on behalf of a company or an entity that is not an existing client may give rise to threats to compliance with the fundamental principles. For example, there may be a threat to professional competence and due care in circumstances where the second opinion is not based on the same set of facts that were made available to the existing accountant, or is based on inadequate evidence. The existence and significance of any threat will depend on the circumstances of the request and all the other available facts and assumptions relevant to the expression of a professional judgment.

230.2 When asked to provide such an opinion, a professional accountant in public practice shall evaluate the significance of any threats and apply safeguards when necessary to eliminate them or reduce them to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include seeking client permission to contact the existing accountant, describing the limitations surrounding any opinion in communications with the client and providing the existing accountant with a copy of the opinion.

230.3 If the company or entity seeking the opinion will not permit communication with the existing accountant, a professional accountant in public practice shall consider whether, taking all the circumstances into account, it is appropriate to provide the opinion sought.

PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Section 240  Fees and Other Types of Remuneration

Fees

240.1 When entering into negotiations regarding professional services, a professional accountant in public practice may quote whatever fee is deemed appropriate. The fact that one professional accountant in public practice may quote a fee lower than another is not in itself unethical. Nevertheless, there may be threats to compliance with the fundamental principles arising from the level of fees quoted. For example, a self interest threat to professional competence and due care is created if the fee quoted is so low that it may be difficult to perform the engagement in accordance with applicable technical and professional standards for that price.

240.2 The existence and significance of any threats created will depend on factors such as the level of fee quoted and the services to which it applies. The significance of any threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(a) Making the client aware of the terms of the engagement and, in particular, the basis on which fees are charged and which services are covered by the quoted fee.

(b) Making the client aware of the statutory duties and responsibilities involved, if any, in respect of the engagement.

(c) Assigning appropriate time and qualified staff to the task.

240.2A Fees charged for assurance engagements should be a fair reflection of the value of the work involved and should take into account, among others:

(a) the skill and knowledge required for the type of work involved;

(b) the level of training and experience of the persons necessarily engaged on the work;

(c) the time necessarily occupied by each person engaged on the work; and

(d) the degree of responsibility and urgency that the work entails.

The rest of this page is intentionally left blank.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Contingent Fees

240.3 Contingent fees are widely used for certain types of non-assurance engagements\(^4\). They may, however, create threats to compliance with the fundamental principles in certain circumstances. They may create a self-interest threat to objectivity. The existence and significance of such threats will depend on factors including:

(a) The nature of the engagement.
(b) The range of possible fee amounts.
(c) The basis for determining the fee.
(d) Whether the outcome or result of the transaction is to be reviewed by an independent third party.

240.4 The significance of such threats shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate or reduce them to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(a) An advance written agreement with the client as to the basis of remuneration.
(b) Disclosure to intended users of the work performed by the professional accountant in public practice and the basis of remuneration.
(c) Quality control policies and procedures.
(d) Review by an objective third party of the work performed by the professional accountant in public practice.

Referral Fees or Commissions

240.5 In certain circumstances, a professional accountant in public practice may receive a referral fee or commission relating to a client. For example, where the professional accountant in public practice does not provide the specific service required, a fee may be received for referring a continuing client to another professional accountant in public practice or other expert. A professional accountant in public practice may receive a commission from a third party (e.g., a software vendor) in connection with the sale of goods or services to a client. Accepting such a referral fee or commission creates a self-interest threats to objectivity and professional competence and due care.

\(^4\) Contingent fees for non-assurance services provided to audit clients and other assurance clients are discussed in Section 290 and Section 291 of Part I of the By-Laws.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

240.6 A professional accountant in public practice may also pay a referral fee to obtain a client, for example, where the client continues as a client of another professional accountant in public practice but requires specialist services not offered by the existing accountant. The payment of such a referral fee may also create a self-interest threat to objectivity and professional competence and due care.

240.7 The significance of the threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(a) Disclosing to the client any arrangements to pay a referral fee to another professional accountant for the work referred.

(b) Disclosing to the client any arrangements to receive a referral fee for referring the client to another professional accountant in public practice.

(c) Obtaining advance agreement from the client for commission arrangements in connection with the sale by a third party of goods or services to the client.

240.8 A professional accountant in public practice may purchase all or part of another firm on the basis that payments will be made to individuals formerly owning the firm or to their heirs or estates. Such payments are not regarded as commissions or referral fees for the purpose of paragraph 240.5 – 240.7 above.

Section 250  Marketing Public Practice Services

Advertising or Marketing Services

250.1 When a professional accountant in public practice solicits new work through advertising or other forms of marketing, there may be threats to compliance with the fundamental principles. For example, a self-interest threat to compliance with the principle of professional behaviour is created if services, achievements or products are marketed in a way that is inconsistent with that principle.

250.2 A professional accountant in public practice shall not bring the profession into disrepute when advertising or marketing public practice services. The professional accountant in public practice shall be honest and truthful and not:

(a) Make exaggerated claims for services offered, qualifications possessed or experience gained;
(b) Make disparaging references to unsubstantiated comparisons to the work of another.

250.3 If the professional accountant in public practice is in doubt whether a proposed form of advertising or marketing is appropriate, the professional accountant in public practice shall consider guidance from the Institute.

Tenders

250.4 A public advertisement or an unsolicited request to make a submission or submit a tender for professional services may give rise to potential threats to compliance with the fundamental principles. For example, a self interest threat to professional competence and due care is created if the fee quoted is so low that it may be difficult to perform the engagement in accordance with applicable technical and professional standards for that fee.

250.5 A professional accountant in public practice shall not respond to advertisements to tender for professional work unless the professional accountant in public practice has established safeguards to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. Such safeguards include:

(a) Having sufficiently qualified and skilled staff to undertake the engagement.
(b) Disclosing the basis on which fees are charged and which services are covered by the quoted fee.
(c) If the appointment may result in the replacement of another professional accountant in public practice, state in the submission or tender that before acceptance, the opportunity to contact the other professional accountant in public practice is required so that inquiries may be made as to whether there are professional reasons why the appointment should not be accepted, and if the submission or tender is successful, contact the existing accountant in accordance with the applicable provisions in section 210.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Section 260 Gifts and Hospitality

Gifts and Hospitality

260.1 A professional accountant in public practice, or an immediate or close family member, may be offered gifts and hospitality from a client. Such an offer may create threats to compliance with the fundamental principles. For example, a self-interest or familiarity threat to objectivity may be created if a gift from a client is accepted; an intimidation threat to objectivity may result from the possibility of such offers being made public.

260.2 The existence and significance of any threat will depend on the nature, value and intent of the offer. Where gifts or hospitality are offered that a reasonable and informed third party, weighing all the specific facts and circumstances, would consider trivial and inconsequential, a professional accountant in public practice may conclude that the offer is made in the normal course of business without the specific intent to influence decision making or to obtain information. In such cases, the professional accountant in public practice may generally conclude that any threat to compliance with the fundamental principles is at an acceptable level.

260.3 A professional accountant in public practice shall evaluate the significance of any threats and apply safeguards when necessary to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. When the threats cannot be eliminated or reduced to an acceptable level through the application of safeguards, a professional accountant in public practice shall not accept such an offer.

Section 270  Custody of Client Assets

Custody of Client Assets

270.1 A professional accountant in public practice shall not assume custody of client monies or other assets unless permitted to do so by law and, if so, in compliance with any additional legal duties imposed on a professional accountant in public practice holding such assets.

270.2 The holding of client assets creates threats to compliance with the fundamental principles; for example, there is a self-interest threat to professional behavior and may be a self interest threat to objectivity arising from holding client assets. A professional accountant in public practice entrusted with client money or other assets belonging to others shall therefore:

(a) Keep such assets separately from personal or firm assets;
(b) Use such assets only for the purpose for which they are intended;
(c) At all times, be ready to account for those assets, and any income, dividends or gains generated, to any persons entitled to such accounting; and
(d) Comply with all relevant laws and regulations relevant to the holding of and accounting for such assets.

Please refer to Appendix III for additional guidance on client monies.

270.3 As part of client and engagement acceptance procedures for services that may involve the holding of client assets, a professional accountant in public practice shall make appropriate inquiries about the source of such assets and consider legal and regulatory obligations. For example, if the assets were derived from illegal activities, such as money laundering, a threat to compliance with the fundamental principles would be created. In such situations, the professional accountant may consider seeking legal advice.

Section 280  Objectivity–All Services

Objectivity–All Services

280.1 A professional accountant in public practice shall determine when providing any professional service whether there are threats to compliance with the fundamental principle of objectivity resulting from having interests in, or relationships with, a client or its directors, officers or employees. For example, a familiarity threat to objectivity may be created from a family or close personal or business relationship.

280.2 A professional accountant in public practice who provides an assurance service shall be independent of the assurance client. Independence of mind and in appearance is necessary to enable the professional accountant in public practice to express a conclusion, and be seen to express a conclusion, without bias, conflict of interest, or undue influence of others. Section 290 and 291 provide specific guidance on independence requirements for professional accountants in public practice when performing assurance engagement.

280.3 The existence of threats to objectivity when providing any professional service will depend upon the particular circumstances of the engagement and the nature of the work that the professional accountant in public practice is performing.

280.4 A professional accountant in public practice shall evaluate the significance of any threats and apply safeguards when necessary to eliminate them or reduce them to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(a) Withdrawing from the engagement team.
(b) Supervisory procedures.
(c) Terminating the financial or business relationship giving rise to the threat.
(d) Discussing the issue with higher levels of management within the firm.
(e) Discussing the issue with those charged with governance of the client.

If safeguards cannot eliminate or reduce the threat to an acceptable level, the professional accountant shall decline or terminate the relevant engagement.

Section 290  Independence - Audit and Review Engagement

Structure of Section

290.1 This section addresses the independence requirements for audit engagements and review engagements, which are assurance engagements in which a professional accountant in public practice expresses a conclusion on financial statements. Such engagements comprise audit and review engagements to report on a complete set of financial statements and a single financial statement. Independence requirements for assurance engagements that are not audit or review engagements are addressed in Section 291.

290.2 In certain circumstances involving audit engagements where the audit report includes a restriction on use and distribution and provided certain conditions are met, the independence requirements in this section may be modified as provided in paragraphs 290.500 to 290.514. The modifications are not permitted in the case of an audit of financial statements required by law or regulation.

290.3 In this section, the term(s):

(a) “Audit,” “audit team,” “audit engagement,” “audit client” and “audit report” includes review, review team, review engagement, review client and review report; and

(b) “Firm” includes network firm, except where otherwise stated.

A Conceptual Framework Approach to Independence

290.4 In the case of an assurance engagement it is in the public interest and, therefore, required by the Institute pursuant to these By-Laws, that members of audit teams, firms and network firms shall be independent of audit clients.

290.5 The objective of this section is to assist firms and members of audit teams in applying the conceptual framework approach described below to achieving and maintaining independence.

290.6 Independence comprises:

(a) Independence of Mind

The state of mind that permits the expression of a conclusion without being affected by influences that compromise professional judgment, thereby allowing an individual to act with integrity, and exercise objectivity and professional skepticism.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(b) Independence in Appearance

The avoidance of facts and circumstances that are so significant that a reasonable and informed third party, would be likely to conclude, weighing all the specific facts and circumstances, that a firm’s, or a member of the audit team’s, integrity, objectivity or professional skepticism has been compromised.

290.7 The conceptual framework approach shall be applied by professional accountants to:

(a) Identify threats to independence;
(b) Evaluate the significance of the threats identified; and
(c) Apply safeguards, when necessary, to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level.

When the professional accountant determines that appropriate safeguards are not available or cannot be applied to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level, the professional accountant shall eliminate the circumstance or relationship creating the threats or decline or terminate the audit engagement. A professional accountant shall use professional judgment in applying this conceptual framework.

A professional accountant shall use professional judgment in applying this conceptual framework.

290.8 Many different circumstances, or combinations of circumstances, may be relevant in assessing threats to independence. It is impossible to define every situation that creates threats to independence and to specify the appropriate action. Therefore, this By-Laws establishes a conceptual framework that requires firms and members of audit teams to identify, evaluate, and address threats to independence. The conceptual framework approach assists professional accountants in practice in complying with the ethical requirements in this By-Laws. It accommodates many variations in circumstances that create threats to independence and can deter a professional accountant from concluding that a situation is permitted if it is not specifically prohibited.

290.9 Paragraphs 290.100 and onwards describe how the conceptual framework approach to independence is to be applied. These paragraphs do not address all the circumstances and relationships that create or may create threats to independence.

290.10 In deciding whether to accept or continue an engagement, or whether a particular individual may be a member of the audit team, a firm shall identify and evaluate threats to independence. If the threats are not at an acceptable level, and the decision is whether to accept an engagement or include a particular individual on the audit team, the firm shall determine whether safeguards are available to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. If the decision is whether to continue an engagement, the firm shall determine whether any existing safeguards will continue to be effective to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level or whether other safeguards will need to be applied or whether the engagement needs to be terminated. Whenever new information about a threat to independence comes to the attention of the firm during the engagement, the firm shall evaluate the significance of the threat in accordance with the conceptual framework approach.

290.11 Throughout this section, reference is made to the significance of threats to independent. In evaluating the significance of a threat, qualitative as well as quantitative factors shall be taken into account.

290.12 This section does not, in most cases, prescribe the specific responsibility of individuals within the firm for actions related to independence because responsibility may differ depending on the size, structure and organization of a firm. The firm is required by International Standards on Quality Control to establish policies and procedures designed to provide it with reasonable assurance that independence is maintained when required by relevant ethical requirements. In addition, International Standards on Auditing require the engagement partner to form a conclusion on compliance with the independence requirements that apply to the engagement.

Networks and Network Firms

290.13 If a firm is deemed to be a network firm, the firm shall be independent of the audit clients of the other firms within the network (unless otherwise stated in this By-Laws). The independence requirements in this section that apply to a network firm apply to any entity, such as a consulting practice or professional law practice, that meets the definition of a network firm irrespective of whether the entity itself meets the definition of a firm.

290.14 To enhance their ability to provide professional services, firms frequently form larger structures with other firms and entities. Whether these larger structures create a network depends on the particular facts and circumstances and does not depend on whether the firms and entities are legally separate and distinct. For example, a larger structure may be aimed only at facilitating the referral of work, which in itself does not meet the criteria necessary to constitute a network. Alternatively, a larger structure might be such that it is aimed at cooperation and the firms share a common brand name, a common system of quality control, or significant professional resources and consequently is deemed to be a network.

290.15 The judgment as to whether the larger structure is a network shall be made in light of whether a reasonable and informed third party would be likely to conclude, weighing all the specific facts and circumstances, that the entities are associated in such a way that a network exists. This judgment shall be applied consistently throughout the network.

290.16 Where the larger structure is aimed at co-operation and it is clearly aimed at profit or cost sharing among the entities within the structure, it is deemed to be a network. However, the sharing of immaterial costs does not in itself create a network. In addition, if the sharing of costs is limited only to those costs related to the development of audit methodologies, manuals, or training courses, this would not in itself create a network. Further, an association between a firm and an otherwise unrelated entity to jointly provide a service or develop a product does not in itself create a network.

290.17 Where the larger structure is aimed at cooperation and the entities within the structure share common ownership, control or management, it is deemed to be a network. This could be achieved by contract or other means.

290.18 Where the larger structure is aimed at co-operation and the entities within the structure share common quality control policies and procedures, it is deemed to be a network. For this purpose common quality control policies and procedures are those designed, implemented and monitored across the larger structure.

290.19 Where the larger structure is aimed at co-operation and the entities within the structure share a common business strategy, it is deemed to be a network. Sharing a common business strategy involves an agreement by the entities to achieve common strategic objectives. An entity is not deemed to be a network firm merely because it cooperates with another entity solely to respond jointly to a request for a proposal for the provision of a professional service.

290.20 Where the larger structure is aimed at co-operation and the entities within the structure share the use of a common brand name, it is deemed to be a network. A common brand name includes common initials or a common name. A firm is deemed to be using a common brand name if it includes, for example, the common brand name as part of, or along with, its firm name, when a partner of the firm signs an audit report.

290.21 Even though a firm does not belong to a network and does not use a common brand name as part of its firm name, it may give the appearance that it belongs to a network if it makes reference in its stationery or promotional materials to being a member of an association of firms. Accordingly, if care is not taken in, how a firm describes such memberships, a perception may be created that a firm belongs to a network.

290.22 If a firm sells a component of its practice, the sales agreement sometimes provides that, for a limited period of time, the component may continue to use the name of the firm, or an element of the name, even though it is no longer connected to the firm. In such circumstances, while the two entities may be practicing under a common name, the facts are such that they do not belong to a larger structure aimed at co-operation and are, therefore, not network firms.
Those entities shall determine how to disclose that they are not network firms when presenting themselves to outside parties.

290.23 Where the larger structure is aimed at co-operation and the entities within the structure share a significant part of professional resources, it is deemed to be a network. Professional resources include:
(a) Common systems that enable firms to exchange information such as client data, billing and time records;
(b) Partners and staff;
(c) Technical departments to consult on technical or industry specific issues, transactions or events for assurance engagements;
(d) Audit methodology or audit manuals; and
(e) Training courses and facilities.

290.24 The determination of whether the professional resources shared are significant, and therefore the firms are network firms, shall be made based on the relevant facts and circumstances. Where the shared resources are limited to common audit methodology or audit manuals, with no exchange of personnel or client or market information, it is unlikely that the shared resources would be significant.
The same applies to a common training endeavor. Where, however, the shared resources involve the exchange of people or information, such as where staff are drawn from a shared pool, or a common technical department is created within the larger structure to provide participating firms with technical advice that the firms are required to follow, a reasonable and informed third party is more likely to conclude that the shared resources are significant.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Public Interest Entities

290.25 An entity which is of significant public interest because, as a result of the type of business, size or corporate status, that entity has a wide range of stakeholders. Such entities possess certain authority or enjoy a particular position in society where public accountability can be deemed to exist wherein it is likely that there may be sufficient stakeholders who base their resource allocation decisions upon their knowledge of such entities. Such entities include listed entities, non-listed public companies falling within the purview of the regulatory authorities such as the Securities Commission or Bank Negara Malaysia, or statutory bodies or government controlled entities that are of significant public interest, and which require audits.

290.26 Firms and member bodies are encouraged to determine whether to treat additional entities, or certain categories of entities, as public interest entities because they have a large number and wide range of stakeholders. Factors to be considered include:

(a) The nature of the business, such as the holding of assets in a fiduciary capacity for a large number of stakeholders. Examples may include financial institutions, such as banks and insurance companies, and pension funds;

(b) Size; and

(c) Number of employees.

Related Entities

290.27 In the case of an audit client that is a listed entity, references to an audit client in this section include related entities of the client (unless otherwise stated). For all other audit clients, references to an audit client in this section include related entities over which the client has direct or indirect control. When the audit team knows or has reason to believe that a relationship or circumstance involving another related entity of the client is relevant to the evaluation of the firm’s independence from the client, the audit team shall include that related entity when identifying and evaluating threats to independence and applying appropriate safeguards.

Those Charged with Governance

290.28 Even when not required by the By-Laws, applicable auditing standards, law or regulation, regular communication is encouraged between the firm and those charged with governance of the audit client regarding relationships and other matters that might, in the firm’s opinion, reasonably bear on independence. Such communication enables those charged with governance to:

(a) Consider the firm’s judgments in identifying and evaluating threats to independence;
(b) Consider the appropriateness of safeguards applied to eliminate them or reduce them to an acceptable level; and
(c) Take appropriate action.

Such an approach can be particularly helpful with respect to intimidation and familiarity threats.

In complying with requirements in this section to communicate with those charged with governance, the firm shall determine, having regard to the nature and importance of the particular circumstances and matter to be communicated, the appropriate person(s) within the entity’s governance structure with whom to communicate. If the firm communicates with a subgroup of those charged with governance, for example, an audit committee or an individual, the firm shall determine whether communication with all of those charged with governance is also necessary so that they are adequately informed.

Amended on 29 May 2014; effective 1 July 2014.

Documentation

290.29 Documentation provides evidence of the professional accountant’s judgments in forming conclusions regarding compliance with independence requirements. The absence of documentation is not a determinant of whether a firm considered a particular matter or whether it is independent.

The professional accountant shall document conclusions regarding compliance with independence requirements, and the substance of any relevant discussions that support those conclusions. Accordingly:

(a) When safeguards are required to reduce a threat to an acceptable level, the professional accountant shall document the nature of the threat and the safeguards in place or applied that reduce the threat to an acceptable level; and

(b) When a threat required significant analysis to determine whether safeguards were necessary and the professional accountant concluded that they were not because the threat was already at an acceptable level, the professional accountant shall document the nature of the threat and the rationale for the conclusion.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Engagement Period

290.30 Independence from the audit client is required both during the engagement period and the period covered by the financial statements. The engagement period starts when the audit team begins to perform audit services. The engagement period ends when the audit report is issued. When the engagement is of a recurring nature, it ends at the later of the notification by either party that the professional relationship has terminated or the issuance of the final audit report.

290.31 When an entity becomes an audit client during or after the period covered by the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion, the firm shall determine whether any threats to independence are created by:

(a) Financial or business relationships with the audit client during or after the period covered by the financial statements, but before accepting the audit engagement; or

(b) Previous services provided to the audit client.

290.32 If a non-assurance service was provided to the audit client during or after the period covered by the financial statements but before the audit team begins to perform audit services and the service would not be permitted during the period of the audit engagement, the firm shall evaluate any threat to independence created by the service. If the threat is not at an acceptable level, the audit engagement shall only be accepted if safeguards are applied to eliminate any threat or reduce them to an acceptable level. Example of such safeguards include:

(a) Not including personnel who provided the non-assurance service as members of the audit team;

(b) Having a professional accountant review the audit and non-assurance work as appropriate;

(c) Engaging another firm to evaluate the results of the non-assurance service or having another firm re-perform the non-assurance service to the extent necessary to enable it to take responsibility for the service.

Mergers and Acquisitions

290.33 When, as a result of a merger or acquisition, an entity becomes a related entity of an audit client, the firm shall identify and evaluate previous and current interests and relationships with the related entity that, taking into account available safeguards, could affect its independence and therefore its ability to continue the audit engagement after the effective date of the merger or acquisition.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

The firm shall take steps necessary to terminate, by the effective date of the merger or acquisition, any current interests or relationships that are not permitted under this By-Laws. However, if such a current interest or relationship cannot reasonably be terminated by the effective date of the merger or acquisition, for example, because the related entity is unable by the effective date to effect an orderly transition to another service provider of a non-assurance service provided by the firm, the firm shall evaluate the threat that is created by such interest or relationship. The more significant the threat, the more likely the firm’s objectivity will be compromised and it will be unable to continue as auditor. The significance of the threat will depend upon factors such as:

(a) The nature and significance of the interest or relationship;
(b) The nature and significance of the related entity relationship (for example, whether the related entity is a subsidiary or parent); and
(c) The length of time until the interest or relationship can reasonably be terminated.

The firm shall discuss with those charged with governance the reasons why the interest or relationship cannot reasonably be terminated by the effective date of the merger or acquisition and the evaluation of the significance of the threat.

If those charged with governance request the firm to continue as auditor, the firm shall do so only if:

(a) the interest or relationship will be terminated as soon as reasonably possible and in all cases within six months of the effective date of the merger or acquisition;

(b) any individual who has such an interest or relationship, including one that has arisen through performing a non-assurance service that would not be permitted under this section, will not be a member of the engagement team for the audit or the individual responsible for the engagement quality control review; and

(c) appropriate transitional measures will be applied, as necessary, and discussed with those charged with governance. Examples of transitional measures include:

(i) Having a professional accountant review the audit or non-assurance work as appropriate;

(ii) Having a professional accountant, who is not a member of the firm expressing the opinion on the financial statements, perform a review that is equivalent to an engagement quality control review; or

(iii) Engaging another firm to evaluate the results of the non-assurance service or having another firm re-perform the non-assurance service to the extent necessary to enable it to take responsibility for the service.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

290.36  The firm may have completed a significant amount of work on the audit prior to the effective date of the merger or acquisition and may be able to complete the remaining audit procedures within a short period of time. In such circumstances, if those charged with governance request the firm to complete the audit while continuing with an interest or relationship identified in 290.33, the firm shall do so only if it:

(a) Has evaluated the significance of the threat created by such interest or relationship and discussed the evaluation with those charged with governance;

(b) Complies with the requirements of paragraph 290.35(b)–(c); and

(c) Ceases to be the auditor no later than the issuance of the audit report.

290.37  When addressing previous and current interests and relationships covered by paragraphs 290.33 to 290.36, the firm shall determine whether, even if all the requirements could be met, the interests and relationships create threats that would remain so significant that objectivity would be compromised and, if so, the firm shall cease to be the auditor.

290.38  The professional accountant shall document any interests or relationships covered by paragraphs 290.34 and 36 that will not be terminated by the effective date of the merger or acquisition and the reasons why they will not be terminated, the transitional measures applied, the results of the discussion with those charged with governance, and the rationale as to why the previous and current interests and relationships do not create threats that would remain so significant that objectivity would be compromised.

Breach of a Provision of this Section

(The heading for section 290.39 – 290.49 was amended on 22 July 2013; effective 1 April 2014)

290.39  A breach of a provision of this section may occur despite the firm having policies and procedures designed to provide it with reasonable assurance that independence is maintained. A consequence of a breach may be that termination of the audit engagement is necessary.

Section 290.39 was amended on 22 July 2013; effective 1 April 2014.

290.40  When the firm concludes that a breach has occurred, the firm shall terminate, suspend or eliminate the interest or relationship that caused the breach and address the consequences of the breach.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

290.41 When a breach is identified, the firm shall consider whether there are any legal or regulatory requirements that apply with respect to the breach and, if so, shall comply with those requirements. The firm shall use professional judgment to consider reporting the breach to a member body, relevant regulator or oversight authority.

290.42 When a breach is identified, the firm shall, in accordance with its policies and procedures, promptly communicate the breach to the engagement partner, those with responsibility for the policies and procedures relating to independence, other relevant personnel in the firm, and, where appropriate, the network, and those subject to the independence requirements who need to take appropriate action. The firm shall evaluate the significance of that breach and its impact on the firm’s objectivity and ability to issue an audit report. The significance of the breach will depend on factors such as:

- The nature and duration of the breach;
- The number and nature of any previous breaches with respect to the current audit engagement;
- Whether a member of the audit team had knowledge of the interest or relationship that caused the breach;
- Whether the individual who caused the breach is a member of the audit team or another individual for whom there are independence requirements;
- If the breach relates to a member of the audit team, the role of that individual;
- If the breach was caused by the provision of a professional service, the impact of that service, if any, on the accounting records or the amounts recorded in the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion; and
- The extent of the self-interest, advocacy, intimidation or other threats created by the breach.

290.43 Depending upon the significance of the breach, it may be necessary to terminate the audit engagement or it may be possible to take action that satisfactorily addresses the consequences of the breach. The firm shall determine whether such action can be taken and is appropriate in the circumstances. In making this determination, the firm shall exercise professional judgment and take into account whether a reasonable and informed third party, weighing the significance of the breach, the action to be taken and all the specific facts and circumstances available to the professional accountant at that time, would be likely to conclude that the firm's objectivity would be compromised and therefore the firm is unable to issue an audit report.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

290.44 Examples of actions that the firm may consider include:

- Removing the relevant individual from the audit team;
- Conducting an additional review of the affected audit work or re-performing that work to the extent necessary, in either case using different personnel;
- Recommending that the audit client engage another firm to review or re-perform the affected audit work to the extent necessary; and
- Where the breach relates to a non-assurance service that affects the accounting records or an amount that is recorded in the financial statements, engaging another firm to evaluate the results of the non-assurance service or having another firm re-perform the non-assurance service to the extent necessary to enable it to take responsibility for the service.

290.45 If the firm determines that action cannot be taken to satisfactorily address the consequences of the breach, the firm shall inform those charged with governance as soon as possible and take the steps necessary to terminate the audit engagement in compliance with any applicable legal or regulatory requirements relevant to terminating the audit engagement.

290.46 If the firm determines that action can be taken to satisfactorily address the consequences of the breach, the firm shall discuss the breach and the action it has taken or proposes to take with those charged with governance. The firm shall discuss the breach and the action as soon as possible, unless those charged with governance have specified an alternative timing for reporting less significant breaches. The matters to be discussed shall include:

- The significance of the breach, including its nature and duration;
- How the breach occurred and how it was identified;
- The action taken or proposed to be taken and the firm’s rationale for why the action will satisfactorily address the consequences of the breach and enable it to issue an audit report;
- The conclusion that, in the firm’s professional judgment, objectivity has not been compromised and the rationale for that conclusion; and
- Any steps that the firm has taken or proposes to take to reduce or avoid the risk of further breaches occurring.

290.47 The firm shall communicate in writing with those charged with governance all matters discussed in accordance with paragraph 290.46 and obtain the concurrence of those charged with governance that action can be, or has been, taken to satisfactorily address the consequences of the breach. The communication shall include a description of the firm’s policies and procedures.
relevant to the breach designed to provide it with reasonable assurance that independence is maintained and any steps that the firm has taken, or proposes to take, to reduce or avoid the risk of further breaches occurring. If those charged with governance do not concur that the action satisfactorily addresses the consequences of the breach, the firm shall take the steps necessary to terminate the audit engagement.

290.48 If the breach occurred prior to the issuance of the previous audit report, the firm shall comply with this section in evaluating the significance of the breach and its impact on the firm’s objectivity and its ability to issue an audit report in the current period. The firm shall also consider the impact of the breach, if any, on the firm’s objectivity in relation to any previously issued audit reports, and the possibility of withdrawing such audit reports, and discuss the matter with those charged with governance.

290.49 The firm shall document the breach, the action taken, key decisions made and all the matters discussed with those charged with governance and any discussions with a member body, relevant regulator or oversight authority. When the firm continues with the audit engagement, the matters to be documented shall also include the conclusion that, in the firm’s professional judgment, objectivity has not been compromised and the rationale for why the action taken satisfactorily addressed the consequences of the breach such that the firm could issue an audit report.

Section 290.40 – 290.49 was inserted on 22 July 2013; effective 1 April 2014.

Application of the Conceptual Framework Approach to Independence

290.100 Paragraphs 290.102 to 290.231 describe specific circumstances and relationships that create or may create threats to independence. The paragraphs describe the potential threats and the types of safeguards that may be appropriate to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level and identify certain situations where no safeguards could reduce the threats to an acceptable level. The paragraphs do not describe all of the circumstances and relationships that create or may create a threat to independence. The firm and the members of the audit team shall evaluate the implications of similar, but different, circumstances and relationships and determine whether safeguards, including the safeguards in paragraphs 200.12 to 200.15, can be applied when necessary to eliminate the threats to independence or reduce them to an acceptable level.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

290.101 Paragraphs 290.102 to 290.126 contain references to the materiality of a financial interest, loan, or guarantee, or the significance of a business relationship. For the purpose of determining whether such an interest is material to an individual, the combined net worth of the individual and the individual’s immediate family members may be taken into account.

Financial Interests

290.102 Holding a financial interest in an audit client may create a self-interest threat. The existence and significance of any threat created depends on: (a) the role of the person holding the financial interest, (b) whether the financial interest is direct or indirect, and (c) the materiality of the financial interest.

290.103 Financial interests may be held through an intermediary (e.g. a collective investment vehicle, estate or trust). The determination of whether such financial interests are direct or indirect will depend upon whether the beneficial owner has control over the investment vehicle or the ability to influence its investment decisions. When control over the investment vehicle or the ability to influence investment decisions exists, this By-Laws defines that financial interest to be a direct financial interest. Conversely, when the beneficial owner of the financial interest has no control over the investment vehicle or ability to influence its investment decisions, this By-Laws defines that financial interest to be an indirect financial interest.

290.104 If a member of the audit team, a member of that individual’s immediate family, or a firm has a direct financial interest or a material indirect financial interest in the audit client, the self-interest threat created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Therefore, none of the following shall have a direct financial interest or a material indirect financial interest in the client: a member of the audit team; a member of that individual’s immediate family; or the firm.

290.105 When a member of the audit team has a close family member who the audit team member knows has a direct financial interest or a material indirect financial interest in the audit client, a self-interest threat is created. The significance of the threat will depend on factors such as:

(a) The nature of the relationship between the member of the audit team and the close family member; and

(b) The materiality of the financial interest to the close family member.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

The significance of the threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) The close family member disposing, as soon as practicable, of all of the financial interest or disposing of a sufficient portion of an indirect financial interest so that the remaining interest is no longer material;

(ii) Having a professional accountant review the work of the member of the audit team; or

(iii) Removing the individual from the audit team.

290.106 If a member of the audit team, a member of that individual’s immediate family, or a firm has a direct or material indirect financial interest in an entity that has a controlling interest in the audit client, and the client is material to the entity, the self-interest threat created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Therefore, none of the following shall have such a financial interest: a member of the audit team; a member of that individual’s immediate family; and the firm.

290.107 The holding by a firm’s retirement benefit plan of a direct or material indirect financial interest in an audit client creates a self-interest threat. The significance of the threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level.

290.108 If other partners in the office in which the engagement partner practices in connection with the audit engagement, or their immediate family members, hold a direct financial interest or a material indirect financial interest in that audit client, the self-interest threat created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Therefore, neither such partners nor their immediate family members shall hold any such financial interests in such an audit client.

290.109 The office in which the engagement partner practices in connection with the audit engagement is not necessarily the office to which that partner is assigned. Accordingly, when the engagement partner is located in a different office from that of the other members of the audit team, professional judgment shall be used to determine in which office the partner practices in connection with that engagement.

290.110 If other partners and managerial employees who provide non-audit services to the audit client, except those whose involvement is minimal, or their immediate family members, hold a direct financial interest or a material indirect financial interest in the audit client, the self-interest threat created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Accordingly, neither such personnel nor their immediate family members shall hold any such financial interests in such an audit client.

290.111 Despite paragraphs 290.108 and 290.110, the holding of a financial interest in an audit client by an immediate family member of (a) a partner located in the office in which the engagement partner practices in connection with the audit engagement, or (b) a partner or managerial employee who provides non-audit services to the audit client, is deemed not to compromise independence if the financial interest is received as a result of the immediate family member’s employment rights (e.g., through pension or share option plans) and, when necessary, safeguards are applied to eliminate any threat to independence or reduce it to an acceptable level. However, when the immediate family member has or obtains the right to dispose of the financial interest or, in the case of a stock option, the right to exercise the option, the financial interest shall be disposed of or forfeited as soon as practicable.

290.112 A self-interest threat may be created if the firm or a member of the audit team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, has a financial interest in an entity and an audit client also has a financial interest in that entity. However, independence is deemed not to be compromised if these interests are immaterial and the audit client cannot exercise significant influence over the entity. If such interest is material to any party, and the audit client can exercise significant influence over the other entity, no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Accordingly, the firm shall not have such an interest and any individual with such an interest shall, before becoming a member of the audit team, either:

(a) Dispose of the interest; or

(b) Dispose of a sufficient amount of the interest so that the remaining interest is no longer material.

290.113 (a) A self-interest, familiarity or intimidation threat may be created if a member of the audit team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, or the firm, has a financial interest in an entity when a director, officer or controlling owner of the audit client is also known to have a financial interest in that entity. The existence and significance of any threat will depend upon factors such as:

(i) The role of the professional on the audit team;

(ii) Whether ownership of the entity is closely or widely held;

(iii) Whether the interest gives the investor the ability to control or significantly influence the entity; and

(iv) The materiality of the financial interest.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(b) The significance of any threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Removing the member of the audit team with the financial interest from the audit team; or

(ii) Having a professional accountant review the work of the member of the audit team.

290.114 The holding by a firm, or a member of the audit team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, of a direct financial interest or a material indirect financial interest in the audit client as a trustee creates a self-interest threat. Similarly, a self-interest threat is created when (a) a partner in the office in which the engagement partner practices in connection with the audit, (b) other partners and managerial employees who provide non-assurance services to the audit client, except those whose involvement is minimal, or (c) their immediate family members, hold a direct financial interest or a material indirect financial interest in the audit client as trustee. Such an interest shall not be held unless:

(a) Neither the trustee, nor an immediate family member of the trustee, nor the firm are beneficiaries of the trust;

(b) The interest in the audit client held by the trust is not material to the trust;

(c) The trust is not able to exercise significant influence over the audit client; and

(d) The trustee, an immediate family member of the trustee, or the firm cannot significantly influence any investment decision involving a financial interest in the audit client.

290.115 (a) Members of the audit team shall determine whether a self-interest threat is created by any known financial interests in the audit client held by other individuals including:

(i) Partners and professional employees of the firm, other than those referred to above, or their immediate family members; and

(ii) Individuals with a close personal relationship with a member of the audit team.

(b) Whether these interests create self-interest threat will depend on factors such as:

(i) The firm’s organizational, operating and reporting structure; and

(ii) The nature of the relationship between the individual and the member of the audit team.

(c) The significance of any threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(i) Removing the member of the audit team with the personal relationship from the audit team;

(ii) Excluding the member of the audit team from any significant decision-making concerning the audit engagement; or

(iii) Having a professional accountant review the work of the member of the audit team.

290.116 If a firm or a partner or employee of the firm, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, receives a direct financial interest or a material indirect financial interest in an audit client, for example, by way of an inheritance, gift or as a result of a merger and such interest would not be permitted to be held under this section, then:

(a) If the interest is received by the firm, the financial interest shall be disposed of immediately, or a sufficient amount of an indirect financial interest shall be disposed of so that the remaining interest is no longer material;

(b) If the interest is received by a member of the audit team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, the individual who received the financial interest shall immediately dispose of the financial interest, or dispose of a sufficient amount of an indirect financial interest so that the remaining interest is no longer material; or

(c) If the interest is received by an individual who is not a member of the audit team, or by an immediate family member of the individual, the financial interest shall be disposed of as soon as possible, or a sufficient amount of an indirect financial interest shall be disposed of so that the remaining interest is no longer material. Pending the disposal of the financial interest, a determination shall be made as to whether any safeguards are necessary.

Section 290.117 was deleted on 22 July 2013; effective 1 April 2014

Loans and Guarantees

290.118 A loan, or a guarantee of a loan, to a member of the audit team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, or the firm from an audit client that is a bank or a similar institution may create a threat to independence. If the loan or guarantee is not made under normal lending procedures, terms and conditions, a self-interest threat would be created that would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Accordingly, neither a member of the audit team, a member of that individual’s immediate family, nor a firm shall accept such a loan or guarantee.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

290.119 If a loan to a firm from an audit client that is a bank or similar institution is made under normal lending procedures, terms and conditions and it is material to the audit client or firm receiving the loan, it may be possible to apply safeguards to reduce the self interest threat to an acceptable level. An example of such a safeguard is having the work reviewed by a professional accountant from a network firm that is neither involved with the audit nor received the loan.

290.120 A loan, or a guarantee of a loan, from an audit client that is a bank or a similar institution, to a member of the audit team or a member of that individual’s immediate family, does not create a threat to independence if the loan, or guarantee, is made under normal lending procedures, terms and conditions. Examples of such loans include home mortgages, bank overdrafts, car loans and credit card balances.

290.121 If the firm or a member of the audit team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, accepts a loan from, or has a borrowing guaranteed by, an audit client that is not a bank or similar institution, the self-interest threat created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level, unless the loan or guarantee is immaterial to both (a) the firm or the member of the audit team and the immediate family member, and (b) the client.

290.122 Similarly, if the firm or a member of the audit team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, makes or guarantees a loan to an audit client, the self-interest threat created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level, unless the loan or guarantee is immaterial to both (a) the firm or the member of the audit team and the immediate family member, and (b) the client.

290.123 If a firm or a member of the audit team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, has deposits or a brokerage account with an audit client that is a bank, broker or similar institution, a threat to independence is not created if the deposit or account is held under normal commercial terms.

Business Relationships

290.124 A close business relationship between a firm, or a member of the audit team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, and the audit client or its management, arises from a commercial relationship or common financial interest and may create self interest or intimidation threats. Examples of such relationships include:
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(a) Having a financial interest in a joint venture with either the client or a controlling owner, director, officer or other individual who performs senior managerial activities for that client.

(b) Arrangements to combine one or more services or products of the firm with one or more services or products of the client and to market the package with reference to both parties.

(c) Distribution or marketing arrangements under which the firm distributes or markets the client’s products or services, or the client distributes or markets the firm’s products or services.

Unless any financial interest is immaterial and the business relationship is insignificant to the firm and the client or its management, the threat created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Therefore, unless the financial interest is immaterial and the business relationship is insignificant, the business relationship shall not be entered into, or it shall be reduced to an insignificant level or terminated.

In the case of a member of the audit team, unless any such financial interest is immaterial and the relationship is insignificant to that member, the individual shall be removed from the audit team.

If the business relationship is between an immediate family member of a member of the audit team and the audit client or its management, the significance of any threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level.

290.125 A business relationship involving the holding of an interest by the firm, or a member of the audit team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, in a closely-held entity when the audit client or a director or officer of the client, or any group thereof, also holds an interest in that entity does not create threats to independence if:

(a) The business relationship is insignificant to the firm, the member of the audit team and the immediate family member, and the client;

(b) The financial interest is immaterial to the investor or group of investors; and

(c) The financial interest does not give the investor, or group of investors, the ability to control the closely-held entity.

290.126 The purchase of goods and services from an audit client by the firm, or a member of the audit team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, does not generally create a threat to independence if the transaction is in the normal course of business and at arm’s length. However, such transactions may be of such a nature or magnitude that they create a self-interest threat. The significance of any threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(a) Eliminating or reducing the magnitude of the transaction; or
(b) Removing the individual from the audit team.

Family and Personal Relationships

290.127 Family and personal relationships between a member of the audit team and a director or officer or certain employees (depending on their role) of the audit client may create self-interest, familiarity or intimidation threats. The existence and significance of any threats will depend on a number of factors, including the individual’s responsibilities on the audit team, the role of the family member or other individual within the client and the closeness of the relationship.

290.128 When an immediate family member of a member of the audit team is:

(a) A director or officer of the audit client; or
(b) An employee in a position to exert significant influence over the preparation of the client’s accounting records or the financial statements, on which the firm will express an opinion, or was in such a position during any period covered by the engagement or the financial statements, the threats to independence can only be reduced to an acceptable level by removing the individual from the audit team. The closeness of the relationship is such that no other safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Accordingly, no individual who has such a relationship shall be a member of the audit team.

290.129 (a) Threats to independence are created when an immediate family member of a member of the audit team is an employee in a position to exert significant influence over the client’s financial position, financial performance or cash flows. The significance of the threats will depend on factors such as:

(i) The position held by the immediate family member; and
(ii) The role of the professional on the audit team.

(b) The significance of the threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level.
Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Removing the individual from the audit team; or
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(ii) Structuring the responsibilities of the audit team so that the professional does not deal with matters that are within the responsibility of the immediate family member.

290.130  (a) Threats to independence are created when a close family member of a member of the audit team is:

(i) A director or officer of the audit client; or

(ii) An employee in a position to exert significant influence over the preparation of the client’s accounting records or the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion.

(b) The significance of the threats will depend on factors such as:

(i) The nature of the relationship between the member of the audit team and the close family member;

(ii) The position held by the close family member; and

(iii) The role of the professional on the audit team.

(c) The significance of the threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Removing the individual from the audit team; or

(ii) Structuring the responsibilities of the audit team so that the professional does not deal with matters that are within the responsibility of the close family member.

290.131  (a) Threats to independence are created when a member of the audit team has a close relationship with a person who is not an immediate or close family member, but who is a director or officer or an employee in a position to exert significant influence over the preparation of the client’s accounting records or the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion. A member of the audit team who has such a relationship shall consult in accordance with firm policies and procedures. The significance of the threats will depend on factors such as:

(i) The nature of the relationship between the individual and the member of the audit team;

(ii) The position the individual holds with the client; and

(iii) The role of the professional on the audit team.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(b) The significance of the threats shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Removing the professional from the audit team; or

(ii) Structuring the responsibilities of the audit team so that the professional does not deal with matters that are within the responsibility of the individual with whom the professional has a close relationship.

290.132 (a) Self-interest, familiarity or intimidation threats may be created by a personal or family relationship between (a) a partner or employee of the firm who is not a member of the audit team and (b) a director or officer of the audit client or an employee in a position to exert significant influence over the preparation of the client’s accounting records or the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion. Partners and employees of the firm who are aware of such relationships shall consult in accordance with firm policies and procedures. The existence and significance of any threat will depend on factors such as:

(i) The nature of the relationship between the partner or employee of the firm and the director or officer or employee of the client;

(ii) The interaction of the partner or employee of the firm with the audit team;

(iii) The position of the partner or employee within the firm; and

(iv) The position the individual holds with the client.

(b) The significance of any threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Structuring the partner’s or employee’s responsibilities to reduce any potential influence over the audit engagement; or

(ii) Having a professional accountant review the relevant audit work performed.

Employment with an Audit Client

290.134 Familiarity or intimidation threats may be created if a director or officer of the audit client, or an employee in a position to exert significant influence over the preparation of the client’s accounting records or the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion, has been a member of the audit team or partner of the firm.

290.135 If a former member of the audit team or partner of the firm has joined the audit client in such a position and a significant connection remains between the firm and the individual, the threat would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Therefore, independence would be deemed to be compromised if a former member of the audit team or partner joins the audit client as a director or officer, or as an employee in a position to exert significant influence over the preparation of the client’s accounting records or the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion, unless:

(a) The individual is not entitled to any benefits or payments from the firm, unless made in accordance with fixed pre-determined arrangements, and any amount owed to the individual is not material to the firm; and

(b) The individual does not continue to participate or appear to participate in the firm’s business or professional activities.

290.136 (a) If a former member of the audit team or partner of the firm has joined the audit client in such a position, and no significant connection remains between the firm and the individual, the existence and significance of any familiarity or intimidation threats will depend on factors such as:

(i) The position the individual has taken at the client;

(ii) Any involvement the individual will have with the audit team;

(iii) The length of time since the individual was a member of the audit team or partner of the firm; and

(iv) The former position of the individual within the audit team or firm, for example, whether the individual was responsible for maintaining regular contact with the client’s management or those charged with governance.

(b) The significance of any threats created shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Modifying the audit plan;

(ii) Assigning individuals to the audit team who have sufficient experience in relation to the individual who has joined the client; or

(iii) Having a professional accountant review the work of the former member of the audit team.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

290.137 If a former partner of the firm has previously joined an entity in such a position and the entity subsequently becomes an audit client of the firm, the significance of any threat to independence shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level.

290.138 A self-interest threat is created when a member of the audit team participates in the audit engagement while knowing that the member of the audit team will, or may, join the client some time in the future. Firm policies and procedures shall require members of an audit team to notify the firm when entering employment negotiations with the client. On receiving such notification, the significance of the threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(a) Removing the individual from the audit team; or
(b) A review of any significant judgments made by that individual while on the team.

Audit Clients that are Public Interest Entities

290.139 Familiarity or intimidation threats are created when a key audit partner joins the audit client that is a public interest entity as:

(a) A director or officer of the entity; or
(b) An employee in a position to exert significant influence over the preparation of the client’s accounting records or the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion.

Independence would be deemed to be compromised unless, subsequent to the partner ceasing to be a key audit partner, the public interest entity had issued audited financial statements covering a period of not less than two years and the partner was not a member of the audit team with respect to the audit of those financial statements.

290.140 An intimidation threat is created when the individual who was the firm’s Senior or Managing Partner (Chief Executive or equivalent) joins an audit client that is a public interest entity as (a) an employee in a position to exert significant influence over the preparation of the entity’s accounting records or its financial statements or (b) a director or officer of the entity. Independence would be deemed to be compromised unless two years have passed since the individual was the Senior or Managing Partner (Chief Executive or equivalent) of the firm.

290.141 Independence is deemed not to be compromised if, as a result of a business combination, a former key audit partner or the individual who was the firm’s former Senior or Managing Partner is in a position as described in paragraphs 290.139 and 290.140, and:
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(a) The position was not taken in contemplation of the business combination;
(b) Any benefits or payments due to the former partner from the firm have been settled in full, unless made in accordance with fixed pre-determined arrangements and any amount owed to the partner is not material to the firm;
(c) The former partner does not continue to participate or appear to participate in the firm’s business or professional activities; and
(d) The position held by the former partner with the audit client is discussed with those charged with governance.

Temporary Staff Assignments

290.142 (a) The lending of staff by a firm to an audit client may create a self-review threat. Such assistance may be given, but only for a short period of time and the firm’s personnel shall not be involved in:
(i) Providing non-assurance services that would not be permitted under this section; or
(ii) Assuming management responsibilities.
In all circumstances, the audit client shall be responsible for directing and supervising the activities of the loaned staff.

(b) The significance of any threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:
(i) Conducting an additional review of the work performed by the loaned staff;
(ii) Not giving the loaned staff audit responsibility for any function or activity that the staff performed during the temporary staff assignment; or
(iii) Not including the loaned staff as a member of the audit team.

290.142A Where a financial statement audit client is a public interest entity the lending of staff by a firm or network firm is prohibited.

Recent Service with an Audit Client

290.143 Self-interest, self-review or familiarity threats may be created if a member of the audit team has recently served as a director, officer, or employee of the audit client. This would be the case when, for example, a member of the audit team has to evaluate elements of the financial statements for which the member of the audit team had prepared the accounting records while with the client.

290.144 If, during the period covered by the audit report, a member of the audit team had served as a director or officer of the audit client, or was an employee in a position to exert significant influence over the preparation of the client’s accounting records or the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion, the threat created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Consequently, such individuals shall not be assigned to the audit team.

290.145 Self-interest, self-review or familiarity threats may be created if, before the period covered by the audit report, a member of the audit team had served as a director or officer of the audit client, or was an employee in a position to exert significant influence over the preparation of the client’s accounting records or financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion. For example, such threats would be created if a decision made or work performed by the individual in the prior period, while employed by the client, is to be evaluated in the current period as part of the current audit engagement. The existence and significance of any threats will depend on factors such as:

(a) The position the individual held with the client;
(b) The length of time since the individual left the client; and
(c) The role of the professional on the audit team.

The significance of any threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to reduce the threat to an acceptable level. An example of such a safeguard is conducting a review of the work performed by the individual as a member of the audit team.

Serving as a Director or Officer of an Audit Client

290.146 If a partner or employee of the firm serves as a director or officer of an audit client or as a liquidator, provisional liquidator, receiver, receiver and manager, special administrator or persons of like description, the self-review and self-interest threats created would be so significant that no safeguard could reduce the threats to an acceptable level. Accordingly, no partner or employee shall serve as a director or officer of an audit client.

Long Association of Senior Personnel (Including Partner Rotation) with an Audit Client

General Provisions

290.150  (a)  Familiarity and self-interest threats are created by using the same senior personnel on an audit engagement over a long period of time. The significance of the threats will depend on factors such as:

(i)  How long the individual has been a member of the audit team;
(ii)  The role of the individual on the audit team;
(iii)  The structure of the firm;
(iv)  The nature of the audit engagement;
(v)  Whether the client’s management team has changed; and
(vi)  Whether the nature or complexity of the client’s accounting and reporting issues has changed.

(b)  The significance of the threats shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i)  Rotating the senior personnel off the audit team;
(ii)  Having a professional accountant who was not a member of the audit team review the work of the senior personnel; or
(iii)  Regular independent internal or external quality reviews of the engagement.

Audit Clients that are Public Interest Entities

290.151  In respect of an audit of a public interest entity, an individual shall not be a key audit partner for more than five years. After such time, the individual shall not be a member of the engagement team or be a key audit partner for the client for two years. During that period, the individual shall not participate in the audit of the entity, provide quality control for the engagement, consult with the engagement team or the client regarding technical or industry-specific issues, transactions or events or otherwise directly influence the outcome of the engagement.

290.152 Despite paragraph 290.151, key audit partners whose continuity is especially important to audit quality may, in rare cases due to unforeseen circumstances outside the firm’s control, be permitted an additional year on the audit team as long as the threat to independence can be eliminated or reduced to an acceptable level by applying safeguards. For example, a key audit partner may remain on the audit team for up to one additional year in circumstances where, due to unforeseen events, a required rotation was not possible, as might be the case due to serious illness of the intended engagement partner; or situations when a regulatory authority empowered by law expressly allows such flexibility.

290.153 (a) The long association of other partners with an audit client that is a public interest entity creates familiarity and self-interest threats. The significance of the threats will depend on factors such as:

(i) How long any such partner has been associated with the audit client;
(ii) The role, if any, of the individual on the audit team; and
(iii) The nature, frequency and extent of the individual’s interactions with the client’s management or those charged with governance.

(b) The significance of the threats shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Rotating the partner off the audit team or otherwise ending the partner’s association with the audit client; or
(ii) Regular independent internal or external quality reviews of the engagement.

290.154 When an audit client becomes a public interest entity, the length of time the individual has served the audit client as a key audit partner before the client becomes a public interest entity shall be taken into account in determining the timing of the rotation. If the individual has served the audit client as a key audit partner for three (3) years or less when the client becomes a public interest entity, the number of years the individual may continue to serve the client in that capacity before rotating off the engagement is five (5) years less the number of years already served. If the individual has served the audit client as a key audit partner for four (4) or more years when the client becomes a public interest entity, the partner may continue to serve in that capacity for a maximum of two additional years before rotating off the engagement.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

290.155 When a firm has only a few people with the necessary knowledge and experience to serve as a key audit partner on the audit of a public interest entity, rotation of key audit partners may not be an available safeguard. If an independent regulator in the relevant jurisdiction has provided an exemption from partner rotation in such circumstances, an individual may remain a key audit partner for more than five years, in accordance with such regulation, provided that the independent regulator has specified alternative safeguards which are applied, such as a regular independent external review.

Provision of Non-assurance Services to Audit Clients

290.156 Firms have traditionally provided to their audit clients a range of non-assurance services that are consistent with their skills and expertise. Providing non-assurance services may, however, create threats to the independence of the firm or members of the audit team. The threats created are most often self-review, self-interest and advocacy threats.

290.157 New developments in business, the evolution of financial markets and changes in information technology make it impossible to draw up an all-inclusive list of non-assurance services that might be provided to an audit client. When specific guidance on a particular non-assurance service is not included in this section, the conceptual framework shall be applied when evaluating the particular circumstances.

290.158 Before the firm accepts an engagement to provide a non-assurance service to an audit client, a determination shall be made as to whether providing such a service would create a threat to independence. In evaluating the significance of any threat created by a particular non-assurance service, consideration shall be given to any threat that the audit team has reason to believe is created by providing other related non-assurance services. If a threat is created that cannot be reduced to an acceptable level by the application of safeguards, the non-assurance service shall not be provided.

290.160 A firm may provide non-assurance services that would otherwise be restricted under this section to the following related entities of the audit client:

(a) An entity, which is not an audit client, that has direct or indirect control over the audit client;
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(b) An entity, which is not an audit client, with a direct financial interest in the client if that entity has significant influence over the client and the interest in the client is material to such entity; or

(c) An entity, which is not an audit client, that is under common control with the audit client.

If it is reasonable to conclude that (a) the services do not create a self-review threat because the results of the services will not be subject to audit procedures and (b) any threats that are created by the provision of such services are eliminated or reduced to an acceptable level by the application of safeguards.

290.161 A non-assurance service provided to an audit client does not compromise the firm’s independence when the client becomes a public interest entity if:

(a) The previous non-assurance service complies with the provisions of this section that relate to audit clients that are not public interest entities;

(b) Services that are not permitted under this section for audit clients that are public interest entities are terminated before or as soon as practicable after the client becomes a public interest entity; and

(c) The firm applies safeguards when necessary to eliminate or reduce to an acceptable level any threats to independence arising from the service.

Management Responsibilities

290.162 Management of an entity performs many activities in managing the entity in the best interests of stakeholders of the entity. It is not possible to specify every activity that is a management responsibility. However, management responsibilities involve leading and directing an entity, including making significant decisions regarding the acquisition, deployment and control of human, financial, physical and intangible resources.

290.163 Whether an activity is a management responsibility depends on the circumstances and requires the exercise of judgment. Examples of activities that would generally be considered a management responsibility include:

(a) Setting policies and strategic direction;

(b) Directing and taking responsibility for the actions of the entity’s employees;

(c) Authorizing transactions;

(d) Deciding which recommendations of the firm or other third parties to implement;

(e) Taking responsibility for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with the applicable financial reporting framework;
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(f) Taking responsibility for designing, implementing and maintaining internal control; and

(g) Acting as a court appointed liquidator, provisional liquidator, receiver, receiver and manager, special administrator or persons of like description, of the assurance client within the previous two (2) years.

290.164 Activities that are routine and administrative, or involve matters that are insignificant, generally are deemed not to be a management responsibility. For example, executing an insignificant transaction that has been authorized by management or monitoring the dates for filing statutory returns and advising an audit client of those dates is deemed not to be a management responsibility. Further, providing advice and recommendations to assist management in discharging its responsibilities is not assuming a management responsibility.

290.165 If a firm were to assume a management responsibility for an audit client, the threats created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threats to an acceptable level. For example, deciding which recommendations of the firm to implement will create self-review and self-interest threats. Further, assuming a management responsibility creates a familiarity threat because the firm becomes too closely aligned with the views and interests of management. Therefore, the firm shall not assume a management responsibility for an audit client.

290.166 To avoid the risk of assuming a management responsibility when providing non-assurance services to an audit client, the firm shall be satisfied that a member of management is responsible for making the significant judgments and decisions that are the proper responsibility of management, evaluating the results of the service and accepting responsibility for the actions to be taken arising from the results of the service. This reduces the risk of the firm inadvertently making any significant judgments or decisions on behalf of management. The risk is further reduced when the firm gives the client the opportunity to make judgments and decisions based on an objective and transparent analysis and presentation of the issues.

Preparing Accounting Records and Financial Statements

General Provisions

290.167 Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with the applicable financial reporting framework. These responsibilities include:
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(a) Originating or changing journal entries, or determining the account classifications of transactions; and

(b) Preparing or changing source documents or originating data, in electronic or other form, evidencing the occurrence of a transaction (for example, purchase orders, payroll time records, and customer orders).

290.168 Providing an audit client with accounting and bookkeeping services, such as preparing accounting records or financial statements, creates a self-review threat when the firm subsequently audits the financial statements.

290.169 The audit process, however, necessitates dialogue between the firm and management of the audit client, which may involve (a) the application of accounting standards or policies and financial statement disclosure requirements, (b) the appropriateness of financial and accounting control and the methods used in determining the stated amounts of assets and liabilities, or (c) proposing adjusting journal entries. These activities are considered to be a normal part of the audit process and do not, generally, create threats to independence.

290.170 Similarly, the client may request technical assistance from the firm on matters such as resolving account reconciliation problems or analyzing and accumulating information for regulatory reporting. In addition, the client may request technical advice on accounting issues such as the conversion of existing financial statements from one financial reporting framework to another (for example, to comply with group accounting policies or to transition to a different financial reporting framework such as International Financial Reporting Standards). Such services do not, generally, create threats to independence provided the firm does not assume a management responsibility for the client.

Audit Clients that are Not Public Interest Entities

290.171 (a) The firm may provide services related to the preparation of accounting records and financial statements to an audit client that is not a public interest entity where the services are of a routine or mechanical nature, so long as any self-review threat created is reduced to an acceptable level. Examples of such services include:

(i) Providing payroll services based on client-originated date;

(ii) Recording payroll transactions for which the client has determined or approved the appropriate account classification:

(iii) Posting transactions coded by the client to the general ledger;

(iv) Posting client-approved entries to the trial balance; and
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(v) Preparing financial statements based on information in the trial balance.

(b) In all cases, the significance of any threat created shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Arranging for such services to be performed by an individual who is not a member of the audit team; or

(ii) If such services are performed by a member of the audit team, using a partner or senior staff member with appropriate expertise who is not a member of the audit team to review the work performed.

Audit Clients that are Public Interest Entities

290.172 The provision of accounting and bookkeeping services, including payroll services and the preparation of financial statements or financial information which forms the basis on which the audit report is provided, on behalf of a financial statement audit client that is a public interest entity, impairs the independence of the firm, or at least give the appearance of impairing independence. Accordingly, no safeguard other than the prohibition of such services, could reduce the threat created to an acceptable level. Therefore, a firm shall not, provide such services to a public interest entity that is an audit client.

Valuation Services

General Provisions

290.175 A valuation comprises the making of assumptions with regard to future developments, the application of appropriate methodologies and techniques, and the combination of both to compute a certain value, or range of values, for an asset, a liability or for a business as a whole.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

290.176  (a) Performing valuation services for an audit client may create a self-review threat. The existence and significance of any threat will depend on factors such as:

(i) Whether the valuation will have a material effect on the financial statements.

(ii) The extent of the client’s involvement in determining and approving the valuation methodology and other significant matters of judgment.

(iii) The availability of established methodologies and professional guidelines.

(iv) For valuations involving standard or established methodologies, the degree of subjectivity inherent in the item.

(v) The reliability and extent of the underlying data.

(vi) The degree of dependence on future events of a nature that could create significant volatility inherent in the amounts involved.

(vii) The extent and clarity of the disclosures in the financial statements.

(b) The significance of any threat created shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Having a professional who was not involved in providing the valuation service review the audit or valuation work performed; or

(ii) Making arrangements so that personnel providing such services do not participate in the audit engagement.

290.177 Certain valuations do not involve a significant degree of subjectivity. This is likely the case where the underlying assumptions are either established by law or regulation, or are widely accepted and when the techniques and methodologies to be used are based on generally accepted standards or prescribed by law or regulation. In such circumstances, the results of a valuation performed by two or more parties are not likely to be materially different.

290.178 If a firm is requested to perform a valuation to assist an audit client with its tax reporting obligations or for tax planning purposes and the results of the valuation will not have a direct effect on the financial statements, the provisions included in paragraph 290.191 apply.

The rest of this page is intentionally left blank.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Audit Clients that are Not Public Interest Entities

290.179 In the case of an audit client that is not a public interest entity, if the valuation service has a material effect on the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion and the valuation involves a significant degree of subjectivity, no safeguards could reduce the self-review threat to an acceptable level. Accordingly a firm shall not provide such a valuation service to an audit client.

Audit Clients that are Public Interest Entities

290.180 A firm shall not provide valuation services to an audit client that is a public interest entity if the valuations would have a material effect, separately or in the aggregate, on the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion.

Taxation Services

290.181 Taxation services comprise a broad range of services, including:
   (a) Tax return preparation;
   (b) Tax calculations for the purpose of preparing the accounting entries;
   (c) Tax planning and other tax advisory services; and
   (d) Assistance in the resolution of tax disputes.

While taxation services provided by a firm to an audit client are addressed separately under each of these broad headings; in practice, these activities are often interrelated.

290.182 Performing certain tax services creates self-review and advocacy threats. The existence and significance of any threats will depend on factors such as (a) the system by which the tax authorities assess and administer the tax in question and the role of the firm in that process, (b) the complexity of the relevant tax regime and the degree of judgment necessary in applying it, (c) the particular characteristics of the engagement, and (d) the level of tax expertise of the client's employees.

Tax Return Preparation

290.183 Tax return preparation services involve assisting clients with their tax reporting obligations by drafting and completing information, including the amount of tax due (usually on standardized forms) required to be submitted to the applicable tax authorities. Such services also include advising on the tax return treatment of past transactions and responding on behalf of the audit client to the tax authorities’ requests for additional information and analysis (including providing explanations of and technical support for the approach being taken). Tax return preparation services are generally based on historical information and principally involve analysis and presentation of such historical information under existing tax law, including precedents and established practice. Further, the tax returns are subject to whatever review or approval process the tax authority deems appropriate. Accordingly, providing such services does not generally create a threat to independence if management takes responsibility for the returns including any significant judgments made.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Tax Calculations for the Purpose of Preparing Accounting Entries

Audit Clients that are Not Public Interest Entities

290.184 Preparing calculations of current and deferred tax liabilities (or assets) for an audit client for the purpose of preparing accounting entries that will be subsequently audited by the firm creates a self-review threat. The significance of the threat will depend on (a) the complexity of the relevant tax law and regulation and the degree of judgment necessary in applying them, (b) the level of tax expertise of the client’s personnel, and (c) the materiality of the amounts to the financial statements. Safeguards shall be applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(a) Using professionals who are not members of the audit team to perform the service;
(b) If the service is performed by a member of the audit team, using a partner or senior staff member with appropriate expertise who is not a member of the audit team to review the tax calculations; or
(c) Obtaining advice on the service from an external tax professional.

Audit Clients that are Public Interest Entities

290.185 In the case of an audit client that is a public interest entity, a firm shall not prepare tax calculations of current and deferred tax liabilities (or assets) for the purpose of preparing accounting entries that are material to the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion.

PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Tax Planning and Other Tax Advisory Services

290.187 Tax planning or other tax advisory services comprise a broad range of services, such as advising the client how to structure its affairs in a tax efficient manner or advising on the application of a new tax law or regulation.

290.188 A self-review threat may be created where the advice will affect matters to be reflected in the financial statements. The existence and significance of any threat will depend on factors such as:

(a) The degree of subjectivity involved in determining the appropriate treatment for the tax advice in the financial statements;

(b) The extent to which the outcome of the tax advice will have a material effect on the financial statements;

(c) Whether the effectiveness of the tax advice depends on the accounting treatment or presentation in the financial statements and there is doubt as to the appropriateness of the accounting treatment or presentation under the relevant financial reporting framework;

(d) The level of tax expertise of the client’s employees;

(e) The extent to which the advice is supported by tax law or regulation, other precedent or established practice; and

(f) Whether the tax treatment is supported by a private ruling or has otherwise been cleared by the tax authority before the preparation of the financial statements.

For example, providing tax planning and other tax advisory services where the advice is clearly supported by tax authority or other precedent, by established practice or has a basis in tax law that is likely to prevail does not generally create a threat to independence.

290.189 The significance of any threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(a) Using professionals who are not members of the audit team to perform the service;

(b) Having a tax professional, who was not involved in providing the tax service, advise the audit team on the service and review the financial statement treatment;

(c) Obtaining advice on the service from an external tax professional; or

(d) Obtaining pre-clearance or advice from the tax authorities.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

290.190 Where the effectiveness of the tax advice depends on a particular accounting treatment or presentation in the financial statements and:

(a) The audit team has reasonable doubt as to the appropriateness of the related accounting treatment or presentation under the relevant financial reporting framework; and

(b) The outcome or consequences of the tax advice will have a material effect on the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion.

The self-review threat would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Accordingly, a firm shall not provide such tax advice to an audit client.

290.191 (a) In providing tax services to an audit client, a firm may be requested to perform a valuation to assist the client with its tax reporting obligations or for tax planning purposes. Where the result of the valuation will have a direct effect on the financial statements, the provisions included in paragraphs 290.175 to 290.180 relating to valuation services are applicable. Where the valuation is performed for tax purposes only and the result of the valuation will not have a direct effect on the financial statements (i.e. the financial statements are only affected through accounting entries related to tax), this would not generally create threats to independence if such effect on the financial statements is immaterial or if the valuation is subject to external review by a tax authority or similar regulatory authority. If the valuation is not subject to such an external review and the effect is material to the financial statements, the existence and significance of any threat created will depend upon factors such as:

(i) The extent to which the valuation methodology is supported by tax law or regulation, other precedent or established practice and the degree of subjectivity inherent in the valuation.

(ii) The reliability and extent of the underlying data.

(b) The significance of any threat created shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Using professionals who are not members of the audit team to perform the service;

(ii) Having a professional review the audit work or the result of the tax service; or

(iii) Obtaining pre-clearance or advice from the tax authorities.

Assistance in the Resolution of Tax Disputes

290.192 An advocacy or self-review threat may be created when the firm represents an audit client in the resolution of a tax dispute once the tax authorities have notified the client that they have rejected the client’s arguments on a particular issue and either the tax authority or the client is referring the matter for determination in a formal proceeding, for example before a tribunal or court. The existence and significance of any threat will depend on factors such as:

(a) Whether the firm has provided the advice which is the subject of the tax dispute;
(b) The extent to which the outcome of the dispute will have a material effect on the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion;
(c) The extent to which the matter is supported by tax law or regulation, other precedent, or established practice;
(d) Whether the proceedings are conducted in public; and
(e) The role management plays in the resolution of the dispute.

The significance of any threat created shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(a) Using professionals who are not members of the audit team to perform the service;
(b) Having a tax professional, who was not involved in providing the tax service, advise the audit team on the services and review the financial statement treatment; or
(c) Obtaining advice on the service from an external tax professional.

290.193 Where the taxation services involve acting as an advocate for an audit client before a public tribunal or court in the resolution of a tax matter and the amounts involved are material to the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion, the advocacy threat created would be so significant that no safeguards could eliminate or reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Therefore, the firm shall not perform this type of service for an audit client. What constitutes a “public tribunal or court” shall be determined according to how tax proceedings are heard in the particular jurisdiction.

290.194 The firm is not, however, precluded from having a continuing advisory role (for example, responding to specific requests for information, providing factual accounts or testimony about the work performed or assisting the client in analyzing the tax issues) for the audit client in relation to the matter that is being heard before a public tribunal or court.
Internal Audit Services

General Provisions

290.195 The scope and objectives of internal audit activities vary widely and depend on the size and structure of the entity and the requirements of management and those charged with governance. Internal audit activities may include:

(a) Monitoring of internal control – reviewing controls, monitoring their operation and recommending improvements thereto;

(b) Examination of financial and operating information – reviewing the means used to identify, measure, classify and report financial and operating information, and specific inquiry into individual items including detailed testing of transactions, balances and procedures;

(c) Review of the economy, efficiency and effectiveness of operating activities including non-financial activities of an entity; and

(d) Review of compliance with laws, regulations and other external requirements, and with management policies and directives and other internal requirements.

290.196 Internal audit services involve assisting the audit client in the performance of its internal audit activities. The provision of internal audit services to an audit client creates a self-review threat to independence if the firm uses the internal audit work in the course of a subsequent external audit. Performing a significant part of the client’s internal audit activities increases the possibility that firm personnel providing internal audit services will assume a management responsibility. If the firm’s personnel assume a management responsibility when providing internal audit services to an audit client, the threat created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Accordingly, a firm’s personnel shall not assume a management responsibility when providing internal audit services to an audit client.

290.197 Examples of internal audit services that involve assuming management responsibilities include:

(a) Setting internal audit policies or the strategic direction of internal audit activities;

(b) Directing and taking responsibility for the actions of the entity’s internal audit employees;

(c) Deciding which recommendations resulting from internal audit activities shall be implemented;

(d) Reporting the results of the internal audit activities to those charged with governance on behalf of management;
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(e) Performing procedures that form part of the internal control, such as reviewing and approving changes to employee data access privileges;

(f) Taking responsibility for designing, implementing and maintaining internal control; and

(g) Performing outsourced internal audit services, comprising all or a substantial portion of the internal audit function, where the firm is responsible for determining the scope of the internal audit work and may have responsibility for one or more of the matters noted in (a)–(f).

290.198 To avoid assuming a management responsibility, the firm shall only provide internal audit services to an audit client if it is satisfied that:

(a) The client designates an appropriate and competent resource, preferably within senior management, to be responsible at all times for internal audit activities and to acknowledge responsibility for designing, implementing, and maintaining internal control;

(b) The client’s management or those charged with governance reviews, assesses and approves the scope, risk and frequency of the internal audit services;

(c) The client’s management evaluates the adequacy of the internal audit services and the findings resulting from their performance;

(d) The client’s management evaluates and determines which recommendations resulting from internal audit services to implement and manages the implementation process; and

(e) The client’s management reports to those charged with governance the significant findings and recommendations resulting from the internal audit services.

290.199 When a firm uses the work of an internal audit function, International Standards on Auditing require the performance of procedures to evaluate the adequacy of that work. When a firm accepts an engagement to provide internal audit services to an audit client, and the results of those services will be used in conducting the external audit, a self review threat is created because of the possibility that the audit team will use the results of the internal audit service without appropriately evaluating those results or exercising the same level of professional scepticism as would be exercised when the internal audit work is performed by individuals who are not members of the firm. The significance of the threat will depend on factors such as:

(a) The materiality of the related financial statement amounts;

(b) The risk of misstatement of the assertions related to those financial statement amounts; and

(c) The degree of reliance that will be placed on the internal audit service.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

The significance of the threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. An example of such a safeguard is using professionals who are not members of the audit team to perform the internal audit service.

Audit Clients that are Public Interest Entities

290.200A Where an audit client is a public interest entity the firm shall not accept an engagement to provide internal audit services.

IT Systems Services

General Provisions

290.201 Services related to information technology (“IT”) systems include the design or implementation of hardware or software systems. The systems may aggregate source data, form part of the internal control over financial reporting or generate information that affects the accounting records or financial statements, or the systems may be unrelated to the audit client’s accounting records, the internal control over financial reporting or financial statements. Providing systems services may create a self-review threat depending on the nature of the services and the IT systems.

290.202 The following IT systems services are deemed not to create a threat to independence as long as the firm’s personnel do not assume a management responsibility:

(a) Design or implementation of IT systems that are unrelated to internal control over financial reporting;

(b) Design or implementation of IT systems that do not generate information forming a significant part of the accounting records or financial statements;

(c) Implementation of “off-the-shelf” accounting or financial information reporting software that was not developed by the firm if the customization required to meet the client’s needs is not significant; and

(d) Evaluating and making recommendations with respect to a system designed, implemented or operated by another service provider or the client.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Audit Clients that are Not Public Interest Entities

290.203 Providing services to an audit client that is not a public interest entity involving the design or implementation of IT systems that (a) form a significant part of the internal control over financial reporting or (b) generate information that is significant to the client’s accounting records or financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion creates a self-review threat.

290.204 The self-review threat is too significant to permit such services unless appropriate safeguards are put in place ensuring that:
   (a) The client acknowledges its responsibility for establishing and monitoring a system of internal controls;
   (b) The client assigns the responsibility to make all management decisions with respect to the design and implementation of the hardware or software system to a competent employee, preferably within senior management;
   (c) The client makes all management decisions with respect to the design and implementation process;
   (d) The client evaluates the adequacy and results of the design and implementation of the system; and
   (e) The client is responsible for operating the system (hardware or software) and for the data it uses or generates.

290.205 Depending on the degree of reliance that will be placed on the particular IT systems as part of the audit, a determination shall be made as to whether to provide such non-assurance services only with personnel who are not members of the audit team and who have different reporting lines within the firm. The significance of any remaining threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. An example of such a safeguard is having a professional accountant review the audit or non-assurance work.

Audit Clients that are Public Interest Entities

290.206 In the case of an audit client that is a public interest entity, a firm shall not provide services involving the design or implementation of IT systems that
   (a) form a significant part of the internal control over financial reporting or
   (b) generate information that is significant to the client’s accounting records or financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

290.206A (1) The firm shall not accept an engagement to design, implement financial information technology services where the engagement would lead to the firm’s personnel taking decisions or making judgments which are properly the responsibility of management in the normal course of their employment.

(2) Other than systems that are important to any significant part of the accounting system or to the production of the financial statements, and provided that the management has the requisite expertise, an engagement to design, provide or implement financial information technology systems for an audit client may be accepted, provided that a knowledgeable member of management or senior employee of the audit client with the requisite expertise has been designated by the audit client as having responsibility for overseeing the non-audit services and provided that appropriate safeguard are applied.

(3) Formal acceptance by management of the systems designed and installed by the firm is unlikely to be an effective safeguard when, in substance, the firm has been retained by management as experts and the firm makes important decisions in relation to the design or implementation of systems of internal control and financial reporting.

(4) Additional safeguards include ensuring that –
   (a) the financial information technology projects undertaken by the firm are performed by partners and staff who have no involvement in the audit engagement;
   (b) the audit is reviewed by an independent partner to ensure that the financial information technology work performed has been properly and effectively assessed in the context of the audit engagement.

Litigation Support Services

290.207 Litigation support services may include activities such as acting as an expert witness, calculating estimated damages or other amounts that might become receivable or payable as the result of litigation or other legal dispute, and assistance with document management and retrieval. These services may create a self review or advocacy threat.

290.208 If the firm provides a litigation support service to an audit client and the service involves estimating damages or other amounts that affect the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion, the valuation service provisions included in paragraphs 290.175 to 290.180 shall be followed. In the case of other litigation support services, the significance of any threat created shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level.

Provision of Dispute Resolution Services to an Audit Client

290.211 Acting in an advocacy role for an audit client in resolving a dispute or litigation when the amounts involved are material to the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion would create advocacy and self-review threats so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Therefore, the firm shall not perform this type of service for an audit client.

290.212 When a firm is asked to act in an advocacy role for an audit client in resolving a dispute or litigation when the amounts involved are not material to the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion, the firm shall evaluate the significance of any advocacy and self-review threats created and apply safeguards when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(a) Using professionals who are not members of the audit team to perform the service; or

(b) Having a professional who was not involved in providing the legal services advise the audit team on the service and review any financial statement treatment.

Recruiting Services

General Provisions

290.214 Providing recruiting services to an audit client may create self-interest, familiarity or intimidation threats. The existence and significance of any threat will depend on factors such as:

(a) The nature of the requested assistance; and

(b) The role of the person to be recruited.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

The significance of any threat created shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. In all cases, the firm shall not assume management responsibilities, including acting as a negotiator on the client’s behalf, and the hiring decision shall be left to the client.

The firm may generally provide such services as reviewing the professional qualifications of a number of applicants and providing advice on their suitability for the post. In addition, the firm may interview candidates and advise on a candidate’s competence for financial accounting, administrative or control positions.

Audit Clients that are Public Interest Entities

290.215 A firm shall not provide the following recruiting services to an audit client that is a public interest entity with respect to a director or officer of the entity or senior management in a position to exert significant influence over the preparation of the client’s accounting records or the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion:

(a) Searching for or seeking out candidates for such positions; and
(b) Undertaking reference checks of prospective candidates for such positions.

Corporate Finance Services

290.216 (a) Providing corporate finance services such as (a) assisting an audit client in developing corporate strategies, (b) identifying possible targets for the audit client to acquire, (c) advising on disposal transactions, (d) assisting finance raising transactions, and (e) providing structuring advice may create advocacy and self-review threats. The significance of any threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Using professionals who are not members of the audit team to provide the services; or

(ii) Having a professional who was not involved in providing the corporate finance service advise the audit team on the service and review the accounting treatment and any financial statement treatment.

290.217 (a) Providing a corporate finance service, for example advice on the structuring of a corporate finance transaction or on financing arrangements that will directly affect amounts that will be reported in the financial statements on which the firm will provide an opinion may create a self-review threat. The existence and significance of any threat will depend on factors such as:
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(i) The degree of subjectivity involved in determining the appropriate treatment for the outcome or consequences of the corporate finance advice in the financial statements;

(ii) The extent to which the outcome of the corporate finance advice will directly affect amounts recorded in the financial statements and the extent to which the amounts are material to the financial statements; and

(iii) Whether the effectiveness of the corporate finance advice depends on a particular accounting treatment or presentation in the financial statements and there is doubt as to the appropriateness of the related accounting treatment or presentation under the relevant financial reporting framework.

(b) The significance of any threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Using professionals who are not members of the audit team to perform the service; or

(ii) Having a professional who was not involved in providing the corporate finance service to the client advise the audit team on the service and review the accounting treatment and any financial statement treatment.

290.218 Where the effectiveness of corporate finance advice depends on a particular accounting treatment or presentation in the financial statements and:

(a) The audit team has reasonable doubt as to the appropriateness of the related accounting treatment or presentation under the relevant financial reporting framework; and

(b) The outcome or consequences of the corporate finance advice will have a material effect on the financial statements on which the firm will express an opinion.

The self-review threat would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level, in which case the corporate finance advice shall not be provided.

290.219 Providing corporate finance services involving promoting, dealing in, or underwriting an audit client’s shares would create an advocacy or self-review threat that is so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Accordingly, a firm shall not provide such services to an audit client.

_Fees–Relative Size_

290.220  (a) When the total fees from an audit client represent a large proportion of the total fees of the firm expressing the audit opinion, the dependence on that client and concern about losing the client creates a self-interest or intimidation threat. The significance of the threat will depend on factors such as:

(i) The operating structure of the firm;
(ii) Whether the firm is well established or new; and
(iii) The significance of the client qualitatively and/or quantitatively to the firm.

(b) The significance of the threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Reducing the dependency on the client;
(ii) External quality control reviews; or
(iii) Consulting a third party, such as a professional regulatory body or a professional accountant, on key audit judgments.

290.221  (a) A self-interest or intimidation threat is also created when the fees generated from an audit client represent a large proportion of the revenue from an individual partner’s clients or a large proportion of the revenue of an individual office of the firm. The significance of the threat will depend upon factors such as:

(i) The significance of the client qualitatively and/or quantitatively to the partner or office; and
(ii) The extent to which the remuneration of the partner, or the partners in the office, is dependent upon the fees generated from the client.

(b) The significance of the threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Reducing the dependency on the audit client;
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(ii) Having a professional accountant review the work or otherwise advise as necessary; or

(iii) Regular independent internal or external quality reviews of the engagement.

290.222A (1) In all cases involving public interest entities, if the total fees generated by an audit client or its related entities exceed 15% of the firm’s total fees in each year over two consecutive financial periods, financial dependency exists, in which case, a self-interest threat to independence is created. In such event, the only course of action is to refuse to perform or withdraw from the audit engagement.

(2) The firm is required to submit, together with the annual return of the firm lodged with the Institute, a declaration by the managing partner of the firm that the firm has not breached the threshold set out in sub-paragraph (1) for that year, and provide documentation in support of this as may be required by any enforcement unit established by the Council for this purpose.

Fees–Overdue

290.223 A self-interest threat may be created if fees due from an audit client remain unpaid for a long time, especially if a significant part is not paid before the issue of the audit report for the following year. Generally the firm is expected to require payment of such fees before such audit report is issued. If fees remain unpaid after the report has been issued, the existence and significance of any threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. An example of such a safeguard is having an additional professional accountant who did not take part in the audit engagement provided advice or review the work performed. The firm shall determine whether the overdue fees might be regarded as being equivalent to a loan to the client and whether, because of the significance of the overdue fees, it is appropriate for the firm to be re-appointed or continue the audit engagement.

Contingent Fees

290.224 Contingent fees are fees calculated on a predetermined basis relating to the outcome of a transaction or the result of the services performed by the firm.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

the purposes of this section, a fee is not regarded as being contingent if established by a court or other public authority.

290.225 A contingent fee charged directly or indirectly, for example through an intermediary, by a firm in respect of an audit engagement creates a self-interest threat that is so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Accordingly, a firm shall not enter into any such fee arrangement.

290.226 A contingent fee charged directly or indirectly, for example through an intermediary, by a firm in respect of a non-assurance service provided to an audit client may also create a self-interest threat. The threat created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level if:

(a) The fee is charged by the firm expressing the opinion on the financial statements and the fee is material or expected to be material to that firm;

(b) The fee is charged by a network firm that participates in a significant part of the audit and the fee is material or expected to be material to that firm; or

(c) The outcome of the non-assurance service, and therefore the amount of the fee, is dependent on a future or contemporary judgment related to the audit of a material amount in the financial statements.

Accordingly, such arrangements shall not be accepted.

290.227 (a) For other contingent fee arrangements charged by a firm for a non-assurance service to an audit client, the existence and significance of any threats will depend on factors such as:

(i) The range of possible fee amounts;

(ii) Whether an appropriate authority determines the outcome of the matter upon which the contingent fee will be determined;

(iii) The nature of the service; and

(iv) The effect of the event or transaction on the financial statements.

(b) The significance of any threats shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Having a professional accountant review the relevant audit work or otherwise advise as necessary; or

(ii) Using professionals who are not members of the audit team to perform the non-assurance service.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Compensation and Evaluation Policies

290.228 (a) A self-interest threat is created when a member of the audit team is evaluated on or compensated for selling non-assurance services to that audit client. The significance of the threat will depend on:

(i) The proportion of the individual’s compensation or performance evaluation that is based on the sale of such services;

(ii) The role of the individual on the audit team; and

(iii) Whether promotion decisions are influenced by the sale of such services.

(b) The significance of the threat shall be evaluated and, if the threat is not at an acceptable level, the firm shall either revise the compensation plan or evaluation process for that individual or apply safeguards to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Removing such members from the audit team; or

(ii) Having a professional accountant review the work of the member of the audit team.

290.229 A key audit partner shall not be evaluated on or compensated based on that partner’s success in selling non-assurance services to the partner’s audit client. This is not intended to prohibit normal profit-sharing arrangements between partners of a firm.

Gifts and Hospitality

290.230 Accepting gifts or hospitality from an audit client may create self-interest and familiarity threats. If a firm or a member of the audit team accepts gifts or hospitality, unless the value is trivial and inconsequential, the threats created would be so significant that no safeguard could reduce the threats to an acceptable level. Consequently, a firm or a member of the audit team shall not accept such gifts or hospitality.

Actual or Threatened Litigation

290.231 (a) When litigation takes place, or appears likely, between the firm or a member of the audit team and the audit client, self-interest and intimidation threats are created. The relationship between client...
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

management and the members of the audit team must be characterized by complete candor and full disclosure regarding all aspects of a client’s business operations. When the firm and the client’s management are placed in adversarial positions by actual or threatened litigation, affecting management’s willingness to make complete disclosures, self-interest and intimidation threats are created. The significance of the threats created will depend on such factors as:

(i) The materiality of the litigation; and
(ii) Whether the litigation relates to a prior audit engagement.

(b) The significance of the threats shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) If the litigation involves a member of the audit team, removing that individual from the audit team; or
(ii) Having a professional review the work performed.

If such safeguards do not reduce the threats to an acceptable level, the only appropriate action is to withdraw from, or decline, the audit engagement.

Sections 290.232 to 290.499 are intentionally kept blank.

Reports that Include a Restriction on Use and Distribution

Introduction

290.500 The independence requirements in Section 290 apply to all audit engagements. However, in certain circumstances involving audit engagements where the report includes a restriction on use and distribution, and provided the conditions described in 290.501 to 290.502 are met, the independence requirements in this section may be modified as provided in paragraphs 290.505 to 290.514. These paragraphs are only applicable to an audit engagement on special purpose financial statements (a) that is intended to provide a conclusion in positive or negative form that the financial statements are prepared in all material respects, in accordance with the applicable financial reporting framework, including, in the case of a fair presentation framework, that the financial statements give a true and fair view or are presented fairly, in all material respects, in accordance with the applicable financial reporting framework, and (b) where the audit report includes a restriction on use and distribution. The modifications are not permitted in the case of an audit of financial statements required by law or regulation.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

290.501 The modifications to the requirements of Section 290 are permitted if the intended users of the report (a) are knowledgeable as to the purpose and limitations of the report, and (b) explicitly agree to the application of the modified independence requirements. Knowledge as to the purpose and limitations of the report may be obtained by the intended users through their participation, either directly or indirectly through their representative who has the authority to act for the intended users, in establishing the nature and scope of the engagement. Such participation enhances the ability of the firm to communicate with intended users about independence matters, including the circumstances that are relevant to the evaluation of the threats to independence and the applicable safeguards necessary to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level, and to obtain their agreement to the modified independence requirements that are to be applied.

290.502 The firm shall communicate (for example, in an engagement letter) with the intended users regarding the independence requirements that are to be applied with respect to the provision of the audit engagement. Where the intended users are a class of users (for example, lenders in a syndicated loan arrangement) who are not specifically identifiable by name at the time the engagement terms are established, such users shall subsequently be made aware of the independence requirements agreed to by the representative (for example, by the representative making the firm’s engagement letter available to all users).

290.503 If the firm also issues an audit report that does not include a restriction on use and distribution for the same client, the provisions of paragraphs 290.500 to 290.514 do not change the requirement to apply the provisions of paragraphs 290.1 to 290.232 to that audit engagement.

290.504 The modifications to the requirements of Section 290 that are permitted in the circumstances set out above are described in paragraphs 290.505 to 290.514. Compliance in all other respects with the provisions of Section 290 is required.

Public Interest Entities

290.505 When the conditions set out in paragraphs 290.500 to 290.502 are met, it is not necessary to apply the additional requirements in paragraphs 290.100 to 290.231 that apply to audit engagements for public interest entities.

Related Entities

290.506 When the conditions set out in paragraphs 290.500 to 290.502 are met, references to audit client do not include its related entities. However, when the audit team knows or has reason to believe that a relationship or circumstance involving a related entity of the client is relevant to the evaluation of the firm’s independence of the client, the audit team shall include that related entity when identifying and evaluating threats to independence and applying appropriate safeguards.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Networks and Network Firms

290.507 When the conditions set out in paragraphs 290.500 to 290.502 are met, reference to the firm does not include network firms. However, when the firm knows or has reason to believe that threats are created by any interests and relationships of a network firm, they shall be included in the evaluation of threats to independence.

Financial Interests, Loans and Guarantees, Close Business Relationships and Family and Personal Relationships 290.508 When the conditions set out in paragraphs 290.500 to 290.502 are met, the relevant provisions set out in paragraphs 290.102 to 290.145 apply only to the members of the engagement team, their immediate family members and close family members.

290.509 In addition, a determination shall be made as to whether threats to independence are created by interests and relationships, as described in paragraphs 290.102 to 290.145, between the audit client and the following members of the audit team:

(a) Those who provide consultation regarding technical or industry specific issues, transactions or events; and

(b) Those who provide quality control for the engagement, including those who perform the engagement quality control review.

An evaluation shall be made of the significance of any threats that the engagement team has reason to believe are created by interests and relationships between the audit client and others within the firm who can directly influence the outcome of the audit engagement, including those who recommend the compensation of, or who provide direct supervisory, management or other oversight of the audit engagement partner in connection with the performance of the audit engagement (including those at all successively senior levels above the engagement partner through to the individual who is the firm’s Senior or Managing Partner (Chief Executive or equivalent).
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

290.510 An evaluation shall also be made of the significance of any threats that the engagement team has reason to believe are created by financial interests in the audit client held by individuals, as described in paragraphs 290.108 to 290.111 and paragraphs 290.113 to 290.115.

290.511 Where a threat to independence is not at an acceptable level, safeguards shall be applied to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level.

290.512 In applying the provisions set out in paragraphs 290.106 and 290.115 to interests of the firm, if the firm has a material financial interest, whether direct or indirect, in the audit client, the self-interest threat created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Accordingly, the firm shall not have such a financial interest.

Employment with an Audit Client

290.513 An evaluation shall be made of the significance of any threats from any employment relationships as described in paragraphs 290.134 to 290.138. Where a threat exists that is not at an acceptable level, safeguards shall be applied to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of safeguards that might be appropriate include those set out in paragraph 290.136.

Provision of Non-Assurance Services

290.514 If the firm conducts an engagement to issue a restricted use and distribution report for an audit client and provides a non-assurance service to the audit client, the provisions of paragraphs 290.156 to 290.231 shall be complied with, subject to paragraphs 290.504 to 290.507.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Section 291  Independence –Other Assurance Engagements

Structure of Section

291.1  This section addresses independence requirements for assurance engagements that are not audit or review engagements. Independence requirements for audit and review engagements are addressed in Section 290. If the assurance client is also an audit or review client, the requirements in Section 290 also apply to the firm, network firms and members of the audit or review team. In certain circumstances involving assurance engagements where the assurance report includes a restriction on use and distribution and provided certain conditions are met, the independence requirements in this section may be modified as provided in 291.21 to 291.27.

291.2  Assurance engagements are designed to enhance intended users’ degree of confidence about the outcome of the evaluation or measurement of a subject matter against criteria. The International Framework for Assurance Engagements (the Assurance Framework) issued by the International Auditing and Assurance Standards Board describes the elements and objectives of an assurance engagement and identifies engagements to which International Standards on Assurance Engagements (ISAEs) apply. For a description of the elements and objectives of an assurance engagement, refer to the Assurance Framework.

291.3  Compliance with the fundamental principle of objectivity requires being independent of assurance clients. In the case of assurance engagements, it is in the public interest and, therefore, required by this By-Laws, that members of assurance teams and firms be independent of assurance clients and that any threats that the firm has reason to believe are created by a network firm’s interests and relationships be evaluated. In addition, when the assurance team knows or has reason to believe that a relationship or circumstance involving a related entity of the assurance client is relevant to the evaluation of the firm’s independence from the client, the assurance team shall include that related entity when identifying and evaluating threats to independence and applying appropriate safeguards.

A Conceptual Framework Approach to Independence

291.4  The objective of this section is to assist firms and members of assurance teams in applying the conceptual framework approach described below to achieving and maintaining independence.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

291.5 Independence comprises:

Independence of Mind

The state of mind that permits the expression of a conclusion without being affected by influences that compromise professional judgment, thereby allowing an individual to act with integrity and exercise objectivity and professional skepticism.

Independence in Appearance

The avoidance of facts and circumstances that are so significant that a reasonable and informed third party would be likely to conclude, weighing all the specific facts and circumstances, that a firm’s, or a member of the assurance team’s, integrity, objectivity or professional skepticism has been compromised.

291.6 The conceptual framework approach shall be applied by professional accountants to:

(a) Identify threats to independence;

(b) Evaluate the significance of the threats identified; and

(c) Apply safeguards when necessary to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level.

When the professional accountant determines that appropriate safeguards are not available or cannot be applied to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level, the professional accountant shall eliminate the circumstance or relationship creating the threats or decline or terminate the assurance engagement.

A professional accountant shall use professional judgment in applying this conceptual framework.

291.7 Many different circumstances, or combinations of circumstances, may be relevant in assessing threats to independence. It is impossible to define every situation that creates threats to independence and to specify the appropriate action. Therefore, this By-Laws establishes a conceptual framework that requires firms and members of assurance teams to identify, evaluate, and address threats to independence. The conceptual framework approach assists professional accountants in public practice in complying with the ethical requirements in this By-Laws. It accommodates many variations in circumstances that create threats to independence and can deter a professional accountant from concluding that a situation is permitted if it is not specifically prohibited.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

291.8 Paragraphs 291.100 and onwards describe how the conceptual framework approach to independence is to be applied. These paragraphs do not address all the circumstances and relationships that create or may create threats to independence.

291.9 In deciding whether to accept or continue an engagement, or whether a particular individual may be a member of the assurance team, a firm shall identify and evaluate any threats to independence. If the threats are not at an acceptable level, and the decision is whether to accept an engagement or include a particular individual on the assurance team, the firm shall determine whether safeguards are available to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. If the decision is whether to continue an engagement, the firm shall determine whether any existing safeguards will continue to be effective to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level or whether other safeguards will need to be applied or whether the engagement needs to be terminated. Whenever new information about a threat comes to the attention of the firm during the engagement, the firm shall evaluate the significance of the threat in accordance with the conceptual framework approach.

291.10 Throughout this section, reference is made to the significance of threats to independence. In evaluating the significance of a threat, qualitative as well as quantitative factors shall be taken into account.

291.11 This section does not, in most cases, prescribe the specific responsibility of individuals within the firm for actions related to independence because responsibility may differ International Standards on Quality Control to establish policies and procedures designed to provide it with reasonable assurance that independence is maintained when required by relevant ethical standards.

Assurance Engagements

291.12 As further explained in the Assurance Framework, in an assurance engagement the professional accountant in public practice expresses a conclusion designed to enhance the degree of confidence of the intended users (other than the responsible party) about the outcome of the evaluation or measurement of a subject matter against criteria.

291.13 The outcome of the evaluation or measurement of a subject matter is the information that results from applying the criteria to the subject matter. The term “subject matter information” is used to mean the outcome of the evaluation or measurement of a subject matter. For example, the Framework states that an assertion about the effectiveness of internal control (subject matter information) results from applying a framework for evaluating the effectiveness of internal control.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

control, such as COSO\(^5\) or CoCo\(^6\) (criteria), to internal control, a process (subject matter).

291.14 Assurance engagements may be assertion-based or direct reporting. In either case, they involve three separate parties: a professional accountant in public practice, a responsible party and intended users.

291.15 In an assertion-based assurance engagement, the evaluation or measurement of the subject matter is performed by the responsible party, and the subject matter information is in the form of an assertion by the responsible party that is made available to the intended users.

291.16 In a direct reporting assurance engagement, the professional accountant in public practice either directly performs the evaluation or measurement of the subject matter, or obtains a representation from the responsible party that has performed the evaluation or measurement that is not available to the intended users. The subject matter information is provided to the intended users in the assurance report.

Assertion-based Assurance Engagements

291.17 In an assertion-based assurance engagement, the members of the assurance team and the firm shall be independent of the assurance client (the party responsible for the subject matter information, and which may be responsible for the subject matter). Such independence requirements prohibit certain relationships between members of the assurance team and (a) directors or officers, and (b) individuals at the client in a position to exert significant influence over the subject matter information. Also, a determination shall be made as to whether threats to independence are created by relationships with individuals at the client in a position to exert significant influence over the subject matter of the engagement. An evaluation shall be made of the significance of any threats that the firm has reason to believe are created by network firm interests and relationships.

291.18 In the majority of assertion-based assurance engagements, the responsible party is responsible for both the subject matter information and the subject matter. However, in some engagements, the responsible party may not be responsible for the subject matter. For example, when a professional accountant in public practice, practice is engaged to perform an assurance engagement regarding a report that an environmental consultant has prepared about a company’s sustainability practices for distribution to intended users, the environmental consultant is the responsible party for the subject matter information but the company is responsible for the subject matter (the sustainability practices).

291.19 In assertion-based assurance engagements where the responsible party is responsible for the subject matter information but not the subject matter, the members of the assurance team and the firm shall be independent of the party responsible for the subject matter information (the assurance client). In addition, an evaluation shall be made of any threats the firm has reason to believe are created by interests and relationships between a member of the assurance team, the firm, a network firm and the party responsible for the subject matter.

Direct Reporting Assurance Engagements

291.20 In a direct reporting assurance engagement, the members of the assurance team and the firm shall be independent of the assurance client (the party responsible for the subject matter). An evaluation shall also be made of any threats the firm has reason to believe are created by network firm interests and relationships.

Reports that Include a Restriction on Use and Distribution

291.21 In certain circumstances where the assurance report includes a restriction on use and distribution, and provided the conditions in this paragraph and in 291.22 are met, the independence requirements in this section may be modified. The modifications to the requirements of Section 291 are permitted if the intended users of the report (a) are knowledgeable as to the purpose, subject matter information and limitations of the report and (b) explicitly agree to the application of the modified independence requirements. Knowledge as to the purpose, subject matter information, and limitations of the report may be obtained by the intended users through their participation, either directly or indirectly through their representative who has the authority to act for the intended users, in establishing the nature and scope of the engagement. Such participation enhances the ability of the firm to communicate with intended users about independence matters, including the circumstances that are relevant to the evaluation of the threats to independence and the applicable safeguards necessary to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level, and to obtain their agreement to the modified independence requirements that are to be applied.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

291.22 The firm shall communicate (for example, in an engagement letter) with the intended users regarding the independence requirements that are to be applied with respect to the provision of the assurance engagement. Where the intended users are a class of users (for example, lenders in a syndicated loan arrangement) who are not specifically identifiable by name at the time the engagement terms are established, such users shall subsequently be made aware of the independence requirements agreed to by the representative (for example, by the representative making the firm’s engagement letter available to all users).

291.23 If the firm also issues an assurance report that does not include a restriction on use and distribution for the same client, the provisions of paragraphs 291.25 to 291.27 do not change the requirement to apply the provisions of paragraphs 291.1 to 291.159 to that assurance engagement. If the firm also issues an audit report, whether or not it includes a restriction on use and distribution, for the same client, the provisions of Section 290 shall apply to that audit engagement.

291.24 The modifications to the requirements of Section 291 that are permitted in the circumstances set out above are described in paragraphs 291.25 to 291.27. Compliance in all other respects with the provisions of Section 291 is required.

291.25 When the conditions set out in paragraphs 291.21 and 291.22 are met, the relevant provisions set out in paragraphs 291.104 to 291.134 apply to all members of the engagement team, and their immediate and close family members. In addition, a determination shall be made as to whether threats to independence are created by interests and relationships between the assurance client and the following other members of the assurance team:

(a) Those who provide consultation regarding technical or industry specific issues, transactions or events; and

(b) Those who provide quality control for the engagement, including those who perform the engagement quality control review.

An evaluation shall also be made, by reference to the provisions set out in paragraphs 291.104 to 291.134, of any threats that the engagement team has reason to believe are created by interests and relationships between the assurance client and others within the firm who can directly influence the outcome of the assurance engagement, including those who recommend the compensation, or who provide direct supervisory, management or other oversight, of the assurance engagement partner in connection with the performance of the assurance engagement.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

291.26 Even though the conditions set out in paragraphs 291.21 to 291.22 are met, if the firm had a material financial interest, whether direct or indirect, in the assurance client, the self-interest threat created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Accordingly, the firm shall not have such a financial interest. In addition, the firm shall comply with the other applicable provisions of this section described in paragraphs 291.113 to 291.159.

291.27 An evaluation shall also be made of any threats that the firm has reason to believe are created by network firm interests and relationships.

Multiple Responsible Parties

291.28 In some assurance engagements, whether assertion-based or direct reporting, there might be several responsible parties. In determining whether it is necessary to apply the provisions in this section to each responsible party in such engagements, the firm may take into account whether an interest or relationship between the firm, or a member of the assurance team, and a particular responsible party would create a threat to independence that is not trivial and inconsequential in the context of the subject matter information. This will take into account factors such as:

(a) The materiality of the subject matter information (or of the subject matter) for which the particular responsible party is responsible; and

(b) The degree of public interest associated with the engagement.

If the firm determines that the threat to independence created by any such interest or relationship with a particular responsible party would be trivial and inconsequential, it may not be necessary to apply all of the provisions of this section to that responsible party.

Documentation

291.29 Documentation provides evidence of the professional accountant’s judgments in forming conclusions regarding compliance with independence requirements. The absence of documentation is not a determinant of whether a firm considered a particular matter nor whether it is independent.

The professional accountant shall document conclusions regarding compliance with independence requirements, and the substance of any relevant discussions that support those conclusions. Accordingly:

(a) When safeguards are required to reduce a threat to an acceptable level, the professional accountant shall document the nature of the threat and
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

the safeguards in place or applied that reduce the threat to an acceptable level; and

(b) When a threat required significant analysis to determine whether safeguards were necessary and the professional accountant concluded that they were not because the threat was already at an acceptable level, the professional accountant shall document the nature of the threat and the rationale for the conclusion.

Engagement Period

291.30 Independence from the assurance client is required both during the engagement period and the period covered by the subject matter information. The engagement period starts when the assurance team begins to perform assurance services with respect to the particular engagement. The engagement period ends when the assurance report is issued. When the engagement is of a recurring nature, it ends at the later of the notification by either party that the professional relationship has terminated or the issuance of the final assurance report.

291.31 When an entity becomes an assurance client during or after the period covered by the subject matter information on which the firm will express a conclusion, the firm shall determine whether any threats to independence are created by:

(a) Financial or business relationships with the assurance client during or after the period covered by the subject matter information but before accepting the assurance engagement; or

(b) Previous services provided to the assurance client.

291.32 (a) If a non-assurance service was provided to the assurance client during or after the period covered by the subject matter information but before the assurance team begins to perform assurance services and the service would not be permitted during the period of the assurance engagement, the firm shall evaluate any threat to independence created by the service. If any threat is not at an acceptable level, the assurance engagement shall only be accepted if safeguards are applied to eliminate any threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Not including personnel who provided the non-assurance service as members of the assurance team;

(ii) Having a professional accountant review the assurance and non-assurance work as appropriate: or

(iii) Engaging another firm to evaluate the results of the of the non-assurance service or having another firm re-perform the non-assurance service to the extent necessary to enable it to take responsibility for the service.

(b) However, if the non-assurance service has not been completed and it is not practical to complete or terminate the service before the commencement of professional services in connection with the assurance engagement, the firm shall only accept the assurance engagement if it is satisfied:

(i) The non-assurance service will be completed within a short period of time; or

(ii) The client has arrangements in place to transition the service to another provider within a short period of time.

During the service period, safeguards shall be applied when necessary. In addition, the matter shall be discussed with those charged with governance.

Breach of a Provision of this Section

(The heading for section 291.33 – 291.37 was amended on 22 July 2013; effective 1 April 2014)

291.33 When a breach of a provision of this section is identified, the firm shall terminate, suspend or eliminate the interest or relationship that caused the breach, and shall evaluate the significance of that breach and its impact on the firm’s objectivity and ability to issue an assurance report. The firm shall determine whether action can be taken that satisfactorily addresses the consequences of the breach. In making this determination, the firm shall exercise professional judgment and take into account whether a reasonable and informed third party, weighing the significance of the breach, the action to be taken and all the specific facts and circumstances available to the professional accountant at that time, would be likely to conclude that the firm’s objectivity would be compromised such that the firm is unable to issue an assurance report.

Section 291.33 was amended on 22 July 2013; effective 1 April 2014.

291.34 If the firm determines that action cannot be taken to satisfactorily address the consequences of the breach, the firm shall, as soon as possible, inform the party that engaged the firm or those charged with governance, as appropriate, and take the steps necessary to terminate the assurance engagement in compliance with any applicable legal or regulatory requirements relevant to terminating the assurance engagement.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

291.35 If the firm determines that action can be taken to satisfactorily address the consequences of the breach, the firm shall discuss the breach and the action it has taken or proposes to take with the party that engaged the firm or those charged with governance, as appropriate. The firm shall discuss the breach and the proposed action on a timely basis, taking into account the circumstances of the engagement and the breach.

291.36 If the party that engaged the firm or those charged with governance, as appropriate, do not concur that the action satisfactorily addresses the consequences of the breach, the firm shall take the steps necessary to terminate the assurance engagement in compliance with any applicable legal or regulatory requirements relevant to terminating the assurance engagement.

291.37 The firm shall document the breach, the actions taken, key decisions made and all the matters discussed with the party that engaged the firm or those charged with governance. When the firm continues with the assurance engagement, the matters to be documented shall also include the conclusion that, in the firm’s professional judgment, objectivity has not been compromised and the rationale for why the action taken satisfactorily addressed the consequences of the breach such that the firm could issue an assurance report.

Section 291.34 – 291.37 was inserted on 22 July 2013; effective 1 April 2014.

Application of the Conceptual Framework Approach to Independence

291.100 Paragraphs 291.104 to 291.159 describe specific circumstances and relationships that create or may create threats to independence. The paragraphs describe the potential threats and the types of safeguards that may be appropriate to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level and identify certain situations where no safeguards could reduce the threats to an acceptable level. The paragraphs do not describe all of the circumstances and relationships that create or may create a threat to independence. The firm and the members of the assurance team shall evaluate the implications of similar, but different, circumstances and relationships and determine whether safeguards, including the safeguards in paragraphs 200.11 to 200.14 can be applied when necessary to eliminate the threats to independence or reduce them to an acceptable level.

291.101 The paragraphs demonstrate how the conceptual framework approach applies to assurance engagements and are to be read in conjunction with paragraph 291.28 which explains that, in the majority of assurance engagements, there is one responsible party and that responsible party is the assurance client. However, in some assurance engagements there are two or more responsible parties. In such circumstances, an evaluation shall be made of any threats the firm has reason to believe are created by interests and relationships between a member of the assurance team, the firm, a network firm and the party responsible for the subject matter. For assurance reports that include a restriction on use and distribution, the paragraphs are to be read in the context of paragraphs 291.21 to 291.27.

291.102 Interpretation 2005-01 provides further guidance on applying the independence requirements contained in this section to assurance engagements.

291.103 Paragraphs 291.104 to 291.120 contain references to the materiality of a financial interest, loan, or guarantee, or the significance of a business relationship. For the purpose of determining whether such an interest is material to an individual, the combined net worth of the individual and the individual’s immediate family members may be taken into account.

Financial Interests

291.104 Holding a financial interest in an assurance client may create a self-interest threat. The existence and significance of any threat created depends on: (a) the role of the person holding the financial interest, (b) whether the financial interest is direct or indirect, and (c) the materiality of the financial interest.

291.105 Financial interests may be held through an intermediary (e.g. a collective investment vehicle, estate or trust). The determination of whether such financial interests are direct or indirect will depend upon whether the beneficial owner has control over the investment vehicle or the ability to influence its investment decisions. When control over the investment vehicle or the ability to influence investment decisions exists, this By-Laws defines that financial interest to be a direct financial interest. Conversely, when the beneficial owner of the financial interest has no control over the investment vehicle or ability to influence its investment decisions, this By-Laws defines that financial interest to be an indirect financial interest.

291.106 If a member of the assurance team, a member of that individual’s immediate family or a firm has a direct financial interest or a material indirect financial interest in the assurance client, the self-interest threat created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Therefore, none of the following shall have a direct financial interest or a material indirect financial interest in the client: a member of the assurance team; a member of that individual’s immediate family member; or the firm.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

291.107 (a) When a member of the assurance team has a close family member who the assurance team member knows has a direct financial interest or a material indirect financial interest in the assurance client, a self-interest threat is created. The significance of the threat will depend on factors such as:

(i) The nature of the relationship between the member of the assurance team and the close family member; and

(ii) The materiality of the financial interest to the close family member.

(b) The significance of the threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) The close family member disposing, as soon as practicable, of all of the financial interest or disposing of a sufficient portion of an indirect financial interest so that the remaining interest is no longer material;

(ii) Having a professional accountant review the work of the member of the assurance team; or

(iii) Removing the individual from the assurance team.

291.108 If a member of the assurance team, a member of that individual’s immediate family, or a firm has a direct or material indirect financial interest in an entity that has a controlling interest in the assurance client, and the client is material to the entity, the self-interest threat created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Therefore, none of the following shall have such a financial interest: a member of the assurance team; a member of that individual’s immediate family; and the firm.

291.109 The holding by a firm or a member of the assurance team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, of a direct financial interest or a material indirect financial interest in the assurance client as a trustee creates a self-interest threat. Such an interest shall not be held unless:

(a) Neither the trustee, nor an immediate family member of the trustee, nor the firm is beneficiaries of the trust;

(b) The interest in the assurance client held by the trust is not material to the trust;

(c) The trust is not able to exercise significant influence over the assurance client; and

(d) The trustee, an immediate family member of the trustee, or the firm cannot significantly influence any investment decision involving a financial interest in the assurance client.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

291.110  (a) Members of the assurance team shall determine whether a self-interest threat is created by any known financial interests in the assurance client held by other individuals including:

(i) Partners and professional employees of the firm, other than those referred to above, or their immediate family members; and

(ii) Individuals with a close personal relationship with a member of the assurance team.

(b) Whether these interests create a self-interest threat will depend on factors such as:

(i) The firm’s organizational, operating and reporting structure; and

(ii) The nature of the relationship between the individual and the member of the assurance team.

(c) The significance of any threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Removing the member of the assurance team with the personal relationship from the assurance team;

(ii) Excluding the member of the assurance team from any significant decision making concerning the assurance engagement; or

(iii) Having a professional accountant review the work of the member of the assurance team.

291.111  If a firm, a member of the assurance team, or an immediate family member of the individual, receives a direct financial interest or a material indirect financial interest in an assurance client, for example, by way of an inheritance, gift or as a result of a merger, and such interest would not be permitted to be held under this section, then:

(a) If the interest is received by the firm, the financial interest shall be disposed of immediately, or a sufficient amount of an indirect financial interest shall be disposed of so that the remaining interest is no longer material, or

(b) If the interest is received by a member of the assurance team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, the individual who received the financial interest shall immediately dispose of the financial interest, or dispose of a sufficient amount of an indirect financial interest so that the remaining interest is no longer material.

PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Loans and Guarantees

291.113 A loan or a guarantee of a loan, to a member of the assurance team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, or the firm from an assurance client that is a bank or a similar institution, may create a threat to independence. If the loan or guarantee is not made under normal lending procedures, terms and conditions, a self-interest threat would be created that would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Accordingly, neither a member of the assurance team, a member of that individual’s immediate family, nor a firm shall accept such a loan or guarantee.

291.114 If a loan to a firm from an assurance client that is a bank or similar institution is made under normal lending procedures, terms and conditions and it is material to the assurance client or firm receiving the loan, it may be possible to apply safeguards to reduce the self-interest threat to an acceptable level. An example of such a safeguard is having the work reviewed by a professional accountant from a network firm that is neither involved with the assurance engagement nor received the loan.

291.115 A loan, or a guarantee of a loan, from an assurance client that is a bank or a similar institution to a member of the assurance team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, does not create a threat to independence if the loan or guarantee is made under normal lending procedures, terms and conditions. Examples of such loans include home mortgages, bank overdrafts, car loans and credit card balances.

291.116 If the firm or a member of the assurance team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, accepts a loan from, or has a borrowing guaranteed by, an assurance client that is not a bank or similar institution, the self-interest threat created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level, unless the loan or guarantee is immaterial to both the firm, or the member of the assurance team and the immediate family member, and the client.

291.117 Similarly, if the firm, or a member of the assurance team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, makes or guarantees a loan to an assurance client, the self-interest threat created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level, unless the loan or guarantee is immaterial to both the firm, or the member of the assurance team and the immediate family member, and the client.

291.118 If a firm or a member of the assurance team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, has deposits or a brokerage account with an assurance client that is a bank, broker, or similar institution, a threat to independence is not created if the deposit or account is held under normal commercial terms.

Business Relationships

291.119 A close business relationship between a firm, or a member of the assurance team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, and the assurance client or its management arises from a commercial relationship or common financial interest and may create self-interest or intimidation threats. Examples of such relationships include:

(a) Having a financial interest in a joint venture with the client or a controlling owner, director or officer or other individual who performs senior managerial activities for that client.

(b) Arrangements to combine one or more services or products of the firm with one or more services or products of the client and to market the package with reference to both parties.

(c) Distribution or marketing arrangements under which the firm distributes or markets the client’s products or services, or the client distributes or markets the firm’s products or services.

Unless any financial interest is immaterial and the business relationship is insignificant to the firm and the client or its management, the threat created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Therefore, unless the financial interest is immaterial and the business relationship is insignificant, the business relationship shall not be entered into, or shall be reduced to an insignificant level or terminated.

In the case of a member of the assurance team, unless any such financial interest is immaterial and the relationship is insignificant to that member, the individual shall be removed from the assurance team.

If the business relationship is between an immediate family member of a member of the assurance team and the assurance client or its management, the significance of any threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level.

291.120 The purchase of goods and services from an assurance client by the firm, or a member of the assurance team, or a member of that individual’s immediate family, does not generally create a threat to independence if the transaction is in the normal course of business and at arm’s length. However, such transactions may be of such a nature or magnitude that they create a self-interest threat. The significance of any threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(a) Eliminating or reducing the magnitude of the transaction; or
(b) Removing the individual from the assurance team.

Family and Personal Relationships

291.121 Family and personal relationships between a member of the assurance team and a director or officer or certain employees (depending on their role) of the assurance client, may create self-interest, familiarity or intimidation threats.

The existence and significance of any threats will depend on a number of factors, including the individual’s responsibilities on the assurance team, the role of the family member or other individual within the client, and the closeness of the relationship.

291.122 When an immediate family member of a member of the assurance team is:

(a) A director or officer of the assurance client, or
(b) An employee in a position to exert significant influence over the subject matter information of the assurance engagement, or was in such a position during any period covered by the engagement or the subject matter information, the threats to independence can only be reduced to an acceptable level by removing the individual from the assurance team. The closeness of the relationship is such that no other safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Accordingly, no individual who has such a relationship shall be a member of the assurance team.

291.123 (a) Threats to independence are created when an immediate family member of a member of the assurance team is an employee in a position to exert significant influence over the subject matter of the engagement. The significance of the threats will depend on factors such as:

(i) The position held by the immediate family member; and
(ii) The role of the professional on the assurance team.

(b) The significance of the threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Removing the individual from the assurance team; or
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(ii) Structuring the responsibilities of the assurance team so that the professional does not deal with matters that are within the responsibility of the immediate family member.

291.124 (a) Threats to independence are created when a close family member of a member of the assurance team is:

(i) A director or officer of the assurance client; or

(ii) An employee in a position to exert significant influence over the subject matter information of the assurance engagement.

(b) The significance of the threats will depend on factors such as:

(i) The nature of the relationship between the member of the assurance team and the close family member;

(ii) The position held by the close family member; and

(iii) The role of the professional on the assurance team.

(c) The significance of the threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Removing the individual from the assurance team; or

(ii) Structuring the responsibilities of the assurance team so that the professional does not deal with matters that are within the responsibility of the close family member.

291.125 (a) Threats to independence are created when a member of the assurance team has a close relationship with a person who is not an immediate or close family member, but who is a director or officer or an employee in a position to exert significant influence over the subject matter information of the assurance engagement. A member of the assurance team who has such a relationship shall consult in accordance with firm policies and procedures. The significance of the threats will depend on factors such as:

(i) The nature of the relationship between the individual and the member of the assurance team;

(ii) The position the individual holds with the client; and

(iii) The role of the professional on the assurance team.

(b) The significance of the threats shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(i) Removing the professional from the assurance team; or
(ii) Structuring the responsibilities of the assurance team so that the professional does not deal with matters that are within the responsibility of the individual with whom the professional has a close relationship.

291.126 (a) Self-interest, familiarity or intimidation threats may be created by a personal or family relationship between (a) a partner or employee of the firm who is not a member of the assurance team and (b) a director or officer of the assurance client or an employee in a position to exert significant influence over the subject matter information of the assurance engagement. The existence and significance of any threat will depend on factors such as:

(i) The nature of the relationship between the partner or employee of the firm and the director or officer or employee of the client;
(ii) The interaction of the partner or employee of the firm with the assurance team;
(iii) The position of the partner or employee within the firm; and
(iv) The role of the individual within the client.

(b) The significance of any threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Structuring the partner’s or employee’s responsibilities to reduce any potential influence over the assurance engagement; or
(ii) Having a professional accountant review the relevant assurance work performed.

Section 291.127 was deleted on 22 July 2013; effective 1 April 2014

Employment with Assurance Clients

291.128 Familiarity or intimidation threats may be created if a director or officer of the assurance client, or an employee who is in a position to exert significant influence over the subject matter information of the assurance engagement, has been a member of the assurance team or partner of the firm.

291.129 (a) If a former member of the assurance team or partner of the firm has joined the assurance client in such a position, the existence and significance of any familiarity or intimidation threats will depend on factors such as:

(i) The position the individual has taken at the client;

(ii) Any involvement the individual will have with the assurance team;

(iii) The length of time since the individual was a member of the assurance team or partner of the firm; and

(iv) The former position of the individual within the assurance team or firm, for example, whether the individual was responsible for maintaining regular contact with the client’s management or those charged with governance.

(b) In all cases the individual shall not continue to participate in the firm’s business or professional activities.

(c) The significance of any threats created shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Making arrangements such that the individual is not entitled to any benefits or payments from the firm, unless made in accordance with fixed pre-determined arrangements.

(ii) Making arrangements such that any amount owed to the individual is not material to the firm;

(iii) Modifying the plan for the assurance engagement;

(iv) Assigning individuals to the assurance team who have sufficient experience in relation to the individual who has joined the client; or

(v) Having a professional accountant review the work of the former member of the assurance team.

291.130 If a former partner of the firm has previously joined an entity in such a position and the entity subsequently becomes an assurance client of the firm, the significance of any threats to independence shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary, to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level.

291.131 A self-interest threat is created when a member of the assurance team participates in the assurance engagement while knowing that the member of the assurance team will, or may, join the client some time in the future. Firm policies and procedures shall require members of an assurance team to notify the firm when entering employment negotiations with the client. On receiving such notification, the significance of the threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(a) Removing the individual from the assurance team; or
(b) A review of any significant judgments made by that individual while on the team.

Recent Service with an Assurance Client

291.132 Self-interest, self-review or familiarity threats may be created if a member of the assurance team has recently served as a director, officer, or employee of the assurance client. This would be the case when, for example, a member of the assurance team has to evaluate elements of the subject matter information the member of the assurance team had prepared while with the client.

291.133 If, during the period covered by the assurance report, a member of the assurance team had served as director or officer of the assurance client, or was an employee in a position to exert significant influence over the subject matter information of the assurance engagement, the threat created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Consequently, such individuals shall not be assigned to the assurance team.

291.134 Self-interest, self-review or familiarity threats may be created if, before the period covered by the assurance report, a member of the assurance team had served as director or officer of the assurance client, or was an employee in a position to exert significant influence over the subject matter information of the assurance engagement. For example, such threats would be created if a decision made or work performed by the individual in the prior period, while employed by the client, is to be evaluated in the current period as part of the current assurance engagement. The existence and significance of any threats will depend on factors such as:

(a) The position the individual held with the client;
(b) The length of time since the individual left the client; and
(c) The role of the professional on the assurance team.

The significance of any threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to reduce the threat to an acceptable level. An example of such a safeguard is conducting a review of the work performed by the individual as part of the assurance team.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Serving as a Director or Officer of an Assurance Client

291.135 If a partner or employee of the firm serves as a director or officer on the board of an assurance client or as a liquidator, provisional liquidator, receiver, receiver and manager, special administrator or persons of like description the self-review and self-interest threats would be so significant that no safeguard could reduce the threats to an acceptable level. Accordingly, no partner or employee shall serve as a director or officer of an audit client.

Long Association of Senior Personnel with Assurance Clients

291.139 (a) Familiarity and self-interest threats are created by using the same senior personnel on an assurance engagement over a long period of time. The significance of the threats will depend on factors such as:

(i) How long the individual has been a member of the assurance team;
(ii) The role of the individual on the assurance team;
(iii) The structure of the firm;
(iv) The nature of the assurance engagement;
(v) Whether the client’s management team has changed; and
(vi) Whether the nature or complexity of the subject matter information has changed.

(b) The significance of the threats shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Rotating the senior personnel off the assurance team;
(ii) Having a professional accountant who was not a member of the assurance team review the work of the senior personnel; or
(iii) Regular independent internal or external quality reviews of the engagement.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Provision of Non-assurance Services to Assurance Clients

291.140 Firms have traditionally provided to their assurance clients a range of non-assurance services that are consistent with their skills and expertise. Providing non-assurance services may, however, create threats to the independence of the firm or members of the assurance team. The threats created are most often self-review, self-interest and advocacy threats.

291.141 When specific guidance on a particular non-assurance service is not included in this section, the conceptual framework shall be applied when evaluating the particular circumstances.

291.142 Before the firm accepts an engagement to provide a non-assurance service to an assurance client, a determination shall be made as to whether providing such a service would create a threat to independence. In evaluating the significance of any threat created by a particular non-assurance service, consideration shall be given to any threat that the assurance team has reason to believe is created by providing other related non-assurance services. If a threat is created that cannot be reduced to an acceptable level by the application of safeguards the non-assurance service shall not be provided.

Management Responsibilities

291.143 Management of an entity performs many activities in managing the entity in the best interests of stakeholders of the entity. It is not possible to specify every activity that is a management responsibility. However, management responsibilities involve leading and directing an entity, including making significant decisions regarding the acquisition, deployment and control of human, financial, physical and intangible resources.

291.144 Whether an activity is a management responsibility depends on the circumstances and requires the exercise of judgment. Examples of activities that would generally be considered a management responsibility include:

   (i) Setting policies and strategic direction;
   (ii) Directing and taking responsibility for the actions of the entity’s employees;
   (iii) Authorizing transactions;
   (iv) Deciding which recommendations of the firm or other third parties to implement; and
   (v) Taking responsibility for designing, implementing and maintaining internal control.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

291.145 Activities that are routine and administrative, or involve matters that are insignificant, generally are deemed not to be a management responsibility. For example, executing an insignificant transaction that has been authorized by management or monitoring the dates for filing statutory returns and advising an assurance client of those dates is deemed not to be a management responsibility. Further, providing advice and recommendations to assist management in discharging its responsibilities is not assuming a management responsibility.

291.146 Assuming a management responsibility for an assurance client may create threats to independence. If a firm were to assume a management responsibility as part of the assurance service, the threats created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threats to an acceptable level. Accordingly, in providing assurance services to an assurance client, a firm shall not assume a management responsibility as part of the assurance service. If the firm assumes a management responsibility as part of any other services provided to the assurance client, it shall ensure that the responsibility is not related to the subject matter and subject matter information of an assurance engagement provided by the firm.

291.147 To avoid the risk of assuming a management responsibility related to the subject matter or subject matter information of the assurance engagement, the firm shall be satisfied that a member of management is responsible for making the significant judgments and decisions that are the proper responsibility of management, evaluating the results of the service and accepting responsibility for the actions to be taken arising from the results of the service. This reduces the risk of the firm inadvertently making any significant judgments or decisions on behalf of management. This risk is further reduced when the firm gives the client the opportunity to make judgments and decisions based on an objective and transparent analysis and presentation of the issues.

Other Considerations

291.148 Threats to independence may be created when a firm provides a non-assurance service related to the subject matter information of an assurance engagement. In such cases, an evaluation of the significance of the firm’s involvement with the subject matter information of the engagement shall be made, and a determination shall be made of whether any self-review threats that are not at an acceptable level can be reduced to an acceptable level by the application of safeguards.

291.149 A self-review threat may be created if the firm is involved in the preparation of subject matter information which is subsequently the subject matter information of an assurance engagement. For example, a self-review threat would be created if the firm developed and prepared prospective financial information and subsequently provided assurance on this information. Consequently, the firm shall evaluate the significance of any self-review threat created by the provision of such services and apply safeguards when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level.

291.150 When a firm performs a valuation that forms part of the subject matter information of an assurance engagement, the firm shall evaluate the significance of any self-review threat and apply safeguards when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level.

Fees

Fees—Relative Size

291.151 (a) When the total fees from an assurance client represent a large proportion of the total fees of the firm expressing the conclusion, the dependence on that client and concern about losing the client creates a self-interest or intimidation threat. The significance of the threat will depend on factors such as:

(i) The operating structure of the firm;
(ii) Whether the firm is well established or new; and
(iii) The significance of the client qualitatively and/or quantitatively to the firm.

(b) The significance of the threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Reducing the dependency on the client;
(ii) External quality control reviews; or
(iii) Consulting a third party, such as a professional regulatory body or a professional accountant, on key assurance judgments.

291.152 A self-interest or intimidation threat is also created when the fees generated from an assurance client represent a large proportion of the revenue from an individual partner’s clients. The significance of the threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. An example of such a safeguard is having an additional professional accountant who was not a member of the assurance team review the work or otherwise advises as necessary.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Fees—Overdue

291.153  A self-interest threat may be created if fees due from an assurance client remain unpaid for a long time, especially if a significant part is not paid before the issue of the assurance report, if any, for the following period. Generally the firm is expected to require payment of such fees before any such report is issued. If fees remain unpaid after the report has been issued, the existence and significance of any threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. An example of such a safeguard is having another professional accountant who not take part in the assurance engagement provided advice or review the work performed. The firm shall determine whether the overdue fees might be regarded as being equivalent to a loan to the client and whether, because of the significance of the overdue fees, it is appropriate for the firm to be re-appointed or continue the assurance engagement.

Contingent Fees

291.154  Contingent fees are fees calculated on a predetermined basis relating to the outcome of a transaction or the result of the services performed by the firm. For the purposes of this section, fees are not regarded as being contingent if established by a court or other public authority.

291.155  A contingent fee charged directly or indirectly, for example through an intermediary, by a firm in respect of an assurance engagement creates a self-interest threat that is so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Accordingly, a firm shall not enter into any such fee arrangement.

291.156  A contingent fee charged directly or indirectly, for example through an intermediary, by a firm in respect of a non-assurance service provided to an assurance client may also create a self-interest threat. If the outcome of the non-assurance service, and therefore, the amount of the fee, is dependent on a future or contemporary judgment related to a matter that is material to the subject matter information of the assurance engagement, no safeguards could reduce the threat to an acceptable level. Accordingly, such arrangements shall not be accepted.

291.157  (a) For other contingent fee arrangements charged by a firm for a non-assurance service to an assurance client, the existence and significance of any threats will depend on factors such as:

(i) The range of possible fee amounts;
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(ii) Whether an appropriate authority determines the outcome of the matter upon which the contingent fee will be determined;

(iii) The nature of the service; and

(iv) The effect of the event or transaction on the subject matter information.

(b) The significance of any threats shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) Having a professional accountant review the relevant assurance work or otherwise advise as necessary; or

(ii) Using professionals who are not members of the assurance team to perform the non-assurance service.

Gifts and Hospitality

291.158 Accepting gifts or hospitality from an assurance client may create self-interest and familiarity threats. If a firm or a member of the assurance team accepts gifts or hospitality, unless the value is trivial and inconsequential, the threats created would be so significant that no safeguards could reduce the threats to an acceptable level. Consequently, a firm or a member of the assurance team shall not accept such gifts or hospitality.

Actual or Threatened Litigation

291.159 (a) When litigation takes place, or appears likely, between the firm or a member of the assurance team and the assurance client, self-interest and intimidation threats are created. The relationship between client management and the members of the assurance team must be characterized by complete candor and full disclosure regarding all aspects of a client’s business operations. When the firm and the client’s management are placed in adversarial positions by actual or threatened litigation, affecting management’s willingness to make complete disclosures self-interest and intimidation threats are created. The significance of the threats created will depend on such factors as:

(i) The materiality of the litigation; and

(ii) Whether the litigation relates to a prior assurance engagement.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(b) The significance of the threats shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threats or reduce them to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(i) If the litigation involves a member of the assurance team, removing that individual from the assurance team; or

(ii) Having a professional review the work performed.

If such safeguards do not reduce the threats to an acceptable level, the only appropriate action is to withdraw from, or decline, the assurance engagement.

Interpretation 2005-01 (Revised July 2009 to conform to changes resulting from the IESBA’s project to improve the clarity of the Code)

Application of Section 291 to Assurance Engagements that are Not Financial Statement Audit Engagements

This interpretation provides guidance on the application of the independence requirements contained in Section 291 to assurance engagements that are not financial statement audit engagements.

This interpretation focuses on the application issues that are particular to assurance engagements that are not financial statement audit engagements. There are other matters noted in Section 291 that are relevant in the consideration of independence requirements for all assurance engagements. For example, paragraph 291.3 states that an evaluation shall be made of any threats the firm has reason to believe are created by a network firm’s interests and relationships. It also states that when the assurance team has reason to believe that a related entity of such an assurance client is relevant to the evaluation of the firm’s independence of the client, the assurance team shall include the related entity when evaluating threats to independence and when necessary applying safeguards. These matters are not specifically addressed in this interpretation.

As explained in the International Framework for Assurance Engagements issued by the International Auditing and Assurance Standards Board, in an assurance engagement, the professional accountant in public practice expresses a conclusion designed to enhance the degree of confidence of the intended users other than the responsible party about the outcome of the evaluation or measurement of a subject matter against criteria.

Assertion-Based Assurance Engagements

In an assertion-based assurance engagement, the evaluation or measurement of the subject matter is performed by the responsible party, and the subject matter information is in the form of an assertion by the responsible party that is made available to the intended users. In an assertion-based assurance engagement independence is required from the responsible party, which is responsible for the subject matter information and may be responsible for the subject matter.

In those assertion-based assurance engagements where the responsible party is responsible for the subject matter information but not the subject matter, independence is required from the responsible party. In addition, an evaluation shall be made of any threats the firm has reason to believe are created by interests and relationships between a member of the assurance team, the firm, a network firm and the party responsible for the subject matter.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Direct Reporting Assurance Engagements

In a direct reporting assurance engagement, the professional accountant in public practice either directly performs the evaluation or measurement of the subject matter, or obtains a representation from the responsible party that has performed the evaluation or measurement that is not available to the intended users. The subject matter information is provided to the intended users in the assurance report.

In a direct reporting assurance engagement independence is required from the responsible party, which is responsible for the subject matter.

Multiple Responsible Parties

In both assertion-based assurance engagements and direct reporting assurance engagements there may be several responsible parties. For example, a public accountant in public practice may be asked to provide assurance on the monthly circulation statistics of a number of independently owned newspapers. The assignment could be an assertion based assurance engagement where each newspaper measures its circulation and the statistics are presented in an assertion that is available to the intended users. Alternatively, the assignment could be a direct reporting assurance engagement, where there is no assertion and there may or may not be a written representation from the newspapers.

In such engagements, when determining whether it is necessary to apply the provisions in Section 291 to each responsible party, the firm may take into account whether an interest or relationship between the firm, or a member of the assurance team, and a particular responsible party would create a threat to independence that is not trivial and inconsequential in the context of the subject matter information. This will take into account:

- The materiality of the subject matter information (or the subject matter) for which the particular responsible party is responsible; and
- The degree of public interest that is associated with the engagement.

If the firm determines that the threat to independence created by any such relationships with a particular responsible party would be trivial and inconsequential it may not be necessary to apply all of the provisions of this section to that responsible party.

Example

The following example has been developed to demonstrate the application of Section 291. It is assumed that the client is not also a financial statement audit client of the firm, or a network firm.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

A firm is engaged to provide assurance on the total proven oil reserves of 10 independent companies. Each company has conducted geographical and engineering surveys to determine their reserves (subject matter). There are established criteria to determine when a reserve may be considered to be proven which the professional accountant in public practice determines to be suitable criteria for the engagement.

The proven reserves for each company as at December 31, 20X0 were as follows:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Company</th>
<th>Proven oil reserves thousands of barrels</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Company 1</td>
<td>5,200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Company 2</td>
<td>725</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Company 3</td>
<td>3,260</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Company 4</td>
<td>15,000</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Company 5</td>
<td>6,700</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Company 6</td>
<td>39,126</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Company 7</td>
<td>345</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Company 8</td>
<td>175</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Company 9</td>
<td>24,135</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Company 10</td>
<td>9,635</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total</td>
<td>104,301</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The engagements could be structured in differing ways:

Assertion based engagements

A1 Each company measures its reserves and provides an assertion to the firm and to intended users.

A2 An entity other than the companies measures the reserves and provides an assertion to the firm and to intended users.

Direct reporting engagements

D1 Each company measures the reserves and provides the firm with a written representation that measures its reserves against the established criteria for measuring proven reserves. The representation is not available to the intended users.
D2 The firm directly measures the reserves of some of the companies.

Application of approach

A1 Each company measures its reserves and provides an assertion to the firm and to intended users.

There are several responsible parties in this engagement (companies 1-10). When determining whether it is necessary to apply the independence provisions to all of the companies, the firm may take into account whether an interest or relationship with a particular company would create a threat to independence that is not at an acceptable level. This will take into account factors such as:

- The materiality of the company’s proven reserves in relation to the total reserves to be reported on; and
- The degree of public interest associated with the engagement (paragraph 291.28).

For example, Company 8 accounts for 0.17% of the total reserves, therefore a business relationship or interest with the Company 8 would create less of a threat than a similar relationship with Company 6, which accounts for approximately 37.5% of the reserves.

Having determined those companies to which the independence requirements apply, the assurance team and the firm are required to be independent of those responsible parties that would be considered to be the assurance client (paragraph 291.28).

A2 An entity other than the companies measures the reserves and provides an assertion to the firm and to intended users.

The firm shall be independent of the entity that measures the reserves and provides an assertion to the firm and to intended users (paragraph 291.19). That entity is not responsible for the subject matter and so an evaluation shall be made of any threats the firm has reason to believe are created by interests/relationships with the party responsible for the subject matter (paragraph 291.17). There are several parties responsible for subject matter in this engagement (companies 1-10). As discussed in example A1 above, the firm may take into account whether an interest or relationship with a particular company would create a threat to independence that is not at an acceptable level.

D1 Each company provides the firm with a representation that measures its reserves against the established criteria for measuring proven reserves. The representation is not available to the intended users.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

There are several responsible parties in this engagement (companies 1-10). When determining whether it is necessary to apply the independence provisions to all of the companies, the firm may take into account whether an interest or relationship with a particular company would create a threat to independence that is not at an acceptable level. This will take into account factors such as:

- The materiality of the company’s proven reserves in relation to the total reserves to be reported on; and
- The degree of public interest associated with the engagement (paragraph 291.28).

For example Company 8 accounts for 0.17% of the reserves, therefore a business relationship or interest with the Company 8 would create less of a threat than a similar relationship with Company 6 that accounts for approximately 37.5% of the reserves.

Having determined those companies to which the independence requirements apply, the assurance team and the firm are required to be independent of those responsible parties which would be considered to be the assurance client (paragraph 291.28).

D2 The firm directly measures the reserves of some of the companies.

The application is the same as in example D1.

Section 330 Acting with Sufficient Expertise
Section 340 Financial Interests, Compensation and Incentives Linked to Financial Reporting and Decision Making

Introduction

300.1 Part C describes how the conceptual framework contained in Part A is to be applied by professional accountants in business. This Part does not describe all of the circumstances and relationships that could be encountered by a professional accountant in business that create or may create threats to compliance with the fundamental principles. Therefore, the professional accountant in business is encouraged to be alert for such circumstances and relationships.

300.2 Investors, creditors, employers and other sectors of the business community, as well as governments and the public at large, all may rely on the work of professional accountants in business. Professional accountants in business may be solely or jointly responsible for the preparation and reporting of financial and other information, which both their employing organizations and third parties may rely on. They may also be responsible for providing effective financial management and competent advice on a variety of business-related matters.

300.3 A professional accountant in business may be a salaried employee, a partner, director (whether executive or non-executive), an owner manager, a volunteer or another working for one or more employing organization. The legal form of the relationship with the employing organization, if any, has no bearing on the ethical responsibilities incumbent on the professional accountant in business.

300.4 A professional accountant in business has a responsibility to further the legitimate aims of their employing organization. The By-Laws do not seek to hinder a professional accountant in business from properly fulfilling that responsibility, but addresses circumstances in which compliance with the fundamental principles may be compromised.

300.5 A professional accountant in business may hold a senior position within an organization. The more senior the position, the greater will be the ability and opportunity to influence events, practices and attitudes. A professional accountant in business is expected, therefore, to encourage an ethics-based culture in an employing organization that emphasizes the importance that senior management places on ethical behavior.

300.6 A professional accountant in business shall not knowingly engage in any business, occupation, or activity that impairs or might impair integrity, objectivity or the good reputation of the profession and as a result would be incompatible with the fundamental principles.

300.7 Compliance with the fundamental principles may potentially be threatened by a broad range of circumstances and relationships. Threats fall into one or more of the following categories:

(a) Self-interest;
(b) Self-review;
(c) Advocacy;
(d) Familiarity; and
(e) Intimidation.

These threats are discussed further in Part A of the By-Laws.

300.8 Examples of circumstances that may create self-interest threats for a professional accountant in business include, but are not limited to:

(a) Holding a financial interest in, or receiving a loan or guarantee from the employing organization.
(b) Participating in incentive compensation arrangement offered by the employing organization.
(c) Inappropriate personal use of corporate assets.
(d) Concern over employment security.
(e) Commercial pressure from outside the employing organization.

300.9 An example of circumstances that creates a self-review threat for a professional accountant in business is determining the appropriate accounting treatment for a business combination after performing the feasibility study that supported the acquisition decision.

300.10 When furthering the legitimate goals and objectives of their employing organizations professional accountants in business may promote the organization’s position, provided any statements made are neither false nor misleading. Such actions generally would not create an advocacy threat.

300.11 Examples of circumstances that may create familiarity threats include, but not limited to:

(a) Being responsible for the employing organization’s financial reporting when an immediate or close family member employed by the entity makes decisions that affect the entity’s financial reporting.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(b) Long association with business contacts influencing business decisions.
(c) Accepting a gift or preferential treatment, unless the value is trivial and inconsequential.

300.12 Examples of circumstances that may create intimidation threats for a professional accountant in business include:
(a) Threat of dismissal or replacement of the professional accountant in business or a close or immediate family member over a disagreement about the application of an accounting principle or the way in which financial information is to be reported.
(b) A dominant personality attempting to influence the decision making process, for example with regard to the awarding of contracts or the application of an accounting principle.

300.13 Safeguards that may eliminate or reduce threats to an acceptable level fall into two broad categories:
(a) Safeguards created by the profession, legislation or regulation; and
(b) Safeguards in the work environment.
Examples of safeguards created by the profession, legislation or regulation are detailed in Part A of the By-Laws.

300.14 Safeguards in the work environment include:
(a) The employing organization’s systems of corporate oversight or other oversight structures.
(b) The employing organization’s ethics and conduct programmes.
(c) Recruitment procedures in the employing organization emphasizing the importance of employing high caliber competent staff.
(d) Strong internal controls.
(e) Appropriate disciplinary processes.
(f) Leadership that stresses the importance of ethical behaviour and the expectation that employees will act in an ethical manner.
(g) Policies and procedures to implement and monitor the quality of employee performance.
(h) Timely communication of the employing organization’s policies and procedures, including any changes to them, to all employees and appropriate training and education on such policies and procedures.
(i) Policies and procedures to empower and encourage employees to communicate to senior levels within the employing organization any ethical issues that concern them without fear of retribution.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

(i) Consultation with another appropriate professional accountant.

300.15 In circumstances where a professional accountant in business believes that unethical behaviour or actions by others will continue to occur within the employing organization, the professional accountant in business should consider seeking legal advice. In those extreme situations where all available safeguards have been exhausted and it is not possible to reduce the threat to an acceptable level, a professional accountant in business may conclude that it is appropriate to resign from the employing organization.

Conflicts of Interest

310.1 A professional accountant in business may be faced with a conflict of interest when undertaking a professional activity. A conflict of interest creates a threat to objectivity and may create threats to the other fundamental principles. Such threats may be created when:

- The professional accountant undertakes a professional activity related to a particular matter for two or more parties whose interests with respect to that matter are in conflict; or
- The interests of the professional accountant with respect to a particular matter and the interests of a party for whom the professional accountant undertakes a professional activity related to that matter are in conflict.

A party may include an employing organization, a vendor, a customer, a lender, a shareholder, or another party.

A professional accountant shall not allow a conflict of interest to compromise professional or business judgment.

310.2 Examples of situations in which conflicts of interest may arise include:

- Serving in a management or governance position for two employing organizations and acquiring confidential information from one employing organization that could be used by the professional accountant to the advantage or disadvantage of the other employing organization.
- Undertaking a professional activity for each of two parties in a partnership employing the professional accountant to assist them to dissolve their partnership.
- Preparing financial information for certain members of management of the entity employing the professional accountant who are seeking to undertake a management buyout.
- Being responsible for selecting a vendor for the accountant’s employing organization when an immediate family member of the professional accountant could benefit financially from the transaction.
- Serving in a governance capacity in an employing organization that is approving certain investments for the company where one of those specific investments will increase the value of the personal investment portfolio of the professional accountant or an immediate family member.

310.3 When identifying and evaluating the interests and relationships that might create a conflict of interest and implementing safeguards, when necessary, to eliminate or reduce any threat to compliance with the fundamental principles to an acceptable level, a professional accountant in business shall exercise professional judgment and be alert to all interests and relationships that a reasonable and informed third party, weighing all the specific facts and circumstances available to the professional accountant at the time, would be likely to conclude might compromise compliance with the fundamental principles.

Section 310.1 – 310.3 was amended on 22 July 2013; effective 1 July 2014.

310.4 When addressing a conflict of interest, a professional accountant in business is encouraged to seek guidance from within the employing organization or from others, such as a professional body, legal counsel or another professional accountant. When making disclosures or sharing information within the employing organization and seeking guidance of third parties, the professional accountant shall remain alert to the fundamental principle of confidentiality.

310.5 If the threat created by a conflict of interest is not at an acceptable level, the professional accountant in business shall apply safeguards to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. If safeguards cannot reduce the threat to an acceptable level, the professional accountant shall decline to undertake or discontinue the professional activity that would result in the conflict of interest; or shall terminate the relevant relationships or dispose of relevant interests to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level.

310.6 In identifying whether a conflict of interest exists or may be created, a professional accountant in business shall take reasonable steps to determine:

- The nature of the relevant interests and relationships between the parties involved; and
- The nature of the activity and its implication for relevant parties.

The nature of the activities and the relevant interests and relationships may change over time. The professional accountant shall remain alert to such changes for the purposes of identifying circumstances that might create a conflict of interest.

310.7 If a conflict of interest is identified, the professional accountant in business shall evaluate:

- The significance of relevant interests or relationships; and
- The significance of the threats created by undertaking the professional activity or activities. In general, the more direct the connection between the professional activity and the matter on which the parties’ interests are in conflict, the more significant the threat to objectivity and compliance with the other fundamental principles will be.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

310.8 The professional accountant in business shall apply safeguards, when necessary, to eliminate the threats to compliance with the fundamental principles created by the conflict of interest or reduce them to an acceptable level. Depending on the circumstances giving rise to the conflict of interest, application of one or more of the following safeguards may be appropriate:

- Restructuring or segregating certain responsibilities and duties.
- Obtaining appropriate oversight, for example, acting under the supervision of an executive or non-executive director.
- Withdrawing from the decision-making process related to the matter giving rise to the conflict of interest.
- Consulting with third parties, such as a professional body, legal counsel or another professional accountant.

310.9 In addition, it is generally necessary to disclose the nature of the conflict to the relevant parties, including to the appropriate levels within the employing organization and, when safeguards are required to reduce the threat to an acceptable level, to obtain their consent to the professional accountant in business undertaking the professional activity. In certain circumstances, consent may be implied by a party’s conduct where the professional accountant has sufficient evidence to conclude that parties know the circumstances at the outset and have accepted the conflict of interest if they do not raise an objection to the existence of the conflict.

310.10 When disclosure is verbal, or consent is verbal or implied, the professional accountant in business is encouraged to document the nature of the circumstances giving rise to the conflict of interest, the safeguards applied to reduce the threats to an acceptable level and the consent obtained.

310.11 A professional accountant in business may encounter other threats to compliance with the fundamental principles. This may occur, for example, when preparing or reporting financial information as a result of undue pressure from others within the employing organization or financial, business or personal relationships that close or immediate family members of the professional accountant have with the employing organization. Guidance on managing such threats is covered by Sections 320 and 340 of the By-Laws.

Section 310.4 – 310.11 was inserted on 22 July 2013; effective 1 July 2014.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Section 320 Preparation and Reporting of Information

Preparation and Reporting of Information

320.1 Professional accountants in business are often involved in the preparation and reporting of information that may either be made public or used by others inside or outside the employing organization. Such information may include financial or management information, for example, forecasts and budgets, financial statements, management’s discussion and analysis, and the management letter of representation provided to the auditors as part of an audit of financial statements. A professional accountant in business shall prepare or present such information fairly, honestly and in accordance with relevant professional standards so that the information will be understood in its context.

320.2 A professional accountant in business who has responsibility for the preparation or approval of the general purpose financial statements of an employing organization shall be satisfied that those financial statements are presented in accordance with the applicable financial reporting standards.

320.3 A professional accountant in business shall take reasonable steps to maintain information for which the professional accountant in business is responsible in a manner that:

(a) Describes clearly the true nature of business transactions, assets or liabilities;

(b) Classifies and records information in a timely and proper manner; and

(c) Represents the facts accurately and completely in all material respects.

320.4 Threats to compliance with the fundamental principles, for example, self-interest or intimidation threats to integrity, objectivity or professional competence and due care, are created where a professional accountant in business is pressured (either externally or by the possibility of personal gain) to prepare or report information in a misleading way or to become associated with misleading information through the actions of others.

320.5 The significance of such threats will depend on factors such as the source of the pressure and the corporate culture within the employing organization. The professional accountant in business shall be alert to the principle of integrity, which imposes an obligation on all professional accountants to be straightforward and honest in all professional and business relationships. Where the threats arise from compensation and incentive arrangements, the guidance in section 340 is relevant.
PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

320.6 The significance of any threat shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Such safeguards include consultation with superiors within the employing organization, the audit committee or those charged with governance of the organization, or with a relevant professional body.

320.7 Where it is not possible to reduce the threat to an acceptable level, a professional accountant in business shall refuse to be or remain associated with information the professional accountant determines is misleading. A professional accountant in business may have been unknowingly associated with misleading information. Upon becoming aware of this, the professional accountant in business shall take steps to be disassociated from that information. In determining whether there is a requirement to report the circumstances outside the organization, the professional accountant in business may consider obtaining legal advice. In addition, the professional accountant may consider whether to resign.

Section 320.4 – 320.7 were amended on 22 July 2013; effective 1 July 2014.

Acting with Sufficient Expertise

330.1 The fundamental principle of professional competence and due care requires that a professional accountant in business should only undertake significant tasks for which the professional accountant in business has, or can obtain, sufficient specific training or experience. A professional accountant in business shall not intentionally mislead an employer as to the level of expertise or experience possessed, nor shall a professional accountant in business fail to seek appropriate expert advice and assistance when required.

330.2 Circumstances that create a threat to a professional accountant in business performing duties with the appropriate degree of professional competence and due care include having:

(a) Insufficient time for properly performing or completing the relevant duties.
(b) Incomplete, restricted or otherwise inadequate information for performing the duties properly.
(c) Insufficient experience, training and/or education.
(d) Inadequate resources for the proper performance of the duties.

330.3 The significance of the threats will depend on factors such as the extent to which the professional accountant in business is working with others, relative seniority in the business and the level of supervision and review applied to the work. The significance of the threats shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. Examples of such safeguards include:

(a) Obtaining additional advice or training.
(b) Ensuring that there is adequate time available for performing the relevant duties.
(c) Obtaining assistance from someone with the necessary expertise.
(d) Consulting, where appropriate, with:
   (i) Superiors within the employing organization;
   (ii) Independent experts; or
(e) To seek guidance from the Institute.

330.4 Where threats cannot be eliminated or reduced to an acceptable level, professional accountants in business shall determine whether to refuse to perform the duties in question. If the professional accountant in business determines that refusal is appropriate, the reasons for doing so shall be clearly communicated.

PART I: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL ETHICS

Section 340  Financial Interests, Compensation and Incentives Linked to Financial Reporting and Decision Making

Financial Interests, Compensation and Incentives Linked to Financial Reporting and Decision Making

340.1 Professional accountants in business may have financial interests, including those arising from compensation or incentive arrangements, or may know of financial interests of immediate or close family members, that, in certain circumstances, may create threats to compliance with the fundamental principles. For example, self-interest threats to objectivity or confidentiality may be created through the existence of the motive and opportunity to manipulate price-sensitive information in order to gain financially. Examples of circumstances that may create self-interest threats include situations where the professional accountant in business or an immediate or close family member:

- Holds a direct or indirect financial interest in the employing organization and the value of that financial interest could be directly affected by decisions made by the professional accountant in business.

- Is eligible for a profit-related bonus and the value of that bonus could be directly affected by decisions made by the professional accountant in business.

- Holds, directly or indirectly, deferred bonus share entitlements or share options in the employing organization, the value of which could be directly affected by decisions made by the professional accountant in business.

- Otherwise participates in compensation arrangements which provide incentives to achieve performance targets or to support efforts to maximize the value of the employing organization’s shares, for example, through participation in long-term incentive plans which are linked to certain performance conditions being met.

340.2 Self-interest threats arising from compensation or incentive arrangements may be further compounded by pressure from superiors or peers in the employing organization who participate in the same arrangements. For example, such arrangements often entitle participants to be awarded shares in the employing organization at little or no cost to the employee provided certain performance criteria are met. In some cases, the value of the shares awarded may be significantly greater than the base salary of the professional accountant in business.

340.3 A professional accountant in business shall not manipulate information or use confidential information for personal gain or for the financial gain of others. The more senior the position that the professional accountant in business holds, the greater the ability and opportunity to influence financial reporting and decision making and the greater the pressure there might be from superiors and peers to manipulate information. In such situations, the professional accountant in business shall be particularly alert to the principle of integrity, which imposes an obligation on all professional accountants to be straightforward and honest in all professional and business relationships.

340.4 The significance of any threat created by financial interests, shall be evaluated and safeguards applied, when necessary, to eliminate the threat or reduce it to an acceptable level. In evaluating the significance of any threat, and, when necessary, determining the appropriate safeguards to be applied, a professional accountant in business shall evaluate the nature of the interest. This includes evaluating the significance of the interest. What constitutes a significant interest will depend on personal circumstances. Examples of such safeguards include:

- Policies and procedures for a committee independent of management to determine the level or form of remuneration of senior management.
- Disclosure of all relevant interests, and of any plans to exercise entitlements or trade in relevant shares, to those charged with the governance of the employing organization, in accordance with any internal policies.
- Consultation, where appropriate, with superiors within the employing organization.
- Consultation, where appropriate, with those charged with the governance of the employing organization or relevant professional bodies.
- Internal and external audit procedures.
- Up-to-date education on ethical issues and on the legal restrictions and other regulations around potential insider trading.

Section 340.1 – 340.4 were amended on 22 July 2013; effective 1 July 2014.

Section 350  Inducements

Receiving Offers

350.1 A professional accountant in business or an immediate or close family member may be offered an inducement. Inducements may take various forms, including gifts, hospitality, preferential treatment and inappropriate appeals to friendship or loyalty.

350.2 Offers of inducements may create threats to compliance with the fundamental principles. When a professional accountant in business or an immediate or close family member is offered an inducement, the situation shall be evaluated. Self-interest threats to objectivity or confidentiality are created when an inducement is made in an attempt to unduly influence actions or decisions, encourage illegal or dishonest behaviour, or obtain confidential information. Intimidation threats to objectivity or confidentiality are created if such an inducement is accepted and it is followed by threats to make that offer public and damage the reputation of either the professional accountant in business or an immediate or close family member.

350.3 The existence and significance of any threats will depend on the nature, value and intent behind the offer. If a reasonable and informed third party, weighing all the specific facts and circumstances, would consider the inducement insignificant and not intended to encourage unethical behaviour, then a professional accountant in business may conclude that the offer is made in the normal course of business and may generally conclude that there is no significant threat to compliance with the fundamental principles.

350.4 The significance of any threats shall be evaluated and safeguards applied when necessary to eliminate them or reduce them to an acceptable level. When the threats cannot be eliminated or reduced to an acceptable level through the application of safeguards, a professional accountant in business shall not accept the inducement. As the real or apparent threats to compliance with the fundamental principles do not merely arise from acceptance of an inducement but, sometimes, and merely from the fact of the offer having been made, additional safeguards should be adopted. A professional accountant in business shall evaluate any threats created by such offers and determine whether to take one or more of the following actions:

(a) Informing higher levels of management or those charged with governance of the employing organization immediately when such offers have been made.

(b) Inform third parties of the offer – for example, a professional body or the employer of the individual who made the offer; a professional accountant in business may however, consider seeking legal advice before taking such a step;

(c) Advise immediate or close family members of relevant threats and safeguards where they are potentially in positions that might result in offers of inducements, for example, as a result of their employment situation; and

(d) Informing higher levels of management or those charged with governance of the employing organization where immediate or close family members are employed by competitors or potential suppliers of that organization.

Making Offers

350.5 A professional accountant in business may be in a situation where the professional accountant in business is expected to, or is under other pressure, to offer inducements to influence the judgment or decision-making process of an individual or organization, or obtain confidential information.

350.6 Such pressure may come from within the employing organization, for example, from a colleague or superior. It may also come from an external individual or organization suggesting actions or business decisions that would be advantageous to the employing organization, possibly influencing the professional accountant in business improperly.

350.7 A professional accountant in business shall not offer an inducement to improperly influence professional judgment of a third party.

350.8 Where the pressure to offer an unethical inducement comes from within the employing organization, the professional accountant shall follow the principles and guidance regarding ethical conflict resolution set out in Part A.

EXPLANATORY FOREWORD

1. Part II of the By-Laws of the Institute consists of the By-Laws on Professional Conduct and Practice. The By-Laws on Professional Conduct and Practice sets out the obligations applicable to all members as professional accountants or to member firms in respect of their professional conduct or the practice of their firms.

2. Part II of the By-Laws has been framed with the objective that members exhibit the highest standards of professionalism and professional conduct that are expected of the profession, when dealing with the Institute, employers or clients, regulators and other stakeholders, as well as with each other.

3. A breach of these By-Laws will prima facie give rise to a complaint of unprofessional conduct against the member concerned. As such, members who fail to observe proper standards of professional conduct as set out in these by-laws may be required to answer a complaint before the Investigation and the Disciplinary Committees of the Institute pursuant to the Malaysian Institute of Accountants (Disciplinary) Rules 2002 [P.U.(A) 229/2002].

4. The By-Laws on Professional Conduct and Practice consists of two parts. Part A sets out the professional conduct obligations of all professional accountants as members of the Institute. Part B sets out the professional conduct or practice obligations of members in public practice or member firms, as may be the case.

NOTE: Part II of the By-Laws incorporates some of the Institute’s existing By-Laws (On Professional Ethics and Conduct) that have not been subsumed in Part I.

Section 400  Induction Course upon Admission

Induction Course

400.1 All professional accountants once admitted as members of the Institute, are required to attend an Induction Course organised by the Institute, within six (6) months of admission.

400.2 The Council may in its absolute discretion, grant a postponement from the requirement of this section for the following reasons:-
   (a) prolonged illness or disability; or
   (b) any other reason as may be found reasonable by the Council.

   Amended on 6 December 2012; effective immediately

400.3 An application made pursuant to paragraph 400.2 should be in writing and supported by a certificate from a licensed physician or hospital in the case of subparagraph (a), or supported by any other relevant documents in respect of subparagraphs (b), wherever appropriate. Such application should be made as soon as practicable and in any event, before the expiry of six (6) months from the date of admission.

   Amended on 6 December 2012; effective immediately

400.4 The decision of the Council on an application made pursuant to paragraph 400.2 is final.

400.5 In exercising its discretion pursuant to paragraph 400.2, the Council may require the professional accountant to submit a letter of undertaking stating that the professional accountant will attend the Induction Course upon recovery from the illness or upon the lapse of the reason for which the Council has granted the exemption.

Section 410  Continuing Professional Education

Continuing Professional Education

410.1 There are rapid changes to the knowledge and competencies that are required of professional accountants in order for them to discharge their professional obligations effectively and responsibly. Rapid developments by way of changes to legislation, accounting standards and guidelines, developments in technology, increased public expectations of the services of professional accountants, place increasing demands on the profession. Professional accountants face unprecedented scrutiny about the quality of internal control, governance, financial statements and independent audits. These pressures apply to professional accountants in both the private and public sectors. Professional accountants in all sectors have important contributions to make. Continued development of professional competence and lifelong learning are critical to meet these expectations. It is every professional accountant’s responsibility to ensure that the quality of professional service rendered is of high standard.

410.2 In order to maintain professional competence and to ensure the exercise of due care at all times, a professional accountant is required to fulfill the requirements of and participate in CPE learning activities that are relevant to his or her current and future work and professional responsibilities. CPE requirements are applicable to all professional accountants regardless of sector or size of business in which they operate, because:

(a) All professional accountants have an ethical obligation of due care to their clients, employers and relevant stakeholders and need to demonstrate their ability to discharge this responsibility in a competent manner.

(b) Professional accountants in all sectors hold positions of importance involving among others, financial reporting, public accountability and maintaining the public trust.

(c) The public is likely to rely on the designation or professional standing of the professional accountant. Moreover, all professional accountants carry the professional designation and any lack of competence or ethical behaviour has the same consequences to the reputation and standing of the profession, irrespective of the sector or role in which they operate.

(d) All sectors are affected by the rapidly changing environment and the consequential need to adapt the strategic or business plans of those organizations relying on the professional accountant’s professional competence.

(e) Employers hiring professional accountants in any sector rely, at least to some extent, on the professional designation as proof of professional competence.
PART II: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL
CONDUCT AND PRACTICE

410.3 CPE learning activities are those learning activities that develop and maintain capabilities to enable professional accountants to perform competently within their professional environments. Participation in CPE learning activities is therefore vital in maintaining high standards and public confidence in the profession.

410.4 All professional accountants are required to complete at least 120 CPE credit hours of relevant CPE learning for every rolling 3 calendar year period, of which 60 CPE credit hours should be structured and verifiable, and at least twenty (20) CPE credit hours of such structured and verifiable CPE learning should be obtained each calendar year. As the structured CPE credit hours are calculated on a yearly basis, no transfer can be made for the extra hours obtained in any other year.

Accredited structured and unstructured CPE learning activities are shown in Appendix V to the By-Laws. The application of these requirements to professional accountants who have been admitted as members at different periods is set out in Appendix VI to the By-Laws.

Amended on 1 November 2013;
effective 1 January 2014.

410.5 Any failure to maintain and improve professional competence is a violation of one of the fundamental principles of the profession and can result in disciplinary action. It is unfair to the majority of professional accountants who comply with the CPE requirements to allow those who do not comply to claim the same status or competencies.

NOTE: The above provisions are based substantially on the provisions in the International Education Standard (IES) 7 issued by IFAC.
PART II: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT AND PRACTICE

Continuing Professional Education Audit

410.6 A CPE audit will be conducted by the Institute on a sample of professional accountants who will be selected at random from the Institute’s records. During each CPE audit, the randomly selected professional accountants will be required to produce evidence of their compliance with the CPE requirements set out in section 130 of Part I of the By-Laws.

410.7 Professional accountants are required to maintain records of their compliance with the CPE requirements set out in section 410 above.

410.8 Professional accountants are required to tender the appropriate evidence of such compliance if called upon to do so.

Amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

410.9 The Council may in its absolute discretion, grant a temporary or partial exemption from the CPE requirements for the following reasons -

(a) prolonged illness or disability; and/or
(b) any other reason as may be determined by the Council.

410.10 An application made pursuant to paragraph 410.9 should be in writing and supported by a certificate from a licensed physician or hospital in the case of subparagraph (a), or supported by any other relevant documents in respect of subparagraphs (b), wherever appropriate. Such application should be made no later than 30 days after the professional accountant is selected for the CPE audit.

410.11 The decision of the Council on an application made pursuant to paragraph 410.9 is final.

410.12 In exercising its discretion pursuant to paragraph 410.9, the Council may require the professional accountant to submit a letter of undertaking stating that the professional accountant will fulfill the CPE requirements pursuant to section 410 above upon recovery from the illness or upon the lapse of the reason for which the Council has granted the exemption.
PART II: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT AND PRACTICE

410.13 Members of the Institute who are mentors in the CARE programme for duration of one (1) year will be entitled to 4 CPE structured hours regardless of the number of the mentee that he has.

Amended on 1 November 2013;
effective 1 January 2014.

PART II: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT AND PRACTICE

Section 420  Description and Designatory Letters

Description and Designatory Letters

420.1 Every professional accountant in describing himself or herself as an accountant in Malaysia shall use the designations “Chartered Accountant”, “Licensed Accountant” or “Associate Member” with the designatory letters “C.A.(M)”, “L.A.(M)” or “A.M.(M)” respectively.

420.2 A professional accountant may use in conjunction with the abovementioned designations or the abovementioned designatory letters any letters or words or a combination of letters and words to indicate -

(a) membership of other professional bodies including the recognised bodies which are specified in Part II of the First Schedule to the Act;

(b) possession of academic degrees or diplomas of institutions of higher learning or any academic post-graduate qualification from institutions of higher learning; or

(c) possession of civil or military honours or decorations.

420.3 A member may use in conjunction with the designations or designatory letters mentioned in section 420.2 above any letters or combination of letters to indicate membership of other professional bodies as specified in Part II of the First Schedule to the Act, provided always that the designatory letters “C.A.(M)”, “L.A.(M)” or “A.M.(M)” shall be used in precedence to all other designatory letters indicating membership of other accountancy bodies.

Section 420.3 was inserted on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

420.4 A member in public practice shall describe his or her firm as a firm of “Chartered Accountants” or as a firm of “Licensed Accountants” as appropriate.

420.5 Every member in public practice who signs any reports or other documents in a professional capacity either as an individual or for and on behalf of the firm shall only use the designations “Chartered Accountant” or “Chartered Accountants” or “Licensed Accountant” or “Licensed Accountants” to describe that member in public practice or the firm in the report or documents.
Section 430  Public Practice Programme

Public Practice Programme

430.1  (1) All professional accountants are required to attend and complete the Institute’s Public Practice Programme prior to his/her application for a practising certificate, if:

(a) such application is made for the first time, pursuant to Rule 9 of the Malaysian Institute of Accountants (Membership and Council) Rules 2001; or

(b) such application is a re-application and the earlier or first application for a practising certificate was made prior to 1 July 2006.

Amended on 1 November 2013;
   effective 1 January 2014.

(2) The Council or any other Committee so delegated by the Council for this purpose, may reject the application of any professional accountant for a practising certificate if there is non-compliance with the above requirement without valid reason. Any professional accountant aggrieved with such a decision, may appeal to the Council whose decision on the same is final.

Amended on 29 May 2012;
   effective immediately.

(3) The Council may grant an exemption from the Public Practice Programme requirement to any member it deems fit.

Section 430.1(3) was inserted on 18 Sep 2012;
   effective immediately.

430.2  (1) The Certificate issued for this programme shall only be valid for 3 years from the date of attendance, for a member who has the intention to apply for an audit licence from the Ministry of Finance.

Amended on 1 November 2013;
   effective 1 January 2014.

(2) In the event that the Certificate is no longer valid, the member would be required to attend the programme again prior to submission for application for audit licence.

Section 430.2(1) and (2) was inserted on 18 Sep 2012;
   effective immediately.

Section 500 Method of Practice

Method of Practice

500.1 A member in public practice is not allowed to practise as a chartered accountant or licensed accountant other than:

(a) in his or her own name, or

(b) in the name or names of his or her partner or partners, being chartered accountants or licensed accountants; or

(c) in the name of a firm existing at the time of the coming into operation of the Act or formed thereafter provided that the partners in Malaysia are eligible to be registered as chartered accountants or licensed accountants.

The previous Section 500.1 was replaced with Section 500.2 on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

500.2 Subject to section 500.1, a member in public practice shall be allowed to practice as a chartered accountant or licensed accountant in the name of a local or international firm, which is affiliated to the member in public practice, provided that the use of such name is with the consent of the relevant local or international firm.

Section 500.2 was inserted on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

500.3 (1) A member in public practice should not allow the name of the firm to be used by any organisation to conduct business that is incompatible to public practice or which would bring the profession to disrepute.

(2) A member in public practice should not report or express an opinion on financial statements examined for the purposes of such report or opinion by a person other than a staff or member of his or her firm, unless such other person is also a member in public practice, except for entities which are incorporated or operating outside Malaysia.

(3) A member in public practice should not assist by any means and in any manner whatsoever any person who practises or holds himself or herself out as a chartered accountant, auditor, tax consultant, tax adviser or any other like description in contravention of the Act or any other law for the time being in force in Malaysia.

500.4 Subject to paragraph 500.6, a member in public practice should not allow any person who is not a member of the Institute to practise in partnership with him or her as a chartered accountant/licensed accountant or to practise in his or her name as a chartered accountant/licensed accountant.

500.5 (1) A member who is not entitled to be a member in public practice is not allowed to-
(a) hold himself or herself out to be a member in public practice in any manner whatsoever;
(b) provide public practice services as a chartered accountant, auditor, tax consultant or tax adviser or any services of a similar nature that may indicate or be likely to lead persons to infer that he or she is a member in public practice or qualified by any written law to practise the profession of or is in practice as a chartered accountant.

(2) Notwithstanding paragraph 500.5(1), the aforesaid member may carry on the work of a tax consultant or a tax adviser if authorised to do so under section 153 of the Income Tax Act 1967.

(3) A member who is registered with the Institute as a licensed accountant is not precluded by paragraph 500.5(1) from carrying on any practice in which he or she was professionally engaged immediately before the coming into operation of the Act.

500.6 (1) A member may subject to these by-laws, participate as a director in a limited or unlimited company which offers taxation, tax advice, taxation consultancy services, accounting and all forms of accounting related consultancy, accounting related investigations or due diligence, forensic accounting, book keeping, costing and management accounting, insolvency, liquidation, receivership, management systems and internal controls and secretarial services under the Companies Act 1965, provided that in doing so -
(a) the member and/or the company does not contravene any written law; and
(b) the company is not in any way described as Chartered Accountants or Licensed Accountants.

(2) Where members participate as directors in limited or unlimited companies in the manner as stated in paragraph 500.6(1), such members are -
(a) deemed for the purposes of these by-laws to be members in public practice whereby members are required to hold valid practicing certificates and the provisions of the rules of the Institute and these

by-laws with the appropriate modifications, apply to such members; and

(b) cause the companies to comply with these by-laws provided such members hold the majority interest and/or voting rights whether directly or indirectly in the companies.

Section 500.6(1) and 500.6(2)(a) was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

Establishment and Registration of Member Firm

500.7 Every professional accountant prior to commencement of public practice should apply to the Institute for approval of the proposed name of the intended firm or practice.

500.8 (1) Where an application is made pursuant to paragraph 500.7, the Council or any other Committee so delegated by the Council for this purpose must be satisfied that the proposed name of the intended practice does not duplicate the name of an existing member firm and is not a name which in the opinion of the Council is undesirable, before approval is granted.

Amended on 29 May 2012; effective immediately

(2) Any professional accountant aggrieved with such a decision, may appeal to the Council whose decision on the same is final.

500.9 (1) Every member in public practice is required to -

(a) register his firm with the Institute by informing the Institute in writing of the name and address of his or her firm and the addresses of any branches and any other relevant particulars requested by the Institute;

(b) inform the Institute of any changes in respect of the particulars referred to in sub-paragraph (a) within one (1) month thereafter;

(c) if the firm is associated with any other firm of accountants, register such association whether local or overseas with the Institute and this must be supported by evidence; and

(d) upon registration of his firm with the Institute, lodge an annual return with the Institute by 31 January of each calendar year despite the fact that there may be no changes in particulars to the firm.

(2) Where the member is practising in a partnership, only one partner of the firm is required to lodge the annual return on behalf of the firm.
PART II: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT AND PRACTICE

500.10 Upon registration of the firm pursuant to paragraph 500.9, the Institute will issue the firm a certificate of registration which -
   (a) states the firm’s registration number and that the firm is a member firm of the Institute;
   (b) is required to be displayed at the premises of the member’s firm; and
   (c) has to be surrendered by the member in public practice to the Institute upon the dissolution of the firm or change of name of the firm.

500.11 A member in public practice whose firm has been duly issued a certificate of registration pursuant to paragraph 500.11 and who is in compliance with these by-laws may insert the logo of the Institute on any printed or electronic publication materials issued by the firm whereby the options are –
   (a) to insert the words “A Firm Registered with the Malaysian Institute of Accountants” under the logo; or
   (b) to insert the words “Member Firm of” above the logo;
   (c) the logo can be either in “full colour” or in “black and white” or in “black and grey” and should be used in accordance with the guidelines issued by the Council from time to time on the use of the logo.
   (d) MIA logo shall only be used in any manner that is deemed fit and proper for the material type.

Amended on 6 December 2012; effective immediately

500.12 (1) Every member in public practice is required to state his/her firm's number immediately after or below the firm's name, in official letters, accounts, invoices, official notices, publications, bills of exchange, cheque, receipts, requisition forms and other like documents issued by the firm.

(2) The firm number means, in the case of firms providing audit services, the number allocated by the Companies Commission of Malaysia when the firm was first registered with the Registrar, or in the case of firms providing public practice services other than audit services, the number allocated by the Institute.

Branches

500.13 A member in public practice should not allow the member firm including any branches of the member firm to be under the management and control of a person who is not a member of the Institute. It is the duty and responsibility of a member in public practice to ensure that any branch of his or her firm is under the management and control of a member of the Institute.
PART II: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT AND PRACTICE

Section 510  Professional Indemnity Insurance

Professional Indemnity Insurance

510.1 Every member in public practice is required to ensure that his or her firm carries and maintains a policy of professional indemnity insurance.

510.2 Members in public practice are required to purchase policies from licensed insurance companies.

510.3 (1) Every member in public practice must maintain a policy of professional indemnity insurance with a minimum coverage of Ringgit Malaysia Two Hundred Fifty Thousand (RM250,000.00), upon commencement of public practice.

Amended on 29 March 2012; effective 1 July 2012

(2) Proof of such coverage is required for the purpose of the annual renewal of the member’s practising certificate pursuant to Rule 9 of the Malaysian Institute of Accountants (Membership and Council) Rules 2001.

(3) The Council or any other Committee so delegated by the Council for this purpose, may reject the application of any professional accountant for the renewal of the practising certificate if there is non-compliance with the requirements of Rule 9 of the Malaysian Institute of Accountants (Membership and Council) Rules 2001 or with the above requirement without proper excuse. Any professional accountant aggrieved with such a decision, may appeal to the Council whose decision on the same is final.

Amended on 29 May 2012; effective immediately

510.4 Where a member in public practice carries on practice under more than one firm, that member is required to have separate policies of professional indemnity insurance with a minimum coverage of Ringgit Malaysia Two Hundred Fifty Thousand (RM250,000.00) each, for himself or herself in each of these firms.

Amended on 29 March 2012; with effect from 1 July 2012

510.5 Where members choose to practice as a compound firm (herein defined as a mixture of firms as well as body corporate recognised by the Institute as practising under a group), one of the member within the compound firm can be nominated to arrange for the insurance need of the compound firm under one single policy. Any other Committee so designated by the Council must be satisfied that the compound firm has shown that together, they comply with Section 510.4 above

Amended on 29 May 2012; effective immediately

510.6 All members with practising certificates should satisfy themselves that they or their firm (including the compound firm) have suitable arrangements in place to comply with the By-Laws on the professional indemnity insurance of the Institute at all times.

CONDUCT AND PRACTICE

Section 520  Death or Incapacity of a Sole Practitioner

Death or Incapacity of a Sole Practitioner

520.1    Unless appropriate arrangements have been made, the continuing incapacity or death of a sole practitioner will cause considerable difficulty and inconvenience to clients. Furthermore, the resultant interruption of services will diminish the value of the practice and may even lead to its disintegration.

520.2    It is therefore important for a sole practitioner, to protect both his or her own interests as well as the interests of the clients, to enter into such arrangement as provided by Section 520.4 of this By-Laws as will enable the practice to be carried on with a minimum of dislocation in the event of incapacity or death.

Amended on 18 September 2012; effective immediately

520.3    Such arrangements should be made within two (2) years from the date the sole proprietorship was set up and should provide, so far as possible, for the practice to be continued as a going concern until such time as the sole practitioner recovers or the representatives of his or her estate decide to dispose of the practice.

520.4  (1)    A member in public practice who is a sole practitioner is required to enter into an arrangement to enable the practice to continue with minimum disruption in the event of death or incapacity, in either of the following ways:

(a)    by entering into an agreement with another sole practitioner or with a member firm; or

(b)    by satisfying the Council that other adequate provision has been made.

(2)    All agreements shall be formalised in writing.

(3)    Members in public practice shall ensure that their executors and family are aware, in the event of death or incapacity, of the arrangements made for the management of the practice.

Section 520.2 was inserted on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.
PART II: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT AND PRACTICE

520.5 (1) An arrangement, reciprocal or otherwise, between two sole practitioners may be appropriate. Alternatively, in many cases it will be advantageous for a sole practitioner to enter into an arrangement with a member firm.

(2) Although such an arrangement may take the form of an agreement to manage, an arrangement for the sale of the practice on a predetermination basis may in many cases be more satisfactory.

(3) When such arrangements are under consideration, the compatibility of the respective practices, especially in relation to audit procedures, fees and the general state of the work in both offices, should be borne in mind.

PART II: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT AND PRACTICE

Section 540  Referrals

540.1 Where a member in public practice receives an assignment by referral from another member in public practice, that member in public practice should not provide any other professional services to the referring member's client without informing the referring member.

540.2 At all times, a member in public practice who accepts a referral from another member in public practice should not do anything that will impair the position of that member in the continuing work for the client.

Section 550  Quality Assurance and Practice Review

Quality Assurance

550.1 Every member in public practice is required to ensure that his or her firm complies with all applicable professional standards for the purposes of assurance as to the quality of the public practice services provided by the firm whether through that member, his or her partner(s) and/or employees. In doing so, every member in public practice has to ensure that the firm adopts and applies policies and procedures designed to maintain adherence to professional standards.

Section 550.1 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

550.2 The professional standards which are required to be observed and applied by a member in public practice to the extent applicable to the type of public practice services provided by that member or the firm, include:

(a) all standards and statements of professional conduct and ethics in the form of the Institute’s By-Laws in issue from time to time;

(b) all approved standards whether issued by the Council or otherwise, and all guidelines, statements and/or circulars of best practices issued or prescribed by the Council and/or the Institute from time to time.

Section 550.1 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

Practice Review

550.3 The Institute has established its Practice Review programme pursuant to the Council’s Statement on Practice Review issued on 15 November 2002 together with its supporting appendices which are set out in Appendix VI to these by-laws. Appendix VI forms part of this section.

550.4 The objective of practice review programme is to ensure that all members in public practice comply with all applicable professional standards, legal and regulatory requirements in the performance of their work.

Section 550.4 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.
PART II: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT AND PRACTICE

550.5 The Practice Review programme does not set new professional standards. Rather, the professional standards that the members in public practice and/or their firms are expected to comply with are those already prescribed by the Institute and which are summarised for convenience in paragraph 550.2 above.

Section 550.5 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

550.6 All members in public practice through their firms are required to submit to and undergo the Institute’s Practice Review programme as established pursuant to the Council’s Statement on Practice Review in Appendix VI to these by-laws.

Section 550.6 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

550.7 The Practice Review programme is conducted by the Institute through its Practice Review Committee in accordance with the Council’s Statement on Practice Review in Appendix VI to these by-laws, any other directions issued by the Council from time to time and in accordance with any other procedures and processes as may be determined by the Practice Review Committee.

550.8 Each member in public practice shall ensure that his or her firm comply with the requirements contained in the Council’s Statement on Practice Review in Appendix VI to these by-laws, any other directions issued by Council from time to time and with any other procedures or requirements imposed by the Practice Review Committee for the purposes of carrying out the practice review pertaining to that member’s firm.

Section 550.8 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

550.9 The Practice Review programme will be conducted over a cycle of not more than five (5) years or such other period as determined by the Council in respect of member firms which are primarily selected in accordance to a risk based approach.

Section 550.9 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

550.10 This section, unless otherwise determined by the Council, only operates in respect of members in public practice and their firms who provide among others, audit services.

Section 550.10 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.
PART II: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT AND PRACTICE

Practice Review Fees

550.11 (1) Each member in public practice shall ensure his or her firm will settle in full, the fees if any, in respect of the practice review conducted pertaining to that firm including any interim fees, as may be charged and determined by the Practice Review Committee for that firm. Such fees are due and payable within 30 days of the date of the invoice raised for this purpose. Non-payment of practice review fees in full, which are due and payable as aforementioned, may lead to disciplinary action against the defaulting member firm.

Section 550.11 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

550.12 The fees, if any, that are charged for the practice review are based on hourly rates as approved by the Council on the recommendation of the Practice Review Committee. Such fees are in respect of the time involved in the planning, execution and reporting of the practice review.

PART II: BY-LAWS ON PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT AND PRACTICE

Section 560  Engagement Partners

Engagement Partners

560.1  The engagement partner shall take responsibility for the overall performance and quality on each audit engagement to which that partner is assigned, including:
   (a) The importance to audit quality of performing work that complies with professional standards and applicable legal and regulatory requirements;
   (b) The importance to audit quality of complying with the firm’s quality control policies and procedures as applicable;
   (c) The importance to audit quality of issuing auditor’s reports that are appropriate in the circumstances;
   (d) The engagement team’s ability to raise concerns without fear of reprisals; and
   (e) The fact that quality is essential in performing audit engagements.

560.2  Throughout the audit engagement, the engagement partner shall remain alert, through observation and making inquiries as necessary, for evidence of non-compliance with relevant ethical requirements by members of the engagement team.

560.3  If matters come to the engagement partner’s attention through the firm’s system of quality control or otherwise that indicate that members of the engagement team have not complied with relevant ethical requirements, the engagement partner, in consultation with other in the firm, shall determine the appropriate action.

560.4  Any report or notice required to be signed by a partner of a firm appointed as auditor of a company shall be signed by the engagement partner.

560.5  The engagement partner shall be held responsible for the report and/or notice that has been duly signed.

560.6  The engagement partner shall form a conclusion on compliance with independence requirements that apply to the audit engagement. In doing so, the engagement partner shall:
(a) Obtain relevant information from the firm and where applicable, network firms, to identify and evaluate circumstances and relationships that create threats to independence;

(b) Evaluate information on identified breaches, if any, of the firm’s independence policies and procedures to determine whether they create a threat to independence for the audit engagement; and

(c) Take appropriate action to eliminate such threats or reduce them to an acceptable level by applying safeguards, or if considered appropriate, to withdraw from the audit engagement, where withdrawal is possible under applicable law or regulation. The engagement partner shall promptly report to the firm any inability to resolve the matter for appropriate action.

Section 560 was inserted on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

APPENDIX I

Additional Guidance on Confidentiality for Section 140

In addition to the requirements in Section 140, professional accountants should also consider the additional guidance for the following situations:

Seeking Additional Advice

Where a professional accountant is in doubt as to whether he or she has a right or duty to disclose, that professional accountant may, if appropriate, initially discuss the matter within the firm or employing organisation. If that is not appropriate, or if it fails to resolve the issue, the professional accountant should seek legal advice.

Evidence in Court

Where a professional accountant is requested to appear before a Court of law as a witness against a current or former client or employer as the case may be, the professional accountant is only legally obliged to do so if served with a subpoena or other form of witness summons. In legal proceedings, the professional accountant should answer any questions that are put, even though this may require the disclosure of information obtained in a confidential capacity but guidance may be sought from the Court on whether there is an obligation to answer particular questions.

Assistance to Authorities

If a professional accountant is requested to assist the police, the Inland Revenue Board or other authority by providing information about the business affairs of a client or employer in connection with enquiries being made, the professional accountant should first enquire under what statutory authority the information is requested. Unless the professional accountant is satisfied that such statutory authority exists, no information should be given until authorisation has been obtained from the client or employer. If such statutory authority is not forthcoming and the demand for information is pressed, the professional accountant should not accede unless so advised by his or her legal advisor. The position is the same whether the enquiries relate to a civil or criminal matter.

Procedures for Seeking Professional Clearance for Section 210

When seeking professional clearance upon a change in professional appointment, professional accountants are required to comply with the following procedures:

1. Upon receipt of a request for information on whether it would be appropriate to accept the engagement, the existing professional accountant should:
   (a) reply in writing normally within 14 working days of receipt of such request, advising whether there are any professional reasons why the professional accountant in public practice should not accept the engagement; and
   (b) if permission is obtained from the client, disclose all such information or if permission is not so obtained, disclose that fact, to the professional accountant in public practice.

2. If the professional accountant in public practice does not receive a reply to the request for information from the existing professional accountant after the expiry of 14 working days of such request, the professional accountant in public practice should:
   (a) send a reminder to the existing professional accountant by registered post or despatched by hand or by similar means; and
   (b) if no reply to such reminder is received within 14 working days after sending the reminder, endeavour to communicate with the existing professional accountant by some other means or try to obtain information about any possible threats by other means such as through inquiries of third parties or background investigations on senior management or those charged with governance of the client.

3. If the requested information is not obtained or if the professional accountant in public practice receives a reply from the existing professional accountant that client permission to disclose information has been refused, the professional accountant in public practice should consider whether, taking all the circumstances into account, it is appropriate to accept the engagement.

4. Where a decision is made to accept the engagement, the professional accountant in public practice should inform the existing professional accountant of this decision in writing and send the same to the existing professional accountant by registered post or despatched by hand or by similar means.
When dealing with clients’ monies, professional accountants in public practice are required to comply with the following:

1. Clients' monies should be paid without delay into a separate bank account which may be either a general account or an account in the name of a specific client but which should in all cases include in its title the word 'client'. Any such account is referred to as 'a client account'.

2. Where a professional accountant in public practice or the firm receives a cheque or draft which includes both clients' monies and other monies, the same is to be credited into a client account. Once the monies have been received into such client account, withdrawals may be made from that account in respect of such part of the sum received as can properly be transferred to the office account of the firm in accordance with the principles set out below.

3. Save as referred to in paragraph 2, no monies other than clients' monies should be paid into a client account.

4. Drawings on a client account should only be made:
   (a) to meet payments due from a client to the professional accountant in public practice or firm for professional work done for that client provided that:
       (i) the client has been informed in writing, and has not disagreed, that money held or received for the client will be so applied; and
       (ii) a bill has been rendered;
   (b) to cover disbursements made on the client's behalf, or
   (c) to or on the instructions of the client.

5. Money held by a professional accountant in public practice as stakeholder is regarded as clients’ money and should be paid into a separate bank account maintained for the purpose or into a client account.

6. Records should be maintained by the professional accountant in public practice or the firm so as to show clearly the money received, held or paid on account of clients, and the details of any other money dealt with by the professional accountant in public practice or the firm through a client account, clearly distinguishing the money of each client from the money of any other client and from the money of the professional accountant in public practice or that of the firm.
APPENDICES
APPENDIX III

Partner Rotation

1. For a partner who is subject to the rotation provisions in paragraph 2900.151 because the partner meets the definition of the new term “key audit partner,” and the partner is neither the engagement partner nor the individual responsible for the engagement quality control review, the rotation provisions are effective for the audits or reviews of financial statements for years beginning on or after December 15, 2011. For example, in the case of an audit client with a calendar year-end, a key audit partner, who is neither the engagement partner nor the individual responsible for the engagement quality control review, who had served as a key audit partner for five or more years (that is, the audits of 2005–2010), would be required to rotate after serving for one more year as a key audit partner (that is, after completing the 2011 audit).

2. For an engagement partner or an individual responsible for the engagement quality control review who immediately prior to assuming either of these roles served in another key audit partner role for the client, and who, at the beginning of the first fiscal year beginning on or after December 15, 2010, had served as the engagement partner or individual responsible for the engagement quality control review for four or fewer years, the rotation provisions are effective for the audits or reviews of financial statements for years beginning on or after December 15, 2011. For example, in the case of an audit client with a calendar year-end, a partner who had served the client in another key audit partner role for two years (that is, the audits of 2004–2005) and subsequently as the engagement partner for three years (that is, the audits of 2008–2010) would be required to rotate after serving for one more year as the engagement partner (that is, after completing the 2011 audit).

Non-assurance Services

3. Paragraphs 290.156–290.219 address the provision of non-assurance services to an audit or review client. If, at the effective date of the By-Laws, services are being provided to an audit or review client and the services were permissible under the 1 January 2007 but are either prohibited or subject to restrictions under the revised By-Laws, the firm may continue providing such services only if they were contracted for and commenced prior to January 1, 2011, and are completed before July 1, 2011.
Compensation and Evaluation Policies

4. Paragraph 290.229 provides that a key audit partner shall not be evaluated or compensated based on that partner’s success in selling non-assurance services to the partner’s audit client. This requirement is effective on January 1, 2012. A key audit partner may, however, receive compensation after January 1, 2012 based on an evaluation made prior to January 1, 2012 of that partner’s success in selling non-assurance services to the audit client.

(c) Participation in meetings, briefing sessions or discussion groups not organised by the Institute or by any of the recognised bodies as listed in Part II of the First Schedule to the Act and other related bodies, but which have relevance to the accountancy profession.

1. Paragraph (c) of Section 6 of the Accountants Act, 1967 (the “Act”) provides for the Institute, as one of its objectives, to regulate the practice of the profession of accountancy in Malaysia. Paragraph (f) of Section 6 of the Act further states that the Institute shall be generally able to do such acts as it thinks fit for the purpose of achieving its objectives, including that of regulating the profession.

2. In pursuance of the above, the Council of the Institute hereby issues this Statement on Practice Review for the purposes of implementing a practice review programme applicable to all members in public practice as defined pursuant to the Rules and the By-Laws of the Institute.

3. The objective of the practice review programme is to ensure that all members in public practice and their firms comply with all applicable professional standards, legal and regulatory requirements. Essentially through a review of current engagement files, the practice review programme will identify areas where a member in public practice and his or her firm may require improvement in order to comply with professional standards.

Para. 3 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

4. The practice review programme does not set new standards. Rather, the standards that the member in public practice is expected to observe are those already prescribed by the Institute pursuant to the Act, and those prescribed by other regulatory bodies in Malaysia. Details of the standards mentioned above are described in paragraph 11 below.

Para. 4 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

5. This Statement and its supporting appendices set out the conduct and procedures of the practice review programme in general terms. This Statement also provides details of the requirements of the practice review programme, what is expected of a member during the conduct of a practice review, and a brief description of the practice review process.
APPENDICES
APPENDIX VI

6. This Statement comes into operation on 1 January 2003 and unless otherwise stated by the Council of the Institute, shall only operate in respect of members in public practice and their firms who provide, among others, audit services. Compliance with the requirements in this Statement is mandatory.

Para. 6 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

Definition of terms

7. In this statement and its supporting appendices, the following terms have the following meanings assigned to them, unless the context clearly requires otherwise:

ISQCs - International Standards on Quality Control as issued by the International Auditing and Assurance Standard Board.

member in public practice - a member, other than an associate member, who, as a sole proprietor or in a partnership, provides or is engaged in public practice services in return for a fee or reward for such services otherwise than as an employee, and who holds a valid practising certificate. For the purpose of this Statement, this includes a member firm.

practice review - in relation to a member firm, means an examination or review undertaken pursuant to this Statement and the supporting appendices to determine whether applicable professional standards, legal and statutory requirements are being or have been observed, maintained and applied.

Practice Review Committee - a committee established by the Council of the Malaysian Institute of Accountants (the Institute) to conduct practice reviews to determine whether professional standards have been complied with.

member firm - for the purpose of this Statement, a firm of chartered accountants where the sole-proprietor or all the partners are members of the Institute, which is registered with the Institute and which offers among others, audit services.

professional standards - all those professional standards that are required to be complied with by members in public practice from time to time, and which are for the purposes of this Statement, set out in paragraph 11 below.

reviewer - a member of the Institute who is engaged as an employee by the Institute for the purpose of carrying out practice reviews.
APPENDICES
APPENDIX VI

Risk based approach - the method adopted by the practice review programme in selecting member firms for review which would consider all risks that are inherent in member firms, its clients and the environment under which member firms conduct its professional work. Risk factors, such as those affecting the competence and capability of members in public practice and their firms to perform professional work in compliance with professional standards, are determined from time to time to assess their impact on the firms.

Para. 7 was inserted and amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

Scope

Members subject to review

8. All members in public practice offering audit services are required to adhere to the standards prescribed by the Institute. All members in public practice and their firms so engaged, must thus submit to practice review, subject to paragraph 9 below.

Para. 8 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

Exemption

9. Where a member in public practice holding a practising certificate completes a declaration in prescribed form certifying that he/she is not engaged in public practice services in so far as it pertains to audit engagements during the preceding twelve (12) months and does not intend to so practise for the foreseeable future, or that he/she will be discontinuing public practice in so far as it pertains to audit engagements in the immediate future (that is a maximum of three (3) months from the date of selection of the firm), he/she may be exempted from practice review at the discretion of the Practice Review Committee.

Para. 9 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.
Establishment and appointment of Practice Review Committee

10. The Council of the Institute has mandated the establishment and composition of the Practice Review Committee to oversee the conduct of practice review as follows:

(a) The Practice Review Committee shall consist of such number of members, being not less than eight (8), as the Council shall determine and not more than half of them shall also be members of the Council.

(b) All the members of the Practice Review Committee shall be members of the Institute and a majority of them must hold a valid practising certificate and an audit licence currently in force.

(c) For the avoidance of any conflict of interest, a person shall not be a member of the Practice Review Committee and either the Investigation or Disciplinary Committees or a member of the Disciplinary Appeal Board at the same time.

(d) A person shall not be a member of the Practice Review Committee if his firm had been reviewed with a Type 3 grading as described in paragraph 37.

(e) The quorum for any meeting of the Practice Review Committee shall not be less than half of the total number of members of the Practice Review Committee for the time being.

(f) The Practice Review Committee may appoint sub-committees of its members and may delegate to any such sub-committee, with or without restrictions, any of its functions or powers except the power to make a complaint against a member in public practice or a member firm to the Investigation Committee.

(g) The Chairman of the Practice Review Committee shall be a Council Member.

(h) Subject to the provisions, if any, under the Accountants Act, 1967 and any directions issued by the Council from time to time including those contained in this Statement and supporting appendices, the Practice Review Committee or any sub-committee thereof may regulate its own procedures and processes as it thinks fit.

(i) All decisions made by the Practice Review Committee during its meetings, other than those made pursuant to paragraph 36, shall be based on a simple majority of its members who were present in any such meeting.

Para. 10 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

APPENDICES
APPENDIX VI

Directions of Council

Professional standards

11. The Council has from time to time, issued or specified the professional standards which are to be complied with by members in public practice who offer, among others, audit services. These professional standards form the subject matter of the Institute’s practice review programme as herein contained. Practice review however, does not seek to redefine the scope and authority of these professional standards but rather seeks to enforce them within the parameters so specified. For the time being and for the purposes of this Statement, the professional standards which will be examined under practice review are as follows:

(a) all standards and statements of professional conduct and ethics in the form of the Institute’s By-Laws in issue from time to time, in so much as these standards and statements relate to the conduct of audit engagements and/or that of the member firm;

(b) all standards and statements of accounting in the form of the approved standards and pronouncements issued by the Malaysian Accounting Standards Board (“MASB”) from time to time in so far as significant departures therefrom may affect the requirement for financial statements to give a true and fair view of the affairs of the entity being audited; and

(c) all approved auditing standards including International Standards on Quality Control, and guidelines and statements of best practices in issue from time to time. This will also include Recommended Practice Guides (RPG), statements and circulars issued in relation to audit engagements and the practices of a member firm.

Para. 11 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

Scope

12. The Council has directed the Practice Review Committee to conduct practice reviews pursuant to this Statement and its supporting appendices, in order to determine that the professional standards specified in paragraph 11 above are complied with by all member firms, subject to paragraph 9 above.

Para. 12 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

Extent of powers

13. Practice reviews will be performed by one or more reviewers. In order to ensure proper administration of the practice review process, the Practice Review
APPENDICES

APPENDIX VI

Committee is allowed to exercise its full powers as provided in this Statement and pursuant to any other directives issued by the Council without restriction.

Para. 13 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

Para. 14 Panel of Reviewers was removed on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

Conduct of Practice Reviews

Objective

14. Essentially, a practice review entails, among other things, a review of current audit engagement files and related financial statements to ascertain that the member firm is adhering to professional standards. Where a member firm is not following professional standards in certain situations, suggestions and recommendations for improvement may be made, and possibly followed by a further review.

A summary of the practice review procedures designed to meet the above objective is contained in Appendix A herein.

Para. 14 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

Selection of member firms for review

15. The Practice Review Department will select member firms for review based on a risk approach and will determine the order of review.

Para. 15 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

16. Member firms may also be selected for review based on referrals from other regulatory bodies in Malaysia or other committees of the Institute. The Practice Review Committee shall, at its sole discretion, determine whether to undertake the review of any member firm as mentioned above.

17. Over and above the selection basis mentioned in paragraph 15 above, newly registered firms will be selected randomly for review annually. However, these firms need to be registered at least eighteen (18) months earlier so as to be eligible for selection in order to ensure the availability of working papers for completed audits.
APPENDICES

APPENDIX VI

Para. 17 was inserted on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

18. Upon the selection of the member firm to undergo the practice review process, the member firm will be duly notified within a week in writing via registered post by the Institute.

   Para. 18 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

19. The identity of the member firm shall be kept confidential from all parties including the Practice Review Committee and those staff of the Institute not directly involved in practice review, save for those relevant reviewers who are directly involved in the review of that member firm and those regulatory bodies as mentioned in paragraph 25(3).

   Para. 19 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

20. Where the member firm selected has branch offices or associated practices under more than one name, in so far as possible, the practice review will be conducted to cover all these branches or associated practices at the same time. Members in public practice should ensure that the Institute is aware of all modes of practice conducted by them in order that this can be facilitated.

Notifications

Previous Para. 21 and 22 were removed on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

21. Enclosed with the notification letter will be a Practice Review Questionnaire (the Questionnaire). The member firm should complete the Questionnaire and return the same through the member firm’s designated practitioner (the sole practitioner, the senior partner or other partner designated as responsible for practice review), along with all information requested, to the Institute within the required period as may be stipulated in the notification letter.

22. The reviewer assigned to the member firm will be responsible for arranging the on-site practice review visit, which will normally be scheduled within six (6) weeks of such notification. The member firm shall notify the Institute immediately if they consider the timing of the visit to be inconvenient and shall specify the reasons thereto. Another date will be arranged by mutual consent such that the review will be held within four (4) months of such notification. Any further extension is at the reviewer’s sole discretion and shall only be granted for valid reasons.
APPENDICES
APPENDIX VI

23. The member firm shall be given reasonable notice of the selection of client files for inspection. The selection of client files is made by the reviewer from the most current client listing as provided by the member firm. Such listing must be certified as complete by the member firm prior to the selection of sample files. As a rule of thumb, the member firm should always ensure that all current audit engagements which are representative of the operations of the firm should be readily retrievable during the on-site practice review. For the purposes of the practice review, such current audit engagement files refers to engagements which have been signed off in the past eighteen (18) months up to the date of the on-site practice review or any other dates that can be reasonably accepted by the reviewer as a practical alternative.

Arrangements for review

24. On-site practice review visits will be conducted at the member firm’s registered office or other registered place of business. The member firm should ensure that the reviewer is given access to all offices if there are more than one (1) and is given all reasonable assistance for the proper conduct of the practice review. It is expected that the reviewer will be provided with adequate office facilities for him/her to perform his/her work effectively and efficiently.

Access to documents

25. (1) The following provisions shall apply as regards to any practice review:-

   (a) Any person, to whom this paragraph applies, and who is reasonably believed by a reviewer to have in his/her possession or under his/her control any record or other document which contains or is likely to contain information relevant to the practice review shall:-

      (i) produce to the reviewer or afford him/her access to, any record or document specified by the reviewer or any record or other document which is of a class or description so specified and which is in his/her possession or under his/her control being in either case a record or other document which the reviewer reasonably believes is or may be relevant to the practice review, within such time and at such place as the reviewer may reasonably require;

      (ii) if so required by the reviewer, give to him/her such explanation or further particulars in respect of anything produced in compliance with a requirement under subparagraph (i) as the reviewer shall specify;

      (iii) give to the reviewer all assistance in connection with the practice review which he/she is reasonably able to give.
APPENDICES

APPENDIX VI

(b) Where any information or matter relevant to a practice review is recorded otherwise than in a legible form, any power to require the production of any record or other document conferred under paragraph (a), shall include the power to require the production of a reproduction of any such information or matter or of the relevant part of it in a legible form.

(c) A reviewer may inspect, examine or make copies of or take any abstract of or extract from a record or document which may be required to be produced under paragraph (a) or (b). However, the making of copies should not be extended to cover those of the member firm’s current or previous clients’ listings.

(d) A reviewer exercising a power under this paragraph shall, if so requested by a person affected by such exercise, produce for inspection by such person a copy of his/her staff identification issued by the Institute prior to the commencement of the review.

Para. 25(1)(d) was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

(2) Subsection (1)(a) applies to any member of the Institute employed or involved in the member firm to which the particular practice review relates or to any person employed by or whose services are engaged by such firm.

(3) In the event that the audit engagements files selected for review are in respect of clients from any regulated industry, subsections (1)(a), (c) and (2) shall only apply after the prior consent on access to those files has been obtained by the Institute from the relevant regulatory body(ies).

26. Normally the reviewer will require a copy of the financial statements relating to the client file reviewed. The financial statements will be used as a reference for the Practice Review Committee to assess the adequacy of auditing procedures in relation to the materiality of the items concerned. Before the copy of the financial statements is submitted to the Practice Review Committee for consideration, all references to the client’s name or names and references within the financial statements which could reveal the client’s or the member firm’s identity will be concealed by the reviewer.

27. Subject to paragraph 25(3), where it is considered necessary for the proper completion of the review, a reviewer may request copies of other documentation. In such circumstances, the identity of the client or references which would reveal the identity of the member firm will be concealed by the reviewer prior to the submission of these copies to the Practice Review Committee for consideration.

Para. 27 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.
APPENDICES
APPENDIX VI

Reporting

28. At the conclusion of the practice review, a reviewer is required to make a report to the Practice Review Committee. In doing so, the reviewer shall not name any individual in the report except in a suitably codified manner.

29. A reviewer shall, before making the report required herein, send a dated draft of the reviewer’s report to the member firm concerned, and to each individual (if any) who is named in the report by registered post or recorded delivery addressed to the registered office or registered address of the member firm or the individual, as the case may be.

30. The member firm, following the receipt of the draft report has twenty-one (21) days beginning the day after the day the dated draft is sent to make any submissions or representations, in writing to the reviewer, concerning the dated draft of the reviewer’s report.

31. The reviewer is required to attach any written submission or representation made, to the reviewer’s report in its final form before submitting it to the Practice Review Committee. The reviewer will delete any reference to the member firm’s identity in these written submissions or representations to preserve anonymity.

32. The reviewer will subsequently send to the member firm a copy of the final report as submitted to the Practice Review Committee, by registered post or recorded delivery.

Powers and procedures of the Practice Review Committee

General

33. The Practice Review Committee shall:

(a) determine the practice and procedures to be observed in relation to practice reviews to the extent not set out in this Statement and supporting appendices;

(b) issue instructions to any reviewer on any matter relating to practice reviews or a particular practice review;

(c) do or perform any other thing or act as may be incidental to or which it considers necessary or expedient for the performance of its functions or exercise of its powers under this Statement.
Review and Report

34. After completing the draft report process, the reviewer will forward a copy of the reviewer’s report, any submissions or representations from the member firm (suitably summarised and codified) to the Practice Review Committee for its review.

Follow-up action

35. On receiving the report from a reviewer, the Committee, having regard to the report and any submissions or representations attached to it, may:

(a) make recommendations to the member firm concerned regarding its application or observance of (or lack thereof) professional standards;

(b) require the member firm to address and rectify the non-compliances with professional standards and other weaknesses set out in the report and to confirm the same with the Institute within six (6) months from the date of the report;

Para. 35(b) was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

(c) i. issue an instruction to a reviewer to carry out, within eighteen (18) months after the date of the report, a follow-up review as regards the member firm to which the report relates;

ii. specify in the instruction, the matters as regards which the review is to be carried out; and

iii. instruct the member firm to furnish the Institute with an action plan, within three (3) months after the date of the report, which outlines how the non-compliances with professional standards and other weaknesses mentioned in the report will be addressed. Once the action plan is received, the Practice Review Department will conduct a desk review to ensure the action plan is appropriate. If the action plan is not provided by its due date or it has not been adequately implemented at the time of the follow-up review, a complaint to the Investigation Committee of the Institute may be lodged against the member firm.

Para. 35(c)(i) and Para. 35(c)(iii) was amended and inserted on 1 November 2013 respectively; effective 1 January 2014.

(d) if it is of the opinion that any one or more or all of the partners in the member firm subject to practice review may have failed to observe, maintain or apply, as the case may be, professional standards, then subject to paragraph 36 below, the Practice Review Committee may make a complaint regarding such partner concerned or, in case there is more than one such person concerned, a separate complaint in respect of each of them, to the Investigation Committee of the Institute.

36. Where:–
(a) there exists a potential complaint; and
(b) immediately prior to the commencement of the relevant practice review –
   i. the proprietor or partner to whom the complaint relates had not previously been a partner in any firm at any time when a practice review was carried out as regards that firm; and
   ii. a practice review had not previously been carried out as regards his practising on his own account, the Practice Review Committee shall NOT refer the complaint to the Investigation Committee UNLESS it is decided by a majority of three quarters of its members for the time being that, had the grounds of complaint or any such ground or any matter or matters complained of having been established, the relevant act or omission by such proprietor or partner would have amounted to unprofessional conduct within the meaning prescribed pursuant to Rule 2 of the Malaysian Institute of Accountants (Disciplinary) Rules 2002.

37. The Practice Review Committee shall determine a grading for the report in the following manner:

Type 1 – Satisfactory
Where it considers that minimal significant weaknesses were observed and the member firm has adequately complied with applicable professional standards, legal and regulatory requirements in the performance of its work.

Type 2 – Assurance on compliance required
Where it considers that the member firm has some significant weaknesses which were not pervasive in complying with applicable professional standards, legal and regulatory requirements in carrying out the work in certain areas of the engagements reviewed.

Type 3 – Follow-up review
Where it considers that the member firm has some significant weaknesses which were pervasive in complying with applicable professional standards, legal and regulatory requirements during the course of carrying out the work of the engagements reviewed in which the work performed and evidence obtained thereon were inadequate and/or inappropriate. Thus the basis needed to form the opinions expressed on those engagements was not established.

Para. 37 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.
APPENDICES
APPENDIX VI

38. A follow up review and its ensuing requirements as specified in paragraph 35(c) will be imposed on member firms whose reports were graded as Type 3.
Para. 38 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

39. The Practice Review Committee may, if it deems necessary based on the findings of the reviews concluded, compel the practitioner(s) of any member firm which was graded as Type 3 (i.e. the rating obtained for its first review) to attend training and educational seminars which are conducted by or approved by the Institute.
Para. 39 was inserted on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

40. It is clear that where a potential complaint relates to the first ever review of the individual concerned, whether in the member firm which is the subject of the report, or in any other member firm previously reviewed, no complaint can be lodged with the Investigation Committee unless the conditions set out in paragraph 41 below are fulfilled.
Para. 40 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

41. The Practice Review Committee will, even on a first review, make a complaint against a member where the disregard of applicable professional standards, legal or regulatory requirements amounts to, in its opinion, unprofessional conduct within the meaning prescribed pursuant to Rule 2 of the Malaysian Institute of Accountants (Disciplinary) (No. 2) Rules 2002. In subsequent reviews, the Practice Review Committee can make a complaint where it is of the opinion that the member has failed (or has shown no credible intention) to observe or apply the applicable professional standards, legal and regulatory requirements as expected of him or her.
Para. 41 was amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

42. Where the Practice Review Committee refers a complaint to the Investigation Committee, the reviewer shall disclose the identity of the member(s) in public practice or the member firm as the case may be, as well as submit all reports and files including working papers and correspondence pertaining to the review, to the Investigation Committee for its investigation.

Referral of disputes

43. Where a dispute arises over the powers of reviewers as regards to the access to the documents etc. of the member firm, the reviewer or member firm or both may refer the dispute to the Practice Review Committee. A member firm should refer a dispute to the Practice Review Committee in writing via the Registrar.
APPENDICES
APPENDIX VI

44. Normally, the Practice Review Committee will delegate the determination of such a dispute to a sub-committee chaired by the Chairman of the Practice Review Committee. As far as possible the anonymity of the member firm will be maintained. The Registrar will delete any references to the member firm’s identity from written communications before passing these on to the Practice Review Committee.

45. Where a dispute is referred, after considering any submissions or representations (which shall be in writing) made by the relevant member firm and/or the relevant reviewer, the Practice Review Committee:

(a) shall determine the dispute and communicate such determination to each of the parties to the dispute; and

(b) may issue directions relating to the matter in dispute to such member firm or the reviewer concerned and require such member or reviewer to comply with them.

46. Where a member firm or a member in public practice is required to comply with a direction given by the Practice Review Committee and fails to comply with the said requirement, the Practice Review Committee may make a complaint to the Investigation Committee regarding the member firm or member in public practice concerned on a simple majority basis.

Confidentiality

47. Strict confidentiality provisions shall apply to all those involved in the practice review process, namely the Registrar, reviewers, members of the Practice Review Committee, or any person holding a position who assists any of these parties.

48. Each person referred to in paragraph 47 above shall:

(a) at all times after his/her appointment preserve and aid in preserving secrecy with regard to any matter coming to his/her knowledge in the performance or in assisting in the performance of any function;

(b) not at any time communicate any such matter to any other person; and

(c) not at any such time suffer or permit any other person to have any access to any record, document or other thing which is in his/her possession or under his/her control by virtue of his/her being or having been so appointed or his/her having performed or having assisted any other person in the performance of such a function; provided that the above provisions do not apply in relation to disclosures made in relation to or for the purpose of any investigation and disciplinary proceedings or criminal proceedings and subject to the Institute’s sole discretion, specific requests from relevant statutory bodies and regulatory authorities.

49. In order to enhance confidentiality and impartiality, neither the identity of the member, the member firm or the member’s clients will be made known to the Practice Review Committee. Any report prepared by the reviewer for the Practice Review Committee will only identify the member firm and its clients by code numbers.

50. Where the final practice review report has been issued by the Practice Review Committee and no further action is required, the report, work papers and correspondence pertaining to the review shall be destroyed after one year. Data required for administration purposes shall be retained in order to evidence that a review requiring no further action has been completed and to identify the members and the firm reviewed. Where the Practice Review Committee decides that further action is necessary, all files shall be retained until such further action has been completed to the satisfaction of the Practice Review Committee.

Completeness of Review

51. For practical reasons, not all partners of a member firm that have been selected for practice review will be reviewed individually as regard to the current audit engagement files.

52. However, in most circumstances, the sample of files selected for on-site practice review should be reflective of the firms’ overall operations and size. Appendix B herein sets out a flow chart of a general indication of such file selection.

APPENDIX A

Summary of Practice Review Procedures

Introduction

The Practice Review Committee shall, among other things, determine the detailed practice and procedures to be observed in relation to practice review. The framework for the review procedures as contained herein have been endorsed by the Council and shall act as supplemental to the Statement on Practice Review issued by the Council on 15 November 2002 and which comes into effect on 1 January 2003. These procedures are summarised below and can be categorised into three stages - planning, execution and reporting.

Planning

• Selection of member firms by Practice Review Department
  The Practice Review Department will select member firms using a risk based approach from the register of member firms maintained by the Institute. Each member firm shall have an equal chance of being selected. However, the Practice Review Committee may also, at its sole discretion, review any of the member firms which are referred by other committees of the Institute or other regulatory bodies in Malaysia. All member firms selected will be codified so as to ensure the identities of the firms concerned remain confidential.

  Amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

• Notification
  A member firm will be notified in writing about an impending practice review and will be informed of the assigned reviewer – who is a staff of the Institute.

  Amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

• Notification - Enclosure of Questionnaire
  A Questionnaire will be sent to the member firm for completion together with the notification of practice review.

• Return of completed Questionnaire
  The member firm should complete and return the Questionnaire within one (1) month of receipt. The information will be used for the planning of the review.
In addition, member firms are required to prepare a complete list of their audit clients, suitably arranged if desired, and to provide any other information the reviewer considers necessary to facilitate the selection of a sample of audit engagements, representative of the member firm’s client portfolio, for review.

- Confirmation of visit

An initial date will be proposed by the reviewer for the on-site review to be carried out. Flexibility will be permitted to ensure that members in public practice are not inconvenienced at especially busy periods. The actual on-site review date will be arranged by mutual consent such that the review will be held within four (4) months of notification. Further extension beyond four (4) months will be at the sole discretion of the reviewer.

Amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

Execution

It is estimated that at least two full days will be needed to complete an on-site review for a member firm of a smaller size. However, this is based on the assumption that the member firm concerned has made all the necessary information and documentation available to the reviewer for his review. Reviews of larger firms may take longer to complete.

Amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

- Initial meeting

An initial meeting will be held between the reviewer and a partner of the member firm designated to deal with the review (designated partner). The meeting will usually be held on the commencement of practice review at the office premises of the practitioner (on the first day). The primary purpose of this meeting is to confirm the accuracy of the responses given on the Questionnaire. The description of the system in the Questionnaire may not fully explain all the relevant procedures and policies adopted by the member firm and this initial meeting can provide additional information. The reviewer should have a full understanding of the system and be able to form a preliminary evaluation of its adequacy at the conclusion of the meeting.

Amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

Larger firms which have extensive documentation regarding their practice and procedures (i.e. formal office procedures manuals and audit manuals) will find it unnecessary to document all the controls and will just cross reference the Questionnaire to the relevant sections of their manuals. For firms like these, an additional planning visit will be arranged before the on-site review to review the relevant manuals.
APPENDICES
APPENDIX VI

• Compliance review - general controls
The reviewer may carry out a compliance review of the general controls of the member firm and evaluate the degree of reliance to be placed upon them. The degree of reliance will, ultimately, affect the sample size of audit engagements to be reviewed.

The following five (5) key controls are included in the Questionnaire:
- Independence
- Maintenance of Professional Skill and Standards
- External Consultation
- Staff Supervision and Development
- Office Administration
Member firms are expected to address each of the five (5) key control areas.

In each key control area of the Questionnaire, there are supplementary questions and matters to consider. These are intended to indicate the kind of controls that are expected to be installed and operated within each firm.

All questions are not necessarily relevant to particular types of member firms because of their size and culture etc. However, member firms should still assess their internal control systems to ascertain whether they address the objectives under the five key control areas.

• Selection of audit engagements to be reviewed
The number of audit engagements to be reviewed depends upon:
(a) the number of partners involved in audit engagements in the firms selected; and
(b) the degree of reliance placed, if any, on general quality controls.

For the number of audit engagements to be actually reviewed, please refer to the flowchart in Appendix B as provided herein as a general guideline.

From the clients list as provided and certified as complete, the reviewer, in consultation with the member firm, will proceed to select an actual sample of audit engagements for review. The engagements reviewed should be a balanced sample from a variety of different sized clients covering various industries so that they reflect the “overall performance” of the said firm under review. Accordingly, if the reviewer considers that the actual sample is not representative of the member firm’s audit client portfolio, he may proceed to choose an additional number of files in excess of those as depicted in the enclosed flowchart in Appendix B.

The population from which files are selected for review will be audits completed at least six (6) months preceding the date of the notification letter but not earlier than eighteen (18) months prior to the selection date.

- Review of files
  The reviewer may adopt a compliance approach or substantive approach or a combination selection of both in the review of audit engagement files.

- Compliance approach - audit engagements
  The compliance approach is to assess whether proper control procedures have been established by the member firm to ensure that audits are performed in accordance with approved Auditing Standards and Guidelines and such control procedures are consistently adhered to by the member firm.

  The following six (6) key controls are included in the Questionnaire:
  - Audit File Administration
  - Financial Statements Presentation
  - Review and Evaluation of System of Internal Controls
  - Substantive Tests
  - Audit Conclusion
  - Audit Report

- Substantive approach - audit engagements
  A substantive approach will be employed if the reviewer chooses not to place reliance on the member firm’s specific controls on audit engagements or is of the opinion that the standard of compliance is not satisfactory. This approach requires a detailed review of the audit working papers in order to establish whether the audit work has been carried out in accordance with approved Auditing Standards and Guidelines. Such a review is similar to the type of review performed by the engagement partner/manager during normal audit engagement procedures. This approach is likely to take longer than the compliance approach.

- Closing meeting
  At the end of the on-site review, the factual findings will be verbally discussed with the designated partner of the firm being reviewed or the sole practitioner. During the closing meeting, the designated partner/practitioner has the opportunity to make representations, suggestions and recommendations in relation to the matters raised. The reviewer has the duty of explaining to the designated partner/practitioner the advantages and benefits of implementing suggestions and recommendations for improvements.

At this meeting, the reviewer will only be able to discuss the significant review findings with the practitioner. However, the discussion will not be exhaustive and consequently certain findings and observations not deliberated upon at the closing meeting may be incorporated in the draft report to be sent later to the practitioner’s firm.

Amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

Reporting

The reviewer will prepare a report to the Practice Review Committee (the reviewer’s report), incorporating the factual findings as discussed with the member firm. After review by the Head of Practice Review (or Senior Manager) of the Institute, a dated draft of the reviewer’s report will be sent to the member firm for comments. This process should not take more than two (2) months after the closing meeting. Any comments made must be submitted in writing within twenty-one (21) days. The reviewer will finalise his/her report upon the receipt of the submissions. In finalising the report, the reviewer may make changes to the dated draft he/she considers appropriate in light of the submissions. The submissions will be attached (after properly codified) to the reviewer’s report before it is sent to the Committee for consideration.

Amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

The member firm will be allowed the opportunity to make its representations throughout the review process. It is expected that the on-site closing meeting between the reviewer and the firm will provide an excellent channel for the communication of views concerning the findings and recommendations. In addition, the member firm has twenty-one (21) days to consider the dated draft report and make its formal submissions and representations to the Practice Review Committee through the reviewer.

A meeting of the Practice Review Committee will be held to consider the reviewer’s report and the member firm’s submissions. The Committee may issue a final report to the member firm and instruct the reviewer to perform any follow-up action considered appropriate. The final report can be categorised as follows:-

(a) Such report may contain recommendations on application or observance of professional standards. The member firm may exercise its discretion in considering the course of action to be taken. The Institute will not perform any follow-up procedures to ensure changes are made.
(b) A variation to the type of report as mentioned in (a) above is issued where the member firm is found to have demonstrated some significant weaknesses in certain areas of the work for the engagements reviewed which are considered material enough to bring to the attention of the firm. The said firm should take all necessary actions (including implementing new procedures) to improve the quality of its work. A confirmation is required to be furnished to the Institute within six (6) months after the date of the final report, to declare that the necessary improvements have been implemented.

(c) Finally, there is also a report where a member firm is deemed to have failed to comply with applicable professional standards, legal and regulatory requirements during the performance of its work for the engagements reviewed. In such case, the practitioner is required to draw up an action plan within three (3) months after the date of the final report on ways to overcome the weaknesses identified. In addition, the Practice Review Committee will request the reviewer to perform a follow-up review within eighteen (18) months after the date of the final report. This will allow time for the member firm to take steps to improve its controls system as suggested. If the Practice Review Committee deems necessary, the practitioner(s) concerned may also be required to attend training and educational seminars.

Para. (a), (b) and (c) were amended on 1 November 2013; effective 1 January 2014.

It is possible that where the third type of report reveals extensive weaknesses amounting to unprofessional conduct within the meaning prescribed pursuant to the Malaysian Institute of Accountants (Disciplinary) Rules 2002, the Practice Review Committee can make a complaint to the Investigation Committee for its investigations.

Notes:
(i) The reviewer will decide how many audit engagements will be reviewed within a range at the planning stage.

(ii) The above table only gives a general indication of the number of audit engagements to be reviewed. The exact number and extent of review will be dependent on individual firm’s circumstances.

(iii) As a minimum guide, it is envisaged that the review of one audit engagement file per partner involved in provision of auditing services is to be conducted.
